British Call Hitler's Peace Offer "Old Stuff"

FUEHRER BIDS FOE TO END WAR OR FACE RUIN

Calls Continuance of Fight Senseless.

A partial text of Adolf Hitler's speech appears on page 6.

BERLIN, July 19.—Adolf Hitler today gave Great Britain a "last chance" to make peace or see its empire crushed to pieces by Germany's tremendous military might, which, he said, is "greater now than it was on the eve of the campaign in the west."

In a victory session before members of the reichstag in the Kroll opera house, the master of the European continent offered his enemy peace with this phrase:

"In this hour I feel compelled for the sake of my conscience to address one more appeal to the common sense of England. I believe I can do this because I am not asking for something as a vanquished man, but I am speaking as a victor for common sense. I see no reason why this war must go on."

Terms Not Mentioned.

Hitler did not intimate under what conditions he is ready to come to terms with Britain. He did denounce Winston Churchill, the British prime minister, and the English and the former French governments in violent terms, much to the delight of the audience.

The passage of Hitler's speech which was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm followed his mention of the possibility of peace. He said:

"I know that millions of German men and women glow at the thought that they may finally come to grips with the enemy who declared war on us for the second time."

Again there were cheers when he said that if Churchill insists upon a fight to the finish "I prophesy destruction of a great empire it was never my intention to destroy or harm."

Goering Is Honored.

The historic session of the reichstag was opened by Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's right hand man and founder and commander of the air force—a man whom the Fuehrer named reich's marshal of the empire. Members of the reichstag rose to pay tribute to the memory of the war dead. Then Goering asked the house to rise again to pay homage to the Italian war dead and especially to Air Marshal Italo Balbo, who was killed in Africa.

Five seats in the opera house were decorated with laurel wreaths to honor former occupants. They had fallen on the battlefield.

Ciano in Seat of Honor.

Ciano occupied the seat of honor in the diplomat's box opposite the speaker's stand. He was flanked by his ambassador, Dino Alfieri, and other diplomats in Italian uniforms. Ciano had a copy of the text of Hitler's speech before him and seemed to be studying it closely with an intent frown on his face. Behind him sat an official interpreter. Beside him was Secretary of State Freiherr von Weizsaecker, who discreetly nudged him when Hitler read passages referring to Italy.

Ambassador Alfieri, on the contrary, smiled thruout the speech. He turned his head many times toward German diplomats and rolled his eyes in ecstatic admiration of Hitler's words.

Three Reasons for Speech.

Hitler began his speech by stating that he had summoned the reichstag for three reasons—first, to give the German people an insight into what had happened; second, to express his gratitude to his soldiers; and third, "to appeal once more and for the last time to common sense in general." He repeated German charges that the Versailles treaty had dealt the reich a great injustice.

He said the "appeasement" pact signed in Munich failed because "Jew-

Change Home Defense Chief; Hail Roosevelt

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19.—Great Britain tonight spurned Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's offer of peace as only more of the "same old stuff," replaced Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside as commander in chief of British home forces with Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, and hailed President Roosevelt's speech accepting a third term nomination as a warning against the brand of peace which might come from Germany.

Hitler's speech to the reichstag was discredited. It was said to be "full of false words," and motivated by the hope that he would be able to retain the spoils of victory. His promises were stated to be "untrustworthy." All comment seemed to indicate that the peace offer would be "rightly rejected as was that of last October."

Tries to Fix War Guilt.

Hitler's address also was interpreted as the first feeble attempt to place responsibility for starting the war upon Britain and France and blame for continuing it upon Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Some official circles described the speech as the "same old stuff," and therefore undeserving of official recognition.

Concerning Lieut. Gen. Brooke's elevation to commander in chief of the British home forces, informed quarters said the move was prompted by the feeling that it is "now essential that the command of the home forces should be placed in the hands of a commander in chief with experience in France."

Ironside was raised to the rank of a field marshal. He was kept on the active list, it was explained, so that he might be "available either in an advisory capacity or in command."

Brooke is 56 years old. He is an expert on gunnery and machinery.

British Like Roosevelt's Speech.

All Britain seemed to derive much satisfaction from President Roosevelt's speech in which he told the Democratic convention in Chicago that he would run for a third term.

The press hailed Roosevelt as "another Lincoln" whose promises to support Britain in its struggle against "Hitler tyranny" would prevent weakening of the war effort in this country.

Roosevelt was quoted as describing the world situation as a choice between continuance of civilization and barbarism.

Sees America in War.

The News Chronicle intimated that America herself will be in the war shortly. It said: "If Roosevelt's speech is the keynote of the President's campaign only a rash man would venture to prophesy what America would be saying and doing by November."

The conservative Daily Telegraph was considerably buoyed up by Roosevelt's address. "Nothing could be more emphatic as a declaration both to the American people and the world outside," it asserted.

GERMANS BLAST AT ENGLAND; 150 PLANES BATTLE

Try to Bomb Convoy and Harbor.

LONDON, July 19 (AP).—Adolf Hitler backed up threats to destroy the British empire today with one of the heaviest and widest air raids of the war against this island.

More than 150 German bombers, Messerschmitts, and British fighters were engaged in two battles off the southeast coast, the air ministry announced.

Ten German planes—four bombers and six fighters—were claimed to have been downed, while Britain acknowledged the loss of five fighting planes. Many additional German planes were damaged, the British said.

[The Germans said 15 British planes had been downed with no German losses.]

Two Main Actions.

The air ministry said there two main actions, the first about noon when nearly 70 German bombers attempted to raid a convoy, and the second in the afternoon when 50 other German planes tried to raid a south coast harbor.

Of the attack on the convoy, the ministry's communique said that the "air was filled with battling aircraft as patrolling Hurricanes sped to the attack." As these fights raged British shore batteries fired at Dornier bombers flying near the coast, downing one of them.

In the attempted attack upon the harbor, the air ministry said, one British pilot found himself in the midst of 10 German dive bombers, one of which he shot down.

The southeast coast bore the brunt of the raids, which also hit the northeast, northwest, southwest, Scotland, and Wales and reached almost to Ireland.

Enemy Plane Shot Down.

The air ministry reported late tonight that enemy planes dropped bombs in Scotland, and southeast and southwest England. One enemy plane was shot down in Scotland, where two houses were destroyed, it was said. In southwest England, a railway worker said one Nazi plane had attempted to machine gun several people near a railway station.

British aircraft, meanwhile, made repeated daylight attacks on barge concentrations—apparently being prepared for attack on Britain—near Rotterdam and Boulogne.

Other targets, the air ministry said, included warehouses at Le Havre, the airdrome at St. Omer, near Boulogne, the Nazi naval base tanks, munitions factories and trains, railroad yards and airdromes at scattered places in Germany.

The air ministry said part of the Krupp armament works at Essen was hit by bombs and that a big explosion "made evident the success of the attack."

Bomb Supply Trains.

A British pilot descended to 3,500 feet to drop incendiary bombs on two supply trains south of Soltau, and the resulting explosions continued for a quarter-hour. Bombs straddled the quays at the Emden fuel depot, starting a fire which could be seen 40 miles out to sea, and Bremen and Hamburg oil refineries also were hit, the announcement said.

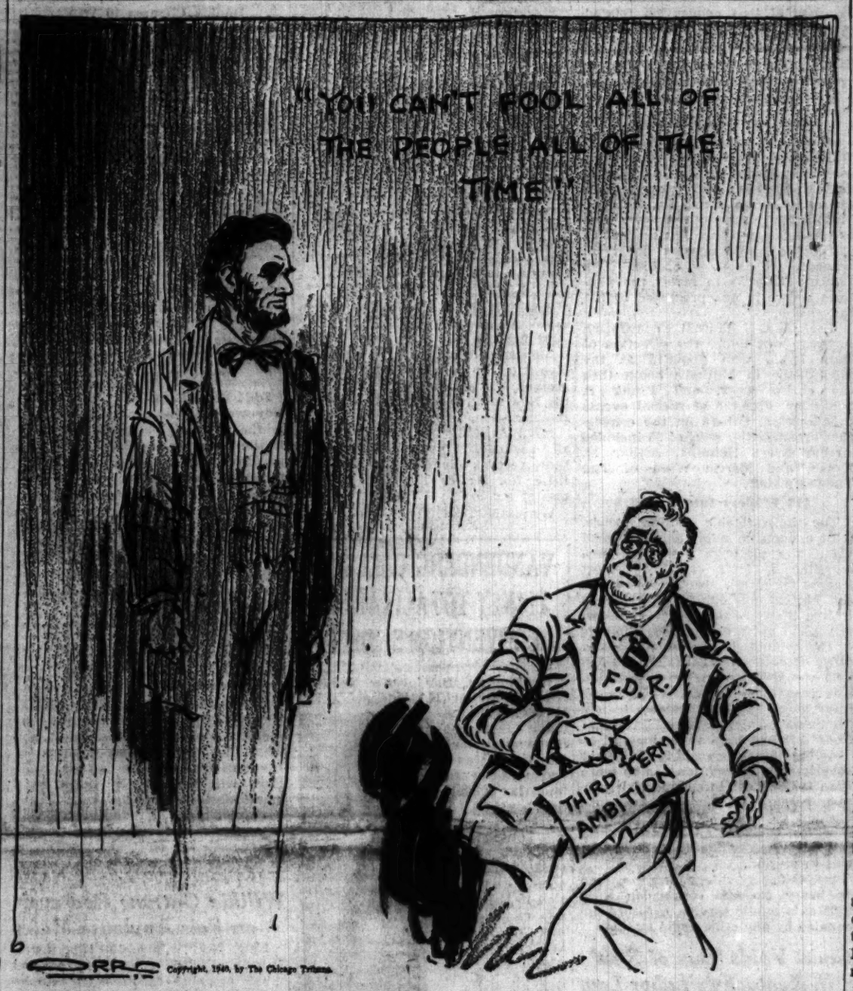
[Damage inflicted by the British air force on German factories in the Ruhr and Rhineland is terrific, according to Germans arriving in Turkey, said a British Broadcasting company announcement picked up in New York yesterday. An eyewitness was quoted as saying that Essen, in the Ruhr, site of the great Krupp munitions plants, had been so severely damaged that work has ceased in that district. The civilian population thruout the region was said to be in a state of severe nervous tension as a result of the continuous raids.]

Germans Claim Successes.

BERLIN, July 19 (AP). [Via Radio].—German airmen shot down 15 British pursuit planes this afternoon in the English channel without suffering losses themselves, it was officially announced tonight by the German wireless.

The announcement followed claims of the high command that new aerial smashes against British harbors and military barracks were successful.

THE MAN WHO DARES TO TRY



50 Tonsorial Quartets Try Their Tonsils

Close harmony came out of the tonsorial parlor and into the ballroom as 50 barber shop quartets turned loose those minor keys in the Stevens hotel last night. Three of them were chosen to vie there tonight in the Illinois finals for the world's championship, to be decided Monday at the world's fair in New York.

To know what the judges were up against it is well to understand just what barber shop harmony is. According to Mark Love, W-G-N basso and one of the judges, it is the harmony that you feel, the harmony that sounds good. That plaintive part that is so appealing is faked, usually by the top tenor and the baritone, with some groggy croaks by the bass.

Key? It's Hard to Say.

"As to the key," said Love, "there isn't any set one. They use all of them, often changing in midcry. You will hear the baritone go zooming up the scale until he meets the tenor coming down. Then, if it sounds good, they go on from there."

That's the way it was last night with the contestants standing in front of an eight foot barber pole. A gigantic open razor lent additional atmosphere.

Some folks think barber shop quartets originated in the tonsorial parlors of small towns where waiting customers whiled away the time with harmany. There was usually a mandolin or a banjo there, 'tis said.

Two years ago close harmony was revived in Oklahoma by O. C. Cash, an oil company executive, who organized the S. P. E. B. S. S. A.—the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America. The current contest is an outgrowth of it.

And Now, the Winners!

Last night's winning groups were the Barber Shop Harmony Four [Paul Niske, Cy Perkins, Ed Young, and Homer Goldman]; the Logan Four [Billy Williams, Frank Kalal, Joseph Runtz, and Ernie Ball], and the State Four [Ed Slahy, Charles Laudgraf, William Brenock, and Charles Miller].

The contestants' average age is 45 years and average girth 44 inches. Their weight? The platform sagged, but held.

The judges, in addition to Love, were Pat Patterson, basso of the radio quartet, Maple City Four, and Capt. Howard Stube, bandmaster at Tilden Technical High school.

"Sweet Adeline," of Course.

Capt. Stube and Love agreed that the ideal barber shop songs are "Sweet Adeline" [of course], "In the Evening by the Moonlight," "Mandy Lee," and "A Little Close Harmony." They make faking easy.

Wesley Patterson, president of the Cicero-Berwyn chapter of the S. P. E., etc., said last night that thousands will get a snatch or two of close harmony at the Chicagoland Music Festival on the night of Aug. 17 when 1,000 of his members and their wives sit in a body and join in the community singing.

PUPPY FALLS 80 FEET INTO RIVER; RESCUED UNHURT

Louisville, Ky., July 19 (AP).—A tiny, seven weeks old bulldog fell to a bridge roadway today from a moving automobile, dropped 80 feet into the middle of the Ohio river, paddled weakly as the current carried it a thousand feet and lived—to break a precedent. United States Coast Guardsman Harry La Fever said the dog, Trixie, was "the only living thing that ever fell or jumped off the municipal bridge and lived." LaFever was in a boat crew that rescued the puppy, apparently unharmed.

MORE LEADERS QUIT F.D.R.; WILLKIE RAPS 'PRETENSE'

President's 'Noble Motives' Are Target.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Denver, Colo., July 19.—Wendell Willkie, Republican nominee for President, gave his first expression today to his reactions to the acceptance speech of President Roosevelt, which he heard over the radio last night. Willkie took his opponent to task for his "pretense of noble motives."

Addressing a crowd of workers in the Denver Union Stockyards from a perch on a truckload of hay, Willkie took a position exactly opposite to that of the President, as far as personal motives were concerned. He would not pretend that he was making an unselfish sacrifice for his country, he said, asserting that he sought the office of President frankly and because he has deep convictions which he wants to present to the people and carry into execution if elected.

He Displays Amusement.

Willkie sat on a lounge in his apartment at Colorado Springs last night and listened to the voice from Washington with ill-concealed amusement for the first part of the address. What seemed particularly to intrigue him was the President's picture of himself lying awake nights wrestling with his conscience and wondering whether he ought to submit to this great sacrifice of personal desire and accept renomination.

In his brief talk today Willkie said:

"I shall make no pretense of noble motives. I am not going to tell you of my unselfish sacrifices in seeking to be President of the United States. I frankly sought the opportunity to run for President on the Republican ticket because I have some deep-seated convictions I want to present to the American people and which, if I am elected, I want to carry into execution.

Knowledge Thru Experience.

"I know something about the democratic way of life, not from books or theorists, but from experience. I have worked on the ranges and the farms. I learned about civil liberties, not in textbooks, but in a hard struggle for survival. I know your aspirations and your hopes. I know your resolve that this great democracy shall be preserved at all hazards.

"If you elect me President you will have someone who understands the everyday problems of everyday people. I have lived them and glory in it. My route was the hard route, not the soft route."

As a young man Willkie worked as a day laborer in the beet fields of Colorado near Fort Collins.

Willkie flew here from Colorado Springs this morning and attended a conference of business men from the Rocky mountain states at the Brown Palace hotel. He then motored to the stockyards, where a luncheon was served him by the Stockyards association. He was led out to a hay truck by Gov. Ralph Carr and presented to the crowd in front of the exchange by John S. Schumacher, president of the National Western Live Stock association.

200 Live Stock Men Attend.

The luncheon was attended by 200 live stock men. Among them were Elmer Brock of Wyoming, president of the American National Live Stock association, and Albert K. Mitchell of New Mexico, former president of the association.

Democrats Irate at Rubber Stamp Nominations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The revolt in the Democratic party, occasioned by the renomination of President Roosevelt in violation of the "no third term" tradition and the selection of Henry A. Wallace, a New Deal left winger, as his running mate, appeared to be attaining nation-wide proportions today.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] predicted as an "inevitable development" the formation of a national organization of Democrats opposed to the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket to support Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee. Senator Burke said he had received hundreds of letters and telegrams from prominent Democrats congratulating him upon his declaration yesterday for Willkie. One of them, James W. Mellen of Los Angeles, said California already has an organization of "Jeffersonian Democrats" and proposed a conference to form a national anti-third term Democratic organization.

Chadwick Swings to Willkie.

Other developments in the Democratic rebellion today included:

1. The Republican national committee headquarters here released a statement by Stephen F. Chadwick of Seattle, Wash., former national commander of the American Legion and a leader in Democratic politics in the northwest, pledging his support of Willkie because he considers a third term "a danger to our democratic processes."

Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington, a New Deal yes man who has been appointed by President Roosevelt to a Washington federal judgeship, is holding on to his senate seat while congress remains in session to prevent Gov. Clarence D. Martin from filling it by appointment. The governor has indicated he probably would appoint Chadwick.

2. Roland Hill, youthful auditor in the general accounting office and 1935 president of the Washington Junior New Dealers club, resigned from his job and said he would campaign for Willkie.

"Slavishly Rubber Stamping."

3. At Philadelphia John M. Hemphill, veteran Democratic leader, appealed to the 600,000 Democrats who voted for him for governor of Pennsylvania in 1930 to support Willkie. Hemphill declared in a statement that the action of the Democratic national convention in Chicago "in slavishly rubber stamping out of existence the essential ingredients of orderly democracy, including the sound and sanctified tradition against the third term, is the straw that breaks the camel's back."

Hemphill rejected the argument that a crisis is upon us and that Mr. Roosevelt is the only man qualified for leadership. "In the matter of national defense and the impact upon us of deplorable world conditions, Mr. Willkie is just as sound and loyal an American as Mr. Roosevelt and is less likely to spend taxpayers' money needed for defense upon Passamaquoddy dams, dream villages and adagio dancing," he added.

Ex-Chairman Jumps Aboard.

4. The Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot, owned and published by Vance C. McCormick, Democratic national chairman during Woodrow Wilson's second administration, tomorrow will announce its support of Willkie.

"Renomination of President Roosevelt," the newspaper will say, "breaks the third term tradition, as well as the hearts of millions of Democrats who had hoped the dangerous and uneconomic policies of the New Deal would be repudiated and the party rededicated to its fundamental principles. . . . Thus far in the campaign . . . Mr. Willkie adheres more closely to the fundamental Democratic faith than do Mr. Roosevelt and his inner associates. As long as Mr. Willkie adheres to these doctrines the course of the genuine believer in Jeffersonian democracy is clear and urgent."

These reports of party bolting encouraged the hopes of Republican headquarters here for wholesale defections from the third term ticket. As previously reported by THE TRIBUNE, many anti-New Deal senators and representatives in congress are expected to abstain from participation in the campaign to reelect Mr. Roosevelt even if they do not declare openly for Willkie.

WALLACE TRIES TO LAUGH OFF PARTY REVOLT

Nominee Discounts Boos at Convention.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace endeavored yesterday to depreciate with a laugh and a few casual remarks the booing and other manifestations of party rebellion that resisted his nomination for Vice President by the Democratic national convention.

At a press conference held in his room in the Palmer House, a few hours before he left by train for his home in Des Moines, Ia., Wallace attributed no importance to the strength and violence of the opposition to his selection as President Roosevelt's running mate.

"It was a Democratic convention—there were other candidates," he said with a chuckle.

Asked About Lucas Statement.

Reminded that Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois intimated from the speakers' platform that it was not "a free and open convention," Wallace said: "Scott Lucas is a very good friend of mine and I don't think he meant that. Scott Lucas will be in there pitching ball for the President."

Wallace tossed off a third casual explanation which did not agree with the statement of high convention officials that Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, floor manager of the third term forces, asked him not to deliver his prepared speech of acceptance. It was not the fear of being booed again but the lateness of the hour that caused him to cancel his acceptance speech and rush away from the convention hall, Wallace contended.

Wallace left the Chicago Stadium at the conclusion of President Roosevelt's acceptance speech, a few minutes before the convention adjourned at 1:05 a. m. yesterday. At his press conference 10 hours later he said he had made no plans for delivering an acceptance speech or for the work he will do in the campaign.

Will Rest in Des Moines.

He will rest a few days in Des Moines before returning to Washington to see President Roosevelt next Tuesday or Wednesday and then will do whatever the President asks him to do, he said.

Wallace yesterday had on the same rumpled gray suit and blue tie he wore to the convention hall the night before. He appeared to be very tired, the effect of the strain of a week's activity as a member of the resolutions committee and candidate for Vice President.

The Vice Presidential candidate declined to discuss questions of policy but had a ready defense for Mr. Roosevelt's breaking of the third term tradition.

"I'll give the same answer I gave in San Francisco last October," he said, when asked about the third term issue: "In a troubled state of world affairs, only one with a unique combination of the qualities of a President can safely steer us thru the troubles ahead."

Traces Political Evolution.

Wallace next traced his political evolution from the Republicanism of his forebears, thru third party La Follette "progressivism," to the New Deal wing of the Democratic party. He explained that his father was secretary of agriculture in the Harding administration and died in office, in 1924, when Coolidge was President. He was a Republican, Wallace said, because he was loyal to his father.

Wallace voted for the elder La Follette, candidate for President on a third party ticket in 1924. He went to the 1928 Republican convention at Kansas City hoping, he said, that former Gov. Frank O. Lowden would be the nominee.

"But I came away convinced that they were not going to give Lowden a break. He was up against the impossible. When Al Smith was nominated I came out for him and made a number of speeches in support of Al Smith in various towns in Iowa. From then on I knew it was impossible to expect any leadership for agriculture from the Republican party."

Changed Registration in 1936.

Wallace said he spoke only for the farmers in his own way in 1928 but that in 1932 he spoke for Roosevelt with Democratic office holders on the platform. It was a slow process getting admitted into the party."

It was not until 1936, Wallace said, that he discovered he still was registered as a Republican. When reminded by a Democratic committeewoman of this circumstance he changed his registration.

Candidate for Governor Quits; Balks Third Term

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 19 (AP).—Lawrence E. Nelson withdrew his candidacy for the Utah Democratic gubernatorial nomination today because:

"My convictions against a third term are so pronounced that I could not, in good conscience, run on a ticket that not only supported a Presidential nominee for a third term, but also permitted that nominee to dictate who the Vice Presidential nominee should be."

Nelson, state senator from Salt Lake county, had campaigned for months.

W-G-N-MUTUAL SMASH RECORDS AT CONVENTION

Air All Sessions; Score Notable Scoops.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system aired the sessions of the Democratic national convention in the Stadium in their entirety, thereby far exceeding the coverage of the convention by any other station or network. This was announced yesterday by the managements of W-G-N and Mutual.

W-G-N and Mutual set the same sort of record in broadcasting the Republican national convention in Philadelphia last month. Mutual's coverage of that convention totaled 33 hours 52 minutes. During the Democratic convention the broadcast time totaled 30 hours, being less because the Democrats were in session a day less than the Republicans.

Platform Scoop Scored.

A notable scoop was scored by W-G-N and Mutual on Wednesday when the major portion of the convention platform was presented on the air by Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual's Washington commentator, two and one half hours before it was read to the convention by Senator Robert F. Wagner. This scoop enabled THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to reveal the platform before it was presented to the convention.

The W-G-N-Mutual convention coverage was under the direction of Quin Ryan, who presided at the microphone in Mutual's booth thru the entire week, and Frank P. Schreiber, director of special events broadcasting. Others on the convention broadcasting staff of 25 included Arthur Sears Henning, Arthur M. Evans, and Marcia Winn of THE TRIBUNE'S staff.

116 Leaders Interviewed.

The indefatigable Fulton Lewis, with a portable microphone, roamed about the platform day after day, coralling a total of 116 political leaders for interviews. The parade to the Mutual microphone included 26 United States senators, 17 representatives, 15 governors, three members of the cabinet, 10 mayors, and many other notables. News that Mrs. Roosevelt would come to the convention was first made known when Lewis interviewed Elliott Roosevelt late Wednesday night, after President Roosevelt had been renominated.

Actual operating costs to Mutual of covering the convention ran to more than $6,000. Loss in commercial revenue, because of canceled programs, has not yet been estimated. Mutual, however, canceled all its early evening programs, when the convention was in session.

W-G-N has given complete coverage to every national convention since 1924 as a public service, a record unequaled by any other radio station.

Court Voids 'Day of Rest' in Kentucky's Labor Law

Frankfort, Ky., July 19 (AP).—A section of the 1940 Kentucky labor law providing "one day's rest in seven" for certain workers was held unconstitutional today by Circuit Judge William B. Ardery, in whose court tests of state legislation originate. Judge Ardery held the section was invalid because of its "arbitrary classification" of hotel waiters as domestics, and thus exempt, altho restaurant waiters came within the law's scope. The controversial section, providing time and a half pay for certain employés working more than 40 hours in seven days, was challenged by a Louisville restaurant operator.

Newspaper Comment on Third Term

Following are editorial comments on the overthrow of the third term tradition by the Democratic national convention. They include not only reaction to the third term nomination but also to the maneuvers which began with the announcement of the message from President Roosevelt by the chairman, Senator Alben W. Barkley.

DETROIT NEWS—Without a showing of displeasure of any sort on the President's part, the situation was created in which no other Democrat had a chance on earth.

PROVIDENCE BULLETIN — He has used his immense powers over federal patronage and federal spending to grab that nomination for himself. If that becomes the practice in these United States, we will henceforth have government by coercion and that is not free government. It is not democracy. It is not government of the people.

Sees Issue Intensified.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE—Incidentally, this dictatorial control thus exercised can hardly fail to intensify the third term issue with the voters. The force which the tradition possesses in an ordinary case is multiplied manyfold when it is challenged by such a President as Mr. Roosevelt, as eager for power and as irritated by constitutional restraint as any head of a Fascist state.

RICHMOND NEWS LEADER—The plain truth is that most of the delegates have no real enthusiasm for a third term.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER — The point is that the President refused steadily to give the convention a real choice. And his final gesture, made thru Senator Alben Barkley, was the crowning absurdity in a long subversion of the real democratic process. It was a bitter, shoddy farce, a tawdry frame-up in a bossed convention.

Liking for Power Cited.

KANSAS CITY STAR—His reason is obvious and simple. He likes power—all men like power. He hates to give it up—all Presidents have hated to give it up. So he has allowed the politicians who have a vested interest in the New Deal to set the stage for his renomination.

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL—It was all beautifully done, reading like those records advertised by the alert little fox terrier listening to "his master's voice."

WASHINGTON STAR—As matters now stand, his nomination for a third term, in the judgment of many Americans, will have about it a quality of artificiality which cannot fail to be cause for profound regret.

Points to World Trend.

ST. LOUIS POST DISPATCH—In a time when the democratic process is on the wane and opportunity for the individual to rise is being denied wholesale in Europe, the party historically known as the party of the democratic rank and file declares its confidence in only one man. . . . The Republicans have an issue. It is an issue that the Democrats, singing and waving banners, gave them on the first ballot at Chicago.

BALTIMORE SUN—So we have President Roosevelt "forced," like the two-bit politician, to run for office once again by pressure of his admirers.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER—One cannot avoid the conviction that this policy on the part of Mr. Roosevelt, reaching its climax in Barkley's statement, has lost himself friends and his party some measure of strength. The public likes fair dealing, in politics as elsewhere.

Doubts Chances to Win.

LOS ANGELES TIMES—For himself and for his party, the results of this nomination maneuver may well be serious. Against a strong and popular opponent, against a powerful antithird term sentiment, and with nothing to offer save an attempted defense of seven years of waste and mismanagement, Mr. Roosevelt's chance to win is dubious at best.

BOSTON HERALD—The President has not only violated a tradition cherished by the people for a century and a quarter but has done so in such a way that they will be resentful and eager for an opportunity to buttress the tradition further. He obtained the nomination in circumstances which cloud the title, taint the office, tarnish his reputation, and bring Presidential practices down to a low level.

Finds Fears Justified.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE:—Now we have the conditions to justify the fears of Washington and Jefferson. We have a Presidency so powerful that any President can dictate his renomination. This has been the case now for two generations. In addition, we have just learned that a President, by skilful maneuvering, can even prevent any other candidate from making an effective appearance before his party, a still further denial of the democratic process. Another point we have learned this week is that a President can acquire such control that he can dictate his party's candidate for the Vice Presidency, a substitution of oligarchy for democracy.

NEW ORLEANS TIMES PICAYUNE.—Thousands of Democrats who regret the violation of the oldest, and what they consider the soundest, of the nation's and the party's traditions will support the ticket as a manifestation of party loyalty, but the great army of independents who hold the balance of political power will decide the election result.

VANDENBERG CALLS TICKET TOTALITARIAN CONVENTION'S 'DITTO'

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP).—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] asserted today that the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket was a product of a "totalitarian convention."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Declaring that a "political dictatorship" had reduced the Democratic convention to the "status of a 'ditto mark,'" Vandenberg told reporters:

"The national defense of democracy against totalitarianism in Europe is a military problem, but the national defense of democracy in the United States against totalitarian Roosevelt is a political question which must be settled next November."

As for the third term issue, the Michigan Republican said it "instantly throws all other issues into bold relief."

"It emphasizes all the hazards, mistakes, and errors of the New Deal, because it proposes to perpetuate them in the personality which is their trade mark," he said.

WILLKIE SCOFFS AT ROOSEVELT'S 'NOBLE MOTIVES'

He Says His Own Contain No Pretense.

tored to the Brighton beet sugar district near Denver and conferred with leaders in this industry. This was Willkie's first contact with agricultural leaders since his nomination. He intends to pursue this further in Iowa.

The selection of Secretary Henry Wallace as Vice Presidential candidate, in Willkie's opinion, gives agriculture a new importance in the Republican campaign.

Willkie today received a telegram from a friend at Bohemian Grove, Cal., in which a message which Irvin S. Cobb, writer, sent to Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, is quoted. Senator Burke came out yesterday for Willkie. Cobb, according to this message, said:

"As a life long Democrat I regret that we have to wait from 1896 to 1940 for a Presidential nominee who was named neither by party bosses nor party patronage. As a life long Democrat I rejoice that a real fellow Democrat has been so nominated, even tho it took a Republican convention to nominate him.

Kelly Machine Mentioned.

"The Kelly machine in Chicago, the Hague machine in New Jersey, were against him. If the leaders thereof weren't snarled up with jail sentences the Long machine in New Orleans and the Pendergast machine in Kansas City would also be against him. It appears that there was nobody much for him except just people.

"But if such antithird term Presidents as Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Buchanan, and Wilson were alive, it seems certain that they would be for him. As a life long Democrat, still seeking the congenial company of practitioners of the political faith of my fathers, please enroll me as a high private in the rear ranks of the Incurable Democrats' Willkie for President club.

"[Signed] IRVIN S. COBB."

Willkie Outruns Roosevelt on Fair Applause Meter

New York, July 19 [Special].—Wendell Willkie got almost twice as much applause as President Roosevelt this afternoon in a new kind of political poll at the world's fair. An electrically operated "applause meter" has been installed over the stage where the American Jubilee, which is written around the Presidential contest, is presented. The meter was tried out today for the first time.

BROOKS, DIRKSEN TO AIR G. O. P.'S VICTORY CHANCES

Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for United States senator, and Representative Everett M. Dirksen of the 16th Illinois district will discuss G. O. P. chances for victory in November in a radio debate with two Democratic spokesmen to be broadcast tomorrow evening from Washington, D. C.

Brooks and Dirksen will be opposed by Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas and Solicitor General Francis Biddle of Philadelphia, Pa. The debate will be on the American Forum of the Air program, beginning at 7 p. m. [Chicago time] over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

In a preliminary debate on the same program July 7 Dirksen and Representative Fred L. Crawford of Michigan argued party prospects with Representatives T. V. Smith of Illinois and Sam Hobbs of Alabama.

ROOSEVELT CATCHES UP ON SLEEP; TAKES CRUISE ON POTOMAC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—President Roosevelt hung a "please do not disturb" sign on the knob of his bedroom door in the White House early this morning and slept a good eight hours.

Arising at about 11 a. m., he left the calendar clear of appointments and departed late this afternoon for an overnight cruise down the Potomac on the Presidential yacht. Upon his return he will go to his boyhood home at Hyde Park, N. Y., for at least several days.

This is the régime the President set up for recuperation from the strenuous hours he put in listening by radio to the Democratic convention in Chicago and preparing the address accepting the unprecedented third term nomination. For the last two nights he had been up until 3 a. m.

The White House declined to elaborate today on the President's cryptic statement in his message last night that "with one exception" every one he has called into service for the national defense program has come to Washington to serve.

15 WOMEN NAMED TO DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE JOBS

Fifteen women assumed places on the Democratic national committee yesterday as newly elected national committeewomen.

One is Helen Gahagan, actress wife of Melvyn Douglas, film actor, who was elected national committeewoman of California. Another is Mrs. James F. Wolfe of Salt Lake City, wife of a justice of the Utah Supreme court who at one time was director of the Democratic women's division.

Others are: Arizona, Mrs. W. P. Stuart; Florida, Mrs. Enid Broward Hardee; Iowa, Mrs. Mary S. Kelleher; Louisiana, Mrs. Roland B. Howell; Maryland, Mrs. Edward J. MOUNT MORRIS FARMER SUICIDE.

Freeport, Ill., July 19 (Special).—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide in the death of Thomas Snodgrass, 55 year old farmer of Mount Morris who was found last night with a rifle bullet wound in his head and died while being brought to a Freeport hospital. He had been despondent because of the death of a son.

FARLEY REMAINS TEMPORARY HEAD OF DEMOCRATS

Pick Committee to Name His Successor.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

In winding up the affairs of the 28th Democratic national convention which renominated President Roosevelt for a third term and named Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as his running mate, the Democratic national committee yesterday appointed a subcommittee of five to wait upon the candidates and select the man who will direct the Democratic election campaign.

The subcommittee will meet Aug. 1 in the White House with the President and Wallace to pick the man who will succeed James A. Farley, generalissimo of the successful 1932 and 1936 New Deal campaigns. The subcommittee members are Edward J. Flynn of New York City, David Fitzgerald of Connecticut, William M. Howes of South Dakota, Mrs. William Jaster of Ohio, and Miss Beatrice Cobb of North Carolina. They are empowered to elect the chairman named by the President.

Farley Keeps Post Temporarily.

In the meantime Farley will remain as party chairman, having been unanimously elected to hold that post until Aug. 17.

In naming the subcommittee, the Democrats borrowed a leaf from the Republican national committee meeting at the close of that party's convention in Philadelphia. The Republican group named a subcommittee which selected Representive Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], house minority leader as party chairman.

The Democrats were forced to follow the Republican lead because Farley, who opposed the third term nomination, submitted his resignation as he had been expected to do, and the two candidates immediately available declined the post. They are Frank Walker, financial director of the 1932 campaign, and Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], stanch administration supporter.

Others In Running.

Farley said the two are still possible successors. He also mentioned Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain; Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, head of the convention strategy board for Roosevelt, and Leo Crowley, head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. Asked if Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is under consideration, Farley said he "hadn't seen Ickes' name mentioned for that."

In notifying the national committee, which met in the Stevens hotel, of his retirement as chairman, Farley said:

"Eight years ago in this city I was elected chairman of the Democratic national committee.

His Reason for Quitting.

"I have remained in public life at great financial sacrifice because I love politics. I have an opportunity now to accept an attractive offer in business and in justice to my family, because of my financial situation, I am going to accept.

"Before leaving, I shall coöperate to the fullest extent with my successor as national chairman in setting up the machinery for the coming campaign. I pledge my full support to the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket."

Other officers of the national committee were reëlected at yesterday's meeting. They are Lawrence W. Robert Jr., secretary; Oliver Quayle, treasurer, and Edward Halsey, sergeant at arms.

He said he plans to remain as chairman of the New York State Democratic committee and direct the Roosevelt-Wallace campaign in the empire state. He reiterated his determination to work for the success of the Democratic party and submerge his third term convictions to the will of the party as expressed at the convention.

He said the Democratic party's campaign headquarters will remain in the Biltmore hotel in New York. He announced proudly that he will turn over to his successor $100,000 which is now in the party war chest.

In the afternoon at a reception for newspaper men who covered the convention Farley was presented with a gold watch. The presentation was made in tribute to his frank and open dealings with the press.

NATIONAL BOARD OF C. I. O. SEAMEN SPURNS 3D TERM

New York, July 19. (AP).—The national council of the National Maritime union [C. I. O.], claiming a membership of 65,000 seamen, today repudiated an endorsement of the New Deal and a third term for President Roosevelt voted at the N. M. U. convention in New Orleans.

The resolution contended that the Roosevelt administration now, "under the guise of national defense, is pursuing a policy that threatens the destiny of all that was progressive in his administration."

The resolution added that the union would support only those candidates for political office who pledge:

1. To oppose American involvement in foreign wars.
2. A program that will meet the people's domestic needs.
3. To maintain and extend all social and labor legislation.
4. To develop peaceful and friendly relations with Latin American countries.
5. To guarantee the preservation of civil liberties as guaranteed by the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and the bill of rights.

Britain Will Accept U. S. Women for Air Auxiliary

LONDON, July 19 (AP). An authoritative British source said today that, if American women pilots should volunteer, they would be accepted for Britain's air transport auxiliary, which ferries warplanes from factories to airdromes. No appeal will be made, however, it was stated.

Singer Wins Divorce

VIVIAN WILDMAN.

Los Angeles, July 19 (AP).—Vivian Wildman, singer and model, was granted a divorce today from Robert Wildman, actor, after she testified "he couldn't make up his mind whether he loved me or not." She charged he took her earnings and allowed her only 25 cents a day.

3 PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS FAIL IN COURT BATTLE

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19 (AP).—Appeals of three Pennsylvania Democrats convicted on charges growing out of a party split during the 1938 Pennsylvania primary were denied today by the state Superior court.

The high court upheld the Dauphin county [Harrisburg] conviction of Roy E. Brownmiller, former state highway secretary; James P. Kirk, former Allegheny county [Pittsburgh] Democratic chairman, and Victor Skok, an associate of Kirk in the bonding business.

Brownmiller, convicted in the lower court of malfeasance and misfeasance in connection with an asserted padded highway payroll was sentenced to a year in jail and total fines of $3,000.

Kirk and Skok were convicted of conspiracy to direct state highway bonding business to their own firm. At the same trial, H. H. Temple, former highway department chief engineer, was acquitted on the same charges.

The two western Pennsylvania men were sentenced prior to their appeal, Kirk to pay a $2,500 fine and Skok $1,500.

Brownmiller served as highways secretary during the last year of the administration of former Gov. George H. Earle, now minister to Bulgaria.

GERMANS SAY THAT ROOSEVELT PROLONGS WAR

BERLIN, July 19 (AP).—Political circles, commenting today on President Roosevelt's acceptance speech, privately made no secret of their opinion that by aiding the axis' enemies, the President is prolonging the war.

His reference to the necessity of national unity was met with the rejoinder that "the greatest traitors were those Germans and Italians who went to America and were incited against the authoritarian states. Fascism and Nazism, they held, do not enslave the people nor interfere with social justice, as the President declared.

Official sources were silent.

Lightning Starts a Fire; Mother and 4 Children Die

Newberry, Mich., July 19 (Special).—A mother and her four children died when lightning set fire to their home near here today. The victims were Mrs. William Dekelp; Mildred, 7 years old; Leona, 5; Dorothy, 4, and a four month old infant. The father was away at work.

WOMEN OF G. O. P. OPEN OFFICE FOR CAMPAIGN FIGHT

Ready to Wage Intensive Battle for Willkie.

Organization of national headquarters for the Willkie-McNary Republican ticket went forward yesterday with establishment of the women's division of the G. O. P. national committee at 120 South La Salle street, where other units of the committee also are housed.

Marion E. Martin.

Miss Marion E. Martin of Bangor, Me., is in charge of the women's group. John D. M. Hamilton, former national chairman and now executive assistant to the present chairman, Joseph W. Martin Jr., is the general head of the offices.

Indianan to Take Desk.

Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds, national committeewoman for Indiana and a vice chairman of the national committee, will arrive Monday to maintain a desk in headquarters until the November election. The Chicago headquarters also will be the campaign office for the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, which has a membership of 250,000 in 34 states.

"The women's division is prepared for an intensive campaign," Miss Martin said. "The issues are clear cut. Women particularly are aroused over the third term issue and its threat to American liberties and security.

Work to Support Ticket.

"Women everywhere, of Republican, independent, and Democratic leanings, are rallying wholeheartedly to support Wendell L. Willkie and Charles L. McNary. Their eagerness to work for the Republican party and its candidates is assuming amazing proportions."

The La Salle street campaign headquarters is distributed over portions of five floors of the building but the aggregate space is far less than the 1936 headquarters in the McCormick building, 332 South Michigan. About 100,000 square feet of space was used that year but at present only about 20,000 square feet are marked for campaign offices. This space may be doubled when all divisions are active.

KITTY DAVIS BAR OPERATORS GET QUIZ BY POLICE

Katherine Davis and her husband Daniel, operators of Just Kitty Davis, Inc., a bar at 245 South Wabash avenue, were called into the office of Police Commissioner Allman yesterday. They appeared with their attorney, John Gately, after Allman received a letter from Jessie Binford, head of the Juvenile Protective association.

In the letter Miss Binford said the Davises visited her Wednesday and quoted the police as saying that Miss Binford's complaints had led to recent raids on the tavern. Yesterday the Davises told Capt. John L. Howe of Allman's staff that they did visit Miss Binford but denied making such assertions.

Last night Miss Binford said, "I told them I have made no complaint about their tavern since 1938, when several were made."

Song Causes Divorce

Mrs. Lillian Van Krum Colen as she appeared at divorce trial.

Mrs. Lillian Van Krum Colen, 23 years old, a song writer, living in the Congress hotel, told Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday that she wrote a song called "That Gray Haired Daddy of Mine." Her husband, Mury J. Colen, a horse broker, took exception to it as reflecting on him, she said, and deserted her. They were married Jan. 31, 1936, and separated Aug. 17 of the same year. She said Colen also had "too many other girl friends." Mrs. Colen was granted a divorce and her maiden name was restored.

M'NUTT AGAIN IN PRESIDENTIAL RACE (FOR 1944)

Incorporation papers for the Paul V. McNutt for President in 1944 club will be filed in Indiana, backers of the federal social security administrator said yesterday as they aided McNutt in celebrating his 49th birthday.

President Roosevelt telephoned him yesterday morning, McNutt told reporters who talked with him in his rooms at the Stevens hotel.

"Did he thank you?" he was asked, the question referring to McNutt's withdrawal as a candidate for Vice President after an ovation that almost stampeded the Democratic convention Thursday night.

"He did that—and more than that," McNutt replied with a smile. He declined further details.

James E. Perry, head of the Paul V. McNutt for President in 1940 club will file the 1944 club papers, he said.

ACCUSED ROBBER SEIZED.

James Brown, a Cherokee Indian, was captured yesterday while running near the Lindy hotel, 551 Madison street. He was held by police on charges of robbing the hotel of $6.57. A second man escaped.

ESCAPED CONVICT ROBS BANK; SHOT IN CHASE; SEIZED

Companion Flees as 200 Pursue; Loot Recovered.

Marysville, Kas., July 19 [Special].—A member of a bank robbing trio of escaped convicts was shot and captured here late this afternoon in a thrilling chase in which 200 men took part. Two airplanes were sent here by Topeka police to aid in the manhunt.

The prisoner was one of two men who robbed the State bank at Diller, Neb., of $5,000 this morning after terrorizing three employés and locking them in a vault. His companion escaped, but a suitcase containing a large part of the loot was recovered.

The wounded man identified himself as Lowell Haenze, 27 years old, one of three men who escaped from the penitentiary at Fort Madison, Ia., on June 22. They have been accused of three bank robberies since their prison break.

Stolen Auto Abandoned.

After the holdup at Diller, a southeast Nebraska community of 400, Haenze and his companion fled toward Marysville in their stolen automobile. Forced to abandon their car, they caught a ride into town with a farmer.

City Marshal Tom Blodgett and Deputy Sheriff Howard Heleker, on the lookout for the Diller bandits, accosted the two strangers. The bandits abandoned their money filled suitcase and fled on foot to a garage, where Haenze's companion stole an automobile and escaped.

Haenze hid in the garage for about ten minutes while a crowd of 200 men, who grabbed their guns and rallied for the manhunt, conducted an intensive search for him. The bandit finally made a break and fled a short distance toward a church.

Shot as He Flees.

Assistant City Marshal Leo Schramm, who saw his flight, called upon Haenze to surrender. When he refused, the officer shot him in the legs. The wounded man at first refused to give his name but later admitted his identity.

A teller of the Diller bank identified Haenze's companion in the robbery as Ivan Sullivan, who, with Forest Estes, was with him in the prison break. Haenze admitted the Diller robbery but denied participating in the holdup of the State bank at Wilber, Neb., on June 29, in which he and Sullivan have been identified.

The two also had been hunted as the men who robbed the State bank at Winthrop, Minn., of $1,000 last Wednesday afternoon.

Beauty Winner

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

ARIENE COMBS.

New York, July 19 [Special].—Ariene Combs, 13 months old, found it no laughing matter to be declared winner of a lower east side beauty contest for babies today. Wearing the crown emblematic of her victory and sitting beside the doll that was awarded her as a prize, Ariene cried lustily when photographers snapped their pictures.

SKIDMORE TOLD U. S. WILL REVEAL CASE IN OWN WAY

William R. [Billy] Skidmore, alleged political go-between for the Chicago gambling syndicate, shouldn't be too impatient to find out what the government has up its sleeve in the income tax case which charges Skidmore with evasion of $822,484 for 1933 thru 1936.

This was the government's answer yesterday to Skidmore's plea for a bill of particulars of the indictment.

"The defendant must realize that a bill of particulars is not supposed to be a convenience to furnish the prosecution's case to the other side in advance of trial," the government brief stated. "The defendant seeks to secure complete discovery of the government's case. Certainly, if he has complied with the law in keeping proper records, he can have no fear of surprise at anything the government may offer."

The brief was prepared by Paul Plunkett and Lawrence Miller, assistant federal prosecutors. Skidmore is scheduled to go to trial Sept. 16 before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

TRIBUNE GUARD IS SHOT; OFFER $10,000 REWARD

Gunmen Seize Pay Roll of $9,179 in Holdup.

A reward of $10,000 was offered last night by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bandits who shot Harry P. Walsh, veteran chief of the Tribune guards, in a holdup yesterday morning. Walsh, who is 60 years old, was shot five times in a savage gun battle with three robbers at St. Clair and Illinois streets. The robbers escaped with a $9,179 pay roll.

Harry P. Walsh.

According to the terms of the reward offer, if two or more persons supply information, the $10,000 will be apportioned among them in amounts depending, in the sole judgment of THE TRIBUNE, on the value of the information received in obtaining the arrest and conviction of the criminals.

Even Chance to Live.

Physicians gave Walsh an even chance to recover. He was shot in the abdomen, both legs, the left arm, and a bullet severed the trigger finger of his right hand. He was taken to Henrotin hospital and given two blood transfusions by employés of THE TRIBUNE.

Walsh, following his daily routine, was guarding transfer of money from the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank at Ohio street and Michigan avenue. Driving the Tribune car, a two door sedan, was James Dubenic, 43 years old.

Capt. Thomas Harrison of the East Chicago avenue police obtained an account of the holdup from Dubenic, who was not wounded, and from other witnesses.

Story of Holdup.

Leaving the bank, Dubenic and Walsh drove north in Michigan avenue to Ontario street, east a block to St. Clair street, and south in St. Clair.

At Grand avenue a sedan occupied only by a driver passed the Tribune car. The sedan then slowed to a snail's pace, weaving from side to side. Dubenic said he tried to pass on the left and on the right, but was blocked.

A few feet north of the intersection of Illinois and St. Clair streets, the erratic driver stopped. The Tribune car could not pass because of cars parked at both curbs. The pattern of the holdup then developed swiftly.

Two men who had been loitering on the east curb ran toward the Tribune car. Both had revolvers and one stopped momentarily to snatch a shotgun from their accomplice's machine which had caused the blockade.

Gun Battle Starts.

As the bandits approached, Walsh crouched in the back seat and opened fire. One of the robbers stayed on the left hand side of the Tribune machine, shouting, "Get that —— with the gun!" The other circled to the right. Both were firing from revolvers.

The man at the right side, wearing a handkerchief mask, then stepped to the rear of the car and fired two shotgun blasts into the body and fender. None of these pellets struck Walsh, already wounded by .38 caliber bullets.

The bandits then seized the money, which was in two large mail sacks and an envelope on the front seat, and started for their automobile. Walsh fired again.

At that the driver of the bandit car walked back to the Tribune car. He fired three shots thru the left door and side of the sedan, reached in, and took Walsh's revolver. He stepped back to the wheel of his car, and drove west in Illinois street.

Driver Chases Gang.

Dubenic said he had remained crouched at the wheel during the gun battle. He was not armed. As the bandits drove off, he followed them west to Dearborn street, north to Chicago avenue, then lost them in traffic as the bandits headed west in Chicago avenue. Dubenic pulled up at the Chicago avenue police station just west of Clark street and Sergt. Robert E. Ryan aided him in taking Walsh to the hospital.

The witnesses said the two men who later took part in the robbery had been lurking in the vicinity for more than an hour. All three of the bandits appeared to be in their 30's. The skill with which the crime was executed led Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan to say they were probably ex-convicts with long criminal careers. He could recall only one holdup in Chicago criminal history which was carried out in a similar fashion.

The man with the shotgun was described as short and stocky, of swarthy complexion, wearing a Panama hat and green polo shirt. His companion was taller and heavier, and had on a light shirt and dark trousers. The driver of the bandit car was wearing a greasy cap, was tall and well built, and was described as deeply tanned by some witnesses, and as a colored man by others. He was distinguished by a flat Negroid nose with wide nostrils.

Started with Tribune in 1905.

Walsh was first employed in THE TRIBUNE in 1905. He left the paper for several years, but returned in 1920 and has been chief of guards since that time. He lives at 7823 Cornell avenue. Dubenic is 43 years old, and has been a TRIBUNE employé since 1923. He lives at 5523 South Loomis street.

ACT TO CLEAN UP REST OF CHARGES IN ALLEGED "FIX"

The state's attorney's office yesterday arranged to dispose of the remaining charges against principals and witnesses in the so-called jury fixing case following the acquittal by a Criminal court jury Thursday night of the four co-defendants.

The four, who were accused of conspiracy to bribe a vote fraud jury, were Attorney George M. Crane, James Creed, superintendent of city dumps, who was personal bailiff to Judge Joseph Graber during the allegedly fixed trial; John Howe, suspended state highway policeman who Sam Orlando, 11th ward Democratic politician. Orlando and Joseph Vinci, his political helper, were the defendants in the vote fraud trial which has been convicted of robbery, and ended in acquittal.

Yesterday, at the request of the state, Judge James F. Fardy dismissed two remaining robbery charges against Howe. Howe will be taken to prison next week, pending a review of his appeal from the robbery conviction. The second trial of Orlando and Vinci, who were reindicted following their acquittal, was set for July 22. That of three witnesses who testified for the state, Mrs. Martha Aumond and James McNamara, members of the allegedly fixed jury, and Marvin Olson, an ex-convict, was set for Aug. 5.

FIRST WIFE SUES KNOWLTON AMES; 2D ASKS DIVORCE

Knowlton L. Ames Jr., former state director of finance, who was sued for divorce a month ago by his present wife, faced alimony trouble yesterday from his first wife. Mrs. Edith Winter Ames McGinnis, of Pasadena, Cal., who divorced Ames Dec. 18, 1933, filed suit in the Superior court to attach his account in the American National bank and stock he holds in the Arlington Park race track.

Mrs. McGinnis said Ames is now $5,100 in arrears on payments of $300 a month for the support of three children, Knowlton L. Ames III, 20 years old; Thomas, 18, and Robert Dawes Ames, 15.

The same bank account and stock were tied up by an injunction issued a month ago by Judge Rudolph Desort when Ames' present wife, Frances Dillon Little Ames, 29, of 18 East Elm street, filed suit for divorce, charging cruelty. Horace A. Young, counsel for Mrs. McGinnis, said he will contend that Ames' responsibility to his first wife gives her a prior claim to the funds.

NORTH SIDE AUTO DETOURS GO INTO EFFECT TUESDAY

Here Are Directions Thru Lincoln Park Area.

A complicated detour system which will go into effect Tuesday with the closing of Beach drive on the Outer drive system thru Lincoln park from Belmont to North avenues was announced yesterday by George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, and Otto K. Jelinek, park traffic engineer.

The detour system will remain in effect until about Jan. 1, when construction of the new 10 lane Beach drive, skirting the lake shore thru the park and carrying all express traffic, is expected to be completed. Donoghue urged motorists to familiarize themselves with the plan, since the detour system will be able to accommodate 30 per cent less traffic than the present Outer drive system thru Lincoln park.

Southbound Morning Routes.

During the morning rush period, from 7:10 to 9:57 a. m., the following will be one way streets, carrying southbound express traffic: the Center drive, which splits Lincoln park; a newly constructed four lane temporary road, paralleling the Center drive from the North avenue grade separation to Fullerton parkway; Stockton drive, between Fullerton and Diversey parkways, and Sheridan road between Diversey parkway and Melrose street.

Northbound traffic on Lake Shore drive will be detoured west to Michigan avenue at Chicago avenue, north on Michigan to North avenue, across the connection drives to Stockton drive, north on Stockton to Fullerton parkway, west to Lakeview avenue, north on Lakeview to Diversey parkway, and west on Diversey to Halsted street.

Lakeview avenue and Stockton drive between North avenue and Diversey parkway will be two-way streets at all hours of the day.

Northbound from Halsted.

From Halsted street, Sheridan road traffic will continue north to Sheridan. Outer drive traffic north will turn east on Addison street to the local drive, north to Irving Park road, and thru the grade separation to the east [northbound] express lane of the drive. At Lawrence avenue it will leave the drive again and detour to Broadway.

During the evening rush period, from 4:54 to 6:45 p. m., the streets which carried the morning express traffic thru Lincoln park again will become one way streets, this time accommodating northbound automobiles. Northbound La Salle street traffic will enter Stockton drive and cross the Ridge-Stockton drive connection in the park to the temporary road paralleling the center drive.

Southbound traffic during the evening rush hour will leave Lake Shore drive at Irving Park road and enter the local drive. At Addison street it will be detoured west to Halsted street, south to Diversey parkway, east to Lakeview avenue, south to Fullerton parkway, east to Stockton drive, and south on Stockton to North avenue. At North avenue southbound traffic will follow the local drive of Lake Shore drive as far as Oak street and then continue south on Michigan avenue or enter the center drive of Lake Shore drive.

Normal Traffic Routings.

During the rest of the day, the Center drive thru Lincoln park will carry only northbound traffic, except for one southbound lane for buses.

Southbound traffic at periods other than the rush hours will leave Lake Shore drive at Melrose street to enter Sheridan road, a one way street as far as Diversey parkway. At Diversey this traffic will turn east and enter the one way section of Stockton drive, proceed to Fullerton parkway, and turn east again to the temporary road. The temporary road enters the Center drive just north of the North avenue grade separation.

Local traffic, both north and southbound, during the normal periods of the day will proceed by way of Lakeview avenue and Stockton drive between North avenue and Fullerton parkway. Between Diversey parkway and Melrose street, local traffic will detour thru the streets west of Sheridan road.

Bus routes and bus stops during the rush hours also will be altered.

Superintendent Donoghue and Traffic Engineer Jelinek, after outlining the detour system, advised motorists that the wisest course would be to avoid Lincoln park entirely and to take streets lying farther west rather than the Outer drive.

MOTHERS DOUBT PLEDGE AGAINST FOREIGN WARS

Group Seeks to Halt Any Intervention.

The Mothers of American Sons, Inc., were told yesterday that it is difficult to put any faith in the recent statement of President Roosevelt that he would not send American boys to fight abroad.

This statement was contained in a report by the 98 delegates of the organization who went to Washington to get first hand pledges from congressmen against intervention. The 98 delegates, elected by the 57 units of the organization, represented all sections of the country.

Start Made Last Fall.

The Mothers of American Sons was started last fall during congressional debate on the arms embargo and neutrality laws. Its founder is Mrs. Arthur D. Lynn of Springfield, Mass., wife of an insurance company executive. Mrs. Lynn has a son in Dartmouth college. She lost two brothers during the world war.

Mrs. Helen V. Wetherall, 1216 North Menard avenue, president of the Austin unit and the mother of six sons, was the Chicago representative at the Washington meeting. The Austin unit has 92 members and units are being organized on the south and north sides of Chicago.

Find Capitol Tense.

The delegates reported that "the whole atmosphere in Washington is tense with the feeling that we are on the verge of war because of administration acts and belligerent expressions of opinion by administration representatives."

The women interviewed all the members of the foreign affairs, military and naval committees.

"All agreed," says the report, "that Senator Pepper of Florida is the spokesman for the President, and Senator Pepper has repeatedly demanded our participation in the war."

CAMACHO, MEXICO PRESIDENT-ELECT, PLEADS FOR UNITY

MEXICO CITY, July 19 (AP).—Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, proclaimed president-elect by the government, said today he would "do all my conscience and principles permit to obtain fraternal unity of all Mexicans." He added that the "legitimate triumphs" of supporters of his independent opponent, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, "will be respected but no credential soiled with violence will be accepted."

CIRCUS ARRIVES TODAY AND IT'S AIR CONDITIONED

Opens Nine Day Stand on Lake Front.

When Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's 1940 circus begins unloading this morning at Randolph street near the lake front, another frontier will have fallen before air conditioning and streamlining.

The big show, with its 1,600 people, 1,009 menagerie animals, and 50 elephants, will arrive in four streamlined trains. Workmen will immediately transport the air conditioned "big top" of red and blue canvas to the show grounds just south of Soldiers' field. There for nine days the circus will hold forth with daily performances at 2:15 and 8:15 p. m. Gates will open at 1 and 7 p. m.

Return of Marco Polo.

For those circus fans who count the opening spectacle half the show, there has been provided this year "The Return of Marco Polo," an oriental extravaganza with a cast of 2,000 people and animals. It is produced by Max Weldy, designer for the original Folies Bergere and Casino d Paris.

The wild animal act will present something entirely new, according to circus managers. Polar and Himalayan bears and Great Dane dogs will mingle in the barred arena with lions, tigers, leopards, panthers, pumas, cougars, and jaguars. Alfred Court of France presents his beasts in their act without gunfire, crowbars, or electric prods.

Refugees Among Performers.

The circus this year brings a number of European stars who were forced to flee their invaded countries. Among these are the horsemen Count Roberto de Vasconcellos, Visconte Ponte de Barca—a former bull fighter—and the Aseveras-Konyot troupe. The latter swam their trained animals across rivers to escape Czecho-Slovakia.

Scores of high wire, trapeze, and balancing stars will be presented. The Flying Concellos, aerial favorites of other years, will be here, accompanied by Antoinette, famous for her multiple midair somersaults to hand-catches.

The streamlining and air conditioning are intended only to add to speed and comfort in the big show and take away none of its traditional glamor, its managers asserted yesterday.

BESET BY LABOR WOES, BIG FIRM SHUTS 4 PLANTS

Blames Politicians and Union Leaders.

Alpena, Mich., July 19 [Special].—Officials of the Alpena Garment company, in announcing today that their internationally known chain of manufacturing plants had been closed forever, charged that uninformed politicians and overzealous labor leaders were largely responsible.

Black dots locate cities in which plants were closed.

C. I. O. strikes hampered the operations of the company from last September to January of this year and forced the business to assume burdens it was unable to carry. One hundred state policemen were sent here once to halt strike disturbances.

The company operated plants in four northern Michigan cities — Alpena, Cheboygan, Rogers City, and Onaway—and until recently employed a total of 1,600 persons. The dresses and aprons it produced were said to have been sold all over the world. The Alpena plant was one of the leading industries in this city of 13,000.

At the request of the Alpena Chamber of Commerce, J. T. Randall, chairman of the board of the garment company, issued a statement which contained the following observations:

Points to Real Tragedy.

"During and following the strike, company officials saw thousands of dollars in business go to competitors because of the uncertainty of our delivery and lack of ability to produce. When the clouds had cleared, salesmen discovered it necessary to find new customers in what is commonly known as the world's most competitive industry.

"As a result of the failure of uninformed politicians and overzealous labor leaders to understand the problems of industry in rural communities, conditions of this kind arise.

"The real tragedy is that those people without any responsibility whatsoever take the reins of guidance of uninformed employés and, by inferences and misstatements of fact, lead them into these difficulties—by no means of their own choosing—and leave them, in the long run, holding the bag.

"On July 5 the stockholders of the company voted liquidation. Today all the plants and the equipment of the several plants are for sale."

The plants in the cities outside of Alpena closed several days after the liquidation vote. Employés here received their last pay check yesterday.

Individual Rights Defended.

The strike in the company's plants was called by the International Ladies Garment Workers, which was an affiliate of the C. I. O. at that time but recently joined the American Federation of Labor. After a National Labor Relations board election, which showed the union had a majority of the employés, the union was given a contract with increased wages but not a closed shop.

In resisting C. I. O. efforts to unionize his employés, Randall contended he would not be a party to forcing any of his employés into a union because it was their individual right as American citizens to determine for themselves whether they wanted to be regimented into an organization. For that reason he held out to the last against a closed shop.

SPEEDY ITALIAN CRUISER BATTLES BRITISH; IS SUNK

Believe 250 Lost in Fight Off Greek Coast.

LONDON, July 19 (AP).—The Italian light cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni, a 40 knot warship rated as one of the world's fastest, was sunk with the probable loss of 250 men in the Mediterranean sea off Greece during a fierce naval and air action today with the Australian cruiser Sydney supported by a small destroyer force, the British admiralty announced.

One British destroyer rescued 250 men from the Italian vessel. It was presumed another 250 Italian seamen lost their lives since the ship's normal complement was 500. It was Italy's first cruiser loss reported in this war.

Other Cruiser Flees.

The British units fell on the Bartolomeo Colleoni and another cruiser 30 miles off the island of Crete. The second cruiser fled, Capt. J. A. Collins of the Sydney reported.

Eyewitness reports of the battle came from Piraeus, Greece, where passengers aboard the Greek steamer Frinton landed.

"Italian bombers roared by us in waves to attack the six British ships," the passengers said. "We could make out four big and two small British ships.

"There were great gun flashes and thunderous explosions, but we were too far away to see what happened to either the British or Italian ships."

Carried Two Planes.

The 5,069 ton Bartolomeo Colleoni carried eight 6-inch guns, six 3.9-inchers and 16 antiaircraft guns. She also was equipped for mine laying and carried two planes.

The Australian Sydney, 6,800 tons, is the namesake of the ship which finally caught the famous German commerce raider, Emden, and sunk her off the Cocos islands, in the Indian ocean, in the world war.

As the Mediterranean victory was being recorded, however, the British navy was confronted with the threat of a fresh German sea raider "at large in the Atlantic" when it was announced that two British ships had been sunk about 400 miles east of the French island of Martinique, near the West Indies.

Converted Merchant Ship.

The two ships were the St. John, 5,226 tons, and the Davisian, 6,433 tons. The raider is believed by the British to be a converted merchantman.

[Reports from the French Island of St. Barthelmy said yesterday that two lifeboats arrived there Wednesday with 41 men from the two sunken British steamers.]

REPORT BRITISH LAND TROOPS AT GIBRALTAR BASE

3 Vessels Bring 3,300; 1,600 Put Ashore.

MADRID, Spain, July 19 (AP).—An Algeciras dispatch by Cifra, Spanish news agency, said today that three British transports, arriving at Gibraltar from the Atlantic, had landed 1,600 troops with full equipment while 1,700 more remained aboard.

Tighten Malta Blockade.

ROME, July 19 (AP).—Stefani, official Italian news agency, reported today tightening of the Italian air blockade of the British Mediterranean island naval base of Malta with need of supplies there growing.

The agency, citing the bombing of a 15,000 ton oil tanker headed for Malta as an indication of the blockade's effectiveness, said Italian planes had been hammering at the island and scouring the sea to prevent tankers and supply ships from reaching the island.

See Base's Value Ended.

Damage to planes and supplies, Stefani said, virtually has ended Malta's value as a base for a British attack on Italy.

This was believed to have been the reason for the British decision to risk running the Italian blockade with five big freighters—a move which led to the British-Italian naval battles in the Mediterranean 10 days ago.

The Italian high command communique today said that one air formation reached Gibraltar in a flight of approximately 2,000 miles and effectively bombed the arsenal and other military objectives. It also said that in the eastern Mediterranean an enemy submarine had been sunk.

[Another Rome dispatch said four planes took part in the attack and all returned safely. It said British coastal batteries opened very intense fire. Two bombs, it said, hit Penon and three left on Alameda.]

Bomb Italian Airdrome.

NAIROBI, British Kenya, Africa, July 19 (AP).—The official communique issued here today said:

"Quiet day. Yesterday our aircraft most successfully bombed the Italian airdrome at Neghelli, inflicting heavy damage. They encountered very little opposition from the ground and no air opposition whatsoever. One petrol [gasoline] dump was destroyed and several fires started in buildings and workshops. Successful attacks were made on enemy aircraft dispersed around the airdrome and direct hits were obtained."

The communique added that on July 17 the Italians dropped 120 bombs on Buna, in Kenya, and that ground reconnaissances were carried out to the border of Italian Somaliland.

Asks Jail for Mate

MRS. IRENE KORUBA. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Edward Koruba, 27 years old, talked his way out of jail yesterday after he had been ordered there by Samuel Epstein, Circuit court master in chancery. Mrs. Irene Koruba, 24, of 5738 South Paulina street, asked that he be jailed for contempt of court because he was $180 in arrears on support payments of $5 a week for a son, Lance, 3. Mrs. Koruba obtained a divorce last Nov. 30.

Master in Chancery Epstein agreed with Mrs. Koruba's lawyer that the husband should be jailed, but Koruba disclosed that he had been paying an additional $5 of out of his salary of $25 a week for the support of another child by a prior marriage.

He said that if he were jailed, he would be unable to pay anything to either wife, and that his first wife would be able to send him to jail in her turn. On his promise to try to keep up his payments, he was released.

FORCE ULMANIS, HEAD OF LATVIA, OUT OF OFFICE

Early Union of Baltic States, Soviet Seen.

RIGA, Latvia, July 20, Saturday (AP).—President Karl Ulmanis of Latvia was removed from office early today, effective tomorrow, and an assembly of the country's new parliament was ordered. Premier Professor August Kirchenstein will take over the functions of Ulmanis' office.

Special delegations were reported sent to Moscow yesterday, presumably to request absorption of this little Baltic state into the soviet union.

[The Moscow radio reported last night that workers and soldiers thruout Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia were holding demonstrations demanding incorporation of the countries into Russia.]

Early Union Predicted.

The parliaments of Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, all elected this week by the unopposed "Peoples' party" bloc, may proclaim union with Russia this week-end, it was said.

After Ulmanis' removal, the Latvian justice ministry ordered an investigation of the manner of living of former ministers and other government leaders, charging one had lived in a luxurious eight room apartment with silver and glassware purchased on the government's account.

Campaign for Union Pressed.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 19.—Obviously at a signal from a higher authority and in preparation for assembly of the new Baltic parliaments this week-end, the entire Baltic press today began a campaign for incorporation of the Baltic states, Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, into Russia.

The principal argument advanced was not the bolshevist ideology of class warfare, under which the communists conducted their election campaign, but an argument of economic necessity.

It is argued that the Baltic states cannot exist as separate economic entities because their industry has no raw materials and their agriculture is without markets and that only union with Russia will save them from economic annihilation and assure them security, peace, freedom, and bread.

LORD REDESDALE ASSAILS CREED OF 2 DAUGHTERS

LONDON, July 19 (AP).—Lord Redesdale, father of Unity Freeman-Mitford, friend and admirer of Adolf Hitler, and of Diana, Lady Mosley, wife of Sir Oswald Mosley, interned British Fascist leader, declared in a statement today:

"I have always been most bitterly opposed to any form of Fascism and can only suppose that I am believed to be a Fascist because my daughter married Sir Oswald Mosley."

He added that the marriage was secret and, "moreover, I do not even know Sir Oswald Mosley."

Lady Mosley also is under arrest and her sister Unity is in seclusion, recovering from the effects of a mysterious gunshot wound suffered in Germany.

DUTCH COLONIAL ADMINISTRATORS SEIZED BY NAZIS

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, July 20, Saturday, [via Berlin] (AP).—A number of persons connected with the Dutch colonial administration have been taken into custody, it was announced officially last night, in reprisal against what German authorities described as "mistreatment" of Germans in the Netherlands East Indies.

At the same time, all mails to the Netherlands overseas possessions were stopped.

A German spokesman yesterday had intimated Germany would act against persons now in German-occupied Holland because of alleged mistreatment of Germans in both the Netherlands East and West Indies.

U. S. Envoy to Belgium Arrives in Switzerland

BASEL, Switzerland, July 19 (AP).—A special train carrying 10 diplomatic delegations from Brussels, including John Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium and Luxemburg, arrived this morning. Germany had ordered diplomatic representation in both Belgium and the Netherlands discontinued. The United States minister to the Netherlands, George A. Gordon, already was in Switzerland.

Hero of Flanders Rescue Made Algerian Governor

VICHY, France, July 19 (AP).—Admiral Jean Marie Abrial, who commanded the sea operations at Dunkirk thru which most of the British army in Flanders was saved, has been made governor general of Algeria. Abrial was freed by the Germans, who took him prisoner at Cherbourg after Dunkirk finally was abandoned.

BRITAIN FINES, IMPRISONS WAR LAW VIOLATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19.—Britain's police courts are seeing to it that violators of the nation's war regulations are paying the penalty. Here are the results of five cases tried today:

Nine youths fined 15 shillings each [about $2.93] for giving vocal imitations of air raid sirens.

A member of the "observer corps" fined 42 pounds [about $164.20] for telling "five people" that six parachutes had been captured.

A doctor fined five pounds [about $19.50] for not having put his automobile "out of action" while parked.

A 67 year old Russian Jew sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment for saying in a hotel bar, "Hitler is a friend of mine. The English took Palestine from the Jews. Hitler is going to take England from the English."

The air raid warden and billiard champion of Bradford fined 10 pounds [about $39.10] for telling two women old age pensioners they would receive more under Hitler than under Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

CHARGE BRITISH BLOCK SUPPLIES TO FRENCH ISLES

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, July 19 (AP).—The French high commissioner here tonight charged that British authorities have stopped supplies to the French colony at St. Pierre and Miquelon, islands off the Newfoundland coast, after local authorities refused to surrender the colony's fishing fleet.

The commissioner, who controls the fishing colony, said a British economic mission was using heavy pressure to gain the fleet and also had demanded that the armed fishing patrol boat Villedys be interned and its two cannon be delivered to Canadian authorities.

The French colonists now have the choice of eating fresh or salted dried codfish as a result of the blockade, he said.

England Opens Its Forces to Citizens Living in China

SHANGHAI, China, July 19 (AP).—British authorities today announced arrangements have been completed for Britons residing in China to volunteer in the British army, navy and air corps "during the present emergency."

OFFICIAL OF SHANGHAI PAPER SLAIN; WRITER FOR N.Y. TIMES BEATEN

SHANGHAI, China, July 20, Saturday.—An executive of a Shanghai newspaper was slain yesterday by unidentified gunmen and the New York Times' correspondent here was attacked early today by two armed Japanese in the climax to a week of terrorism against foreign correspondents in Shanghai.

In a crowded Nanking road tea house, gunmen killed Samuel Chang, 40 years old, prominent Chinese business man, and a White Russian who attempted to capture them. Chang, one of a group blacklisted by Japan's puppet régime of Wang Ching-wei at Nanking, was a director of the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury and an official of the Asia Life Insurance company. Both firms are headed by C. V. Starr, one of six Americans whose arrest and deportation were ordered Monday by the Nanking government. The other five Americans ordered deported are correspondents.

A few hours after Chang was slain two masked Japanese entered the apartment of Hallett Abend, New York Times' correspondent, struck and tortured him, and seized the manuscript of a book he is writing, charging it is anti-Japanese.

QUEZON DEFENDS HIS STAND FOR ONE PARTY PLAN

MANILA, P. I., July 19 (AP).—President Manuel Quezon defended his advocacy of a "one-party democracy" for the Philippines today with the assertion "We, the Filipinos, have to do our own thinking and learn from lessons of contemporary history or bust."

His comment was made at a press interview after Francis B. Sayre, United States high commissioner, said, "I believe democracy is stimulated by the vigorous expression of views of the minority. Democracy is based on the determination of issues and the way to determine issues is thru two parties."

In his address Tuesday, advocating the one-party system, Quezon asserted civilization advanced only at the expense of individual liberty. He also said old concepts of property must be abandoned to satisfy social justice. He also asked for power to commandeer the services of any Filipino, to prevent "unwholesome agitation," to prohibit strikes, and to control food resources.

CONTINUE QUIZ OF MILK STORE BOMB SUSPECT

William Crawford, assistant state's attorney, said yesterday that Edmund Iwanski, union milk wagon driver who confessed bombing six independent cut rate milk stores, has still not given investigators a logical explanation of how he learned to fashion expert dynamite bombs. Crawford said he planned to examine several other phases of the inquiry before the case is presented to the grand jury.

Iwanski, who lives at 5362 North Nottingham avenue, was shot and captured early Wednesday after bombing a milk store while on the way to work in a Bowman Dairy plant. In the basement of his home police found several dynamite bombs. Iwanski said that he acted "strictly on my own," but Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said he believed Iwanski belonged to a bombing ring.

Judge Francis Borrelli of the Felony court yesterday set Iwanski's bond at $30,000 and continued his arraignment until Aug. 29. Physicians in the Bridewell said it would take Iwanski six weeks to recuperate from the bullet wound which shattered his right arm when he was shot by police.

PLANS TO COMPEL CENSORSHIP IN BRITAIN GIVEN UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19.—Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of information, today abandoned plans for the establishment of a compulsory censorship board. The proposal, advanced a month ago, was strongly opposed by publishers, newspaper readers, and parliament.

The London Times opposed the idea as being more dangerous than helpful in keeping the morale of the nation prepared for an attempted invasion.

Most writers insisted the collapse of France was largely due to strict press censorship which prevented proper criticism against corruption and incompetent war leaders. Some newspapers asserted certain members of the government needed such a censorship board to screen their incompetence.

Partial Text of Hitler's Speech Offering England Choice of Peace or Ruin in War to End

New York, July 19 (AP).—The German official translator's version of part of Adolf Hitler's address follows:

"Members of the reichstag:

"I have summoned you to this meeting in the midst of our tremendous struggle for the freedom and the future of the German nation. I have done so, firstly, because I consider it important to give our own people an insight into the events unique in history that lie behind us.

"Secondly, because I wish to express my gratitude to our magnificent soldiers, and thirdly, with the intention of appealing once more and for the last time to common sense in general.

"If we compare the cause which prompted this historic struggle, of the magnitude of the far-reaching effects of military events, we are forced to the conclusion that its general course and the sacrifices it has entailed are out of all proportion to the alleged reasons for its outbreak, unless they were nothing but a pretext for underlying intentions.

Program of Nazi Movement.

"The program of the National Socialist movement, insofar as it depicted the future development of the reich's relations with the rest of the world, was simply an attempt to bring about a definite revision of the treaty of Versailles, tho as far as at all possible this was to be accomplished by peaceful means. This revision was absolutely essential. . . .

"All attempts made by democratic Germany to obtain equality for the German people by revision of the treaty proved unavailing. . . .

"The program of the National Socialist movement besides freeing the reich from the innermost fetters of a small substratum of Jewish capitalistic and plutocratic democratic profiteers, proclaimed to the world our resolution to shake off the shackles of the Versailles dictate. Germany's demands for this revision were a vital necessity and essential to the existence and honor of every great nation, and it probably one day will be regarded by posterity as extremely reasonable.

Progress Made Without War.

"In practice, all these demands had to be carried thru, contrary to the will of the Franco-British rulers. We all regarded it as a sure sign of successful leadership in the third reich, and for years we were able to effect this revision without a war, not that, as the British and French demagogs asserted, we were at that time incapable of fighting; when, thanks to growing common sense, it highly appeared as tho international cooperation might lead to a peaceful solution of the remaining problems, the agreement to this end, signed in Munich on Sept. 29, 1938, by the four leading interested states, was not only welcomed in London and Paris but was actually condemned as a sign of abominable weakness.

The Fuehrer house in which the Munich pact was signed.

"Now that peaceful revision threatened to be crowned with success, the Jewish capitalist war mongers, their hands stained with blood, saw their tangible pretext for realizing their diabolical plans vanish into thin air. Once again we witnessed a conspiracy of wretched corruptible political creatures and money grabbing financial magnates for whom war was a welcome means of furthering their business aims. . . .

How Poles Were Spurred.

"Jews and Free Masons, armament manufacturers and war profiteers, international business men, stock exchange jugglers seized upon political hirelings of the desperate type that described war as something infinitely desirable. It was thru the work of these criminal persons that the Polish state was spurred on to an attitude that was out of all proportion to Germany's demands and still left with the attendant consequences.

"For in its dealings with Poland, preeminently the German reich has exercised genuine self-restraint since the National Socialist régime came into power. One of the most foolish matters of the Versailles dictate, namely the separation of an old German province [East Prussia] from the reich, was crying aloud for revision, yet what were my requests?

"I name myself in this connection because no other statesman might have dared to provide a solution such as mine to the German nation. It merely implied the return of Danzig, a purely German city, to the reich and the creation of a means of communication between the reich and its several provinces. Even this was to be decided by a plebiscite subject to the control of an international body.

A view of Danzig waterfront.

"Superhuman Self-Control."

"If Mr. Churchill and the rest of the war mongers had felt a fraction of the responsibility toward Europe which inspired me they could never have begun their insanest game. It was only due to the machinations of these other European and non-European powers that Poland rejected my proposals, which in no way affected its honor or existence, and instead resorted to a course which entailed terror and destruction.

"In this case we once more showed an example in truly superhuman self-control, since for months, despite many attacks on Germans and even despite the slaughter of tens of thousands of our fellow-countrymen, we still sought understanding by peaceful means.

"What was the situation? One of the most unnatural creations of the dictate of Versailles, puffed up with political and military pomp, insults other states and threatens to grind it to powder, to fight battles on the outskirts of Berlin, to hack the German armies to pieces. Meanwhile, Germany watches this tumult in patient silence altho a single movement of the armed forces would have sufficed to prick this bubble.

"On Sept. 2 the conflict might still have been averted. Mussolini proposed to plan for immediate cessation of all hostilities and for a peaceful negotiation. Tho Germany saw her armies storming to victory she nevertheless accepted this proposal. It was only the Franco-British war mongers who desired war, not peace. . . .

Tells of Finding Documents.

"On July 19, 1940, a German soldier found a curious document when searching some railway trucks standing in a station at Lacharite. As the document bore a distinctive inscription, he immediately handed it to his commanding officer. It was then passed on to other quarters where it was soon realized that we had lighted on an important discovery.

"The station was subjected to another more thorogoing search. Thus it was that the German high command gained the possession of a collection of documents of unique historical significance. They were the secret documents of the allied supreme war council and included the minutes of every meeting held by this illustrious body.

Mention Daladier and Weygand.

"This time Mr. Churchill will not succeed in contesting or lying about the veracity of these documents as he tried to do when documents were discovered in Warsaw. These documents bear margin notes inscribed by Messrs. Daladier, Weygand and others which can at any time be affirmed or refused by these very gentlemen. They further produced remarkable evidence of machinations of the war mongers and war extenders.

"Above all, they show that these totally hard hearted politicians regarded all the small nations as means to their ends, that they had attempted to use Finland in their own interests, that they determined to turn Norway and Sweden into a theater of war, that they had planned to fan a conflagration in the Balkans in order to gain the assistance of the hundred divisions from those countries, that they had planned in the Balkans by a ruthless and unscrupulous interpretation of the neutrality of Turkey, which was not unfavorable to them that they had inveigled Belgium and the Netherlands more and more completely until they finally entrapped them into binding agreements, and so on and so forth.

Effort to Quench Blaze.

"The documents further gave a picture of the methods by which these political war mongers tried to quench the blaze which they had lighted in their democratic blitzkriegism, which is in part to blame for the appalling fate that they have inflicted on hundreds of thousands and even millions of their own soldiers, of the barbarous and unscrupulous fate which they have visited upon their peoples and which brought them no military advantages, tho the effects on the population were outrageously cruel.

"These same criminals are responsible for having driven Poland into war.

"On Oct. 6, 1939, at this very place,

The Kroll Opera house, where Hitler spoke.

I addressed the German nation for the second time during this war.

"I was able to inform them of our glorious military victory over the Polish state. At the same time I appealed to these men and to the nations themselves. I warned them not to continue this war, the consequences of which could only be devastating. I particularly warned the French of embarking on a war which would forcibly eat its way across the frontier and which irrespective of its outcome would have appalling consequences.

At the same time I addressed this appeal to the rest of the world, altho I feared, as I expressly stated, that my words would not be heard, that it would more than ever arouse the fury of the interested war mongers. Everything happened as I predicted. Responsible elements in France resented any appeal as a dangerous attack on their war profits.

Called "Veritable Coward."

"They, therefore, immediately began to declare that suppressing the conflagration was out of the question, nay, that it was even a crime to oppose the blow that had to be pursued in the name of civilization, humanity, happiness, and progress; and to leave no stone unturned in the name of religion itself. For this purpose, even the colonials could have been mobilized. Victory tho, they said, would come of its own accord. It was in easy reach, as I myself have known for a long time since; else, I should not have broadcast my appeal for peace thruout the world.

"For if I had any justification for believing in peace, I should never have proposed an understanding with Britain and France about making any demands. But in a few days these agitators had succeeded in representing me to the rest of the world as a veritable coward.

Says He Was Insulted.

"For these proposals of mine I was abused and personally insulted. Mr. Chamberlain spat upon me before the eyes of the world, and following the instructions of the instigators and war mongers in the background, men such as Churchill, Cooper, Eden, Britishers and others declined even to mention peace let alone to work for it. Thus this ultracapitalistic collection of people with a personal interest in the war clamored for its continuance. This is now taking place. . . .

"While this Anglo-French war clique was looking around to find new possibilities of extending the war, of roping in new victims, I was working to complete the reorganization of the German forces, to form new units to accelerate production of war material and to complete the training of the entire military, naval, and air forces for their new tasks.

Bad Weather Causes Delay.

"Apart from that, the bad weather in the late autumn and the winter necessitated postponement of military operations.

"During March, however, we received information about Anglo-French intentions for intervening in the Russo-Finnish conflict, presumably not so much for the sake of helping the Finns as in order to damage Russia, which was regarded as a power working with Germany.

"These intentions developed into a decision to take an active part if at all possible in the Finnish war in order to obtain a base for carrying the war into the Baltic.

"At the same time, however, a proposal of the allied supreme war council became more and more insistent either to get the Balkans in Asia Minor on fire in order to cut off Germany's supply of oil from Russia or to obtain possession of the Swedish iron ore. With this object in view, a landing was to have been made in Norway with a main object of occupying the iron railway leading from Narvik across Sweden to the port of Lulea.

"The conclusion of peace between Russia and Finland caused the contemplated action in the northern states to be withheld at the last moment, but a few days later, these intentions again became more definite and a final decision was reached.

Allied Plans in Norway.

"Britain and France had agreed to carry out an immediate occupation of a number of the most important points in Norway on the pretext of preventing Germany from benefitting from further war supplies of Swedish ore. In order to secure this Swedish ore entirely, they intended to march into Sweden and to deal with the small forces which Sweden was in position to assemble, if possible in a friendly way, but with force if necessary.

"That this danger was imminent we learned from the uncontrolable verbosity of no less a person than the first lord of the admiralty. We received further confirmation of this by a hint given by the French premier to a foreign diplomat. Until a short time ago, however, we were unaware that date for this action had been twice postponed before the 8th of April, and that the occupation was to have taken place on the 8th, this being the third and final date.

"In fact, this was not definitely confirmed until the finding of the records of the allied supreme war council. As soon as the danger of the northern states being dragged into the war became apparent, I gave the necessary orders to the German forces. . . .

Signal for German Action.

"Finally, the reaction of Norway to the penetration of British mine layers into Norwegian territorial waters dispelled the last shadow of doubt. This was the signal for the commencement of the German operation which had been prepared in every detail.

"Actually, the position was different from what we believed it to be on April 9, but as of that time we believed we had anticipated British occupation by a few hours. Today we know that the landing of the British troops had been planned for the 8th and that the embarkation of the British units had already commenced on the 5th and 6th. However, at the same moment the first news of the German action, or rather the departure of the German fleet, was received at the British admiralty, and in view of this fact, Mr. Churchill decided to order the disembarkation of the units who were already on board ship, so that the British fleet could first seek out and attack the German vessels.

"This had failed. Only a single British destroyer came into contact with German naval vessels, and was sunk before it could convey any information to the British admiralty or the British fleet.

Praises German Forces.

"This followed the landing of the first German detachments on the 9th in an area stretching from Oslo northward to Narvik. When information of this was received in London Mr. Churchill had already been waiting for some hours to hear of the successes of his fleet. This blow, gentlemen, was the boldest undertaking in the history of the German forces. Its successful execution became possible only thanks to the command and conduct of all German soldiers taking part. . . .

[Hitler at this point praised his fighting forces for their achievements in Norway.]

"Before the campaign in Norway had come to an end, the news from the west became more and more threatening, tho actually before the outbreak of war, plans had been made to break thru the Maginot line in the event of an unavoidable conflict with France and Britain, an undertaking for which the German troops had been trained and for which they were equipped with the necessary arms. The necessity became evident in the course of the first months of the war of some action against Belgium or Holland if need be. Whereas Germany at first had hardly concentrated any forces near the frontiers of Holland and Belgium, apart from the troops necessary for her security while otherwise extending her system of fortifications, noticeable concentrations of French forces were taking place along the Franco-Belgian frontier. . . .

Says He Anticipated Drive.

"The whole German plan of advance was altered. The careful observations which had been made everywhere gradually compelled us to realize that an Anglo-French drive was to be expected at any moment, after the beginning of May. Between

Maginot line guns firing.

May the 6th and the 30th fears that the advance of the allies into Holland and Belgium could be expected at any moment were multiplied, particularly on account of pitiful messages between London and Paris which have come to our knowledge.

"The following day, the 8th, I therefore gave orders for an immediate attack at 5:35 in the morning, on May 10. The basic idea of these operations was, disregarding small, unimportant successes, so to dispose the entire forces, principally the army and the air force, that the total destruction of the Anglo-French armies would be the inevitable consequence so long as the operations provided for in the plan were correctly executed.

"In contradiction to the Schlieffen plan of 1914, I arranged for the operations to bear mainly on the left wing of the front, where the breakthru was to be made, tho ostensibly retaining the principles of the opposite plan. This strategy succeeded. The establishment of the entire plan of operations was made easier for me, of course, by the measures adopted by the enemy himself.

Tells of Second Operation

"For the concentration of the entire Anglo-French mechanized forces along the Belgian frontier made it appear certain the high command of the allied armies had resolved to proceed into this area as rapidly as possible. Relying upon the powers of resistance of all the German infantry divisions employed in the operation, a blow directed at the right flank of the Anglo-French motorized army must, in these circumstances, lead to the complete destruction and breaking up, in fact, probably of the surrounding enemy forces.

"As a second operation I had planned to aim for the Seine and Havre and also to secure a position on the Somme and the Aisne from which the third attack could be made, this attack being intended to advance across the plateau of Langres to the Swiss frontier with the heaviest forces.

"As a conclusion of the operations it was intended to reach the coast south of Bordeaux. The operations were carried out in accordance with this plan and in this order. The success of this, the most tremendous series of battles in the history of the world, is viewed above all by the German soldier himself. He has again proved his worth in a most convincing way on every battlefield on which he fought.

"All the branches of the German people take an equal share in this glorious achievement. The soldiers of the new provinces incorporated since 1938 have also fought magnificently and have made their contribution by reason of this heroic effort on the part of all Germans.

Praises Army Leaders.

"The National Socialist German reich will, at the conclusion of the war, forever be sacred and dearer to the hearts, not only of those living today but also to coming generations. As I come to express my appreciation of the forces whose efforts have made this most glorious victory possible, my first words of praise are due to a command which was equal to the highest demands made upon it.

"This campaign by the army—the army has carried out the duties allotted to it under the command of its commander in chief, Gen. von Brauchitsch, and his chief of general staff Halder in a truly glorious manner. If the command of the German army of yesterday was considered to be the best in the world then, today it is worthy of at least the same admiration. In fact, success being the deciding factor in the final evaluation, the command of the new German army must be accounted still better.

"The army in the west was under the command of Generals Ritter von Laag, von Umstedt, and von Bush, divided into three army corps. The army group of Gen. Ritter von Laag, had the primary duty of holding at all costs the left wing of the German western front from the Swiss frontier as far as the Moselle. Not until further stages of the operations was it intended to give this front an active share in the battle of destruction with two armies under the command of Gen. von Liben and Donner.

"On the 10th of May at 5:35 in the morning two army commands in the command of Gen. von Umstedt and Gen. von Beck were ready for the attack. Their allotted task was to force their way thru the enemy positions on the frontier and from the whole front to the North sea to occupy Holland and advance against Antwerp, to take Liege, above all to reach the Meuse with the vast defensive forces of the left wing to carry the crossing of Meuse near Sedan with the main body of the tank and mechanized division as these operations provided to force their way to the sea, closely following the canal and river system of the Aisne and Somme and collecting together all plane and tank and mechanized divisions.

"The southern army under the command of Gen. von Rundstedt also was allotted the important task, as the breakthru proceeded, to insure the covering of the left flank according to plans in order totally to exclude the possibility of a repetition of the miracle of the Marne in 1914.

"This tremendous operation, which already decided the further course of the war and led, as had been planned, to the destruction of the main body of the French army and also of the whole British expeditionary force, throws a glorious light upon the German leadership. . . .

"The continuation of the operations in the general direction of the Seine and the Aisne was not undertaken in the first place with a view to taking Paris, but in order to obtain or secure suitable points for the commencement of operations with the object of forcing a way thru as far as the Swiss frontier. This enormous offensive operation was carried out according to plan, thanks to the brilliant conduct of all ranks.

"The change in the high command of the French army which took place in the meantime was intended to reenforce the French powers of resistance and to turn the battle which had commenced so unfortunately for the allies in the direction in which they desired. As a matter of fact, it was found possible to proceed in many places with the new offensive of the German army only after the most desperate resistance had been overcome. . . .

The Fall of Paris.

"Paris fell, a crushing of the enemy resistance on the Aisne cleared the way for breaking thru to the Swiss frontier. In a tremendous encircling movement the armies forced a passage behind the Maginot line which was itself being attacked at two points west of Saarbrucken and Neubreisach by the army group which had previously been in reserve and was penetrated under the command of Gens. von Witzelban and Dollman. Thus we were successful not only in completely encircling the tremendous front of French resistance but also of breaking it up into small units and enforcing France's capitulation.

"These operations were crowned by the general advance of all German armies. . . .

Calls Churchill "Bloodthirsty."

"When Marshal Petain made an offer to the effect that France would lay down her arms, he was not relinquishing any forces which still remained intact, but was ending a situation which in the view of every soldier was quite untenable. Only the bloodthirsty dilletantism of Mr. Churchill enabled him either not to comprehend this or deny it against his better knowledge. . . .

[Hitler praised and thanked his generals, particularly Goering, and expressed his admiration for all branches of the German fighting services. He called the German infantry "the best in the world" and praised the tank corps. He said the German military success would not have been possible without the aid of the Nazi party on the home front.]

A heavy German tank.

"At the time of the greatest disaster in the year 1919, it [the party] already proclaimed in its program the reëstablishment of a German national army and for decades has pursued this ideal with fanatical determination.

"It has, above all, provided the ideological foundation for our struggle. In opposition to the senseless sacrifice of human life, practiced by our democratic adversaries for their plutocratic interests, it has championed truly social unity of the people. Thus it created that close unity between the front line soldier and the home front which was so sorely lacking in the world war.

Applauds Four Men.

"From its ranks, therefore, I should like to name four men who among innumerable others have won the greatest merit in the struggle to make it possible for new Germany to celebrate victories:

"Reich Minister Hess, himself an ex-service man who fought in the great war, has from the earliest foundation of the movement been a most faithful comrade in the struggle for the establishment of our present state of its army. Lutze who has organized the millions of storm troopers in the spirit of the greatest sacrifice to the state and showed their preliminary training and their subsequent courage after leaving the army. Himmler, chief of the German police and creator of the S. S. units on active service. Hierl the founder and leader of the labor service of the reich. Maj. Gen. Dr. Todt, the organizer of munitions supply and the builder of a mighty network of strategical roads and a line of fortifications in the west. Dr. Goebbels, the organizer of propaganda, the efficiency of which is best gauged by comparison with that of the world war. . . .

"Members of the reichstag, as fuehrer and commander in chief of the German army, I have determined to honor the most distinguished generals before the forum which in truth is the most representative of the German people. At their head I must place that man for whom I find it difficult to express sufficient thanks for his service which binds his name to the movement, the state, and, above all, to the German air force. My colleague, Goering, has since the foundation of the storm troopers been connected with the development and the progress of the movement. Since the assumption of power, his work and his readiness to shoulder responsibilities have accomplished tasks in innumerable spheres which will never be forgotten in the history of our people.

New Honor for Goering.

"Since the reëstablishment of the German army, he has been the creator of the German air force. It is granted to but a few mortals in the course of their lives to create a military instrument from nothing and to develop it until it becomes the mightiest weapon of its kind. Field Marshal Goering as creator of the German air force has individually made the highest contribution to the reconstruction of the German army. As commander of the German air force, he has contributed to the creation of the prerequisites for the victory gained so far in this war. Goering's merits are unique. I therefore, confer on him the rank of marshal of the reich and award to him the grand cross of the iron cross.

"The fuehrer now announces promotions in the army, whereby Generals Von Brauchitsch, Von Rundstedt, Von Leeb, Von Bock, List, Kluge, Witzleben and Ritter, now are promoted to the ranks of field marshals. Promotions announced by the Fuehrer are those of Generals Kaulter, Guiman, Bicker, Kurbler, Bush, Strauss, Hechenhorst, Kleist, Schubert, Budlimon, Hott, Hoser, Tutmeer, to the rank of colonel general. [Here the promotions were listed.]

"I cannot conclude my survey of this struggle without at this point making mention of our ally [Italy].

"It is entirely due to Duce's success, the effects of which will endure for centuries to come. It was possible to establish contact between the two revolutions which rightfully are so nearly related and now finally to establish a bond of blood which is destined to grant Europe new life. . . .

"Last year this war was thrust upon Germany against my wish and desire. The continued action of our two states was decided upon in a discussion between Mussolini and myself. The advantages accruing to Germany from the attitude of Italy were exceptional. It was not only economically that the situation and the attitude of Italy were of advantage to us, but also from a military point of view.

Deep Feeling of Gratitude.

"From the very commencement of the war Italy held strong units of our enemy occupied and, above all, diminished the freedom of their strategical positions. When, however, the Duce considered that the right moment had come to take up arms against the continuous and intolerable violations represented by French and British acts of interference and the king declared war, he did so of his own accord. Our feeling of gratitude must, therefore, be all the deeper. . . .

"The anguish felt in Italy so recently in the death of Marshal Balbo (governor of Libya) is also Germany's anguish. Her every joy is also shared by us. Our coöperation in both the political and military spheres is complete. It will extinguish the injustice done to the German and Italian peoples in the course of centuries, for our efforts will be crowned by a common victory.

Speaks of the Future.

"Now, gentlemen, I speak of the future. It is in no spirit of boastful vainglory; that I can confidently leave to others who probably need it more than I, for example Mr. Churchill. I would like without exaggeration to provide you with a view of the situation as it is and as I see it. The course of the war, during the last 10 months, has proved that I was right and that the opinions of our opponents were wrong. When British statesmen declared that their country has always emerged stronger from every defeat and every disaster then it is at least not conceit when I inform you that we shall emerge similarly all the stronger from our successes.

"As far back as September 3, last year, I told you that come what may, neither force of arms nor time would get Germany down. In military power the reich is stronger today than ever before. You have learned of the losses, admittedly heavy for the individual, but slightly in their total, which the German army has in an endeavor to reach an understanding with France and Britain. You will remember the answer which I received. All my arguments as to the folly of continuing the struggle and pointing to the certainty that at best there is nothing to gain but all to lose, were either received with derision or completely ignored.

Branded as a Coward.

"I told you at the time that on account of my peace proposals I expected even to be branded as a coward who did not want to fight on because I could not. That is exactly what did happen. I believe, however, that the French—of course not so much the guilty statesmen as the suffered in action during the last three months.

"When you consider that during this period we have established a front stretching from the North Cape to the Spanish frontier, you will realize that these losses, especially as compared with those during the great war, are amazingly slight. . . .

Army "Stronger than Ever."

"The manpower of our nation thus spared will strengthen our struggle for our freedom, which has been forced upon us. . . . Taken all alone the army today is stronger than ever.

"Arms: The loss of arms in Norway and especially during the campaign against Holland, Belgium, and France is entirely negligible. The output is out of proportion to the loss. The army and air force are at this moment more perfectly equipped and stronger than before our advance in the west.

"Ammunition was manufactured on so large a scale and the existing supplies are so enormous that either a limitation or a change over of production is becoming necessary in numerous sections, since many of the existing depots and stores in spite of huge extensions are no longer in a position to accommodate further supplies. The consumption of munitions, as during the Polish campaign, was small beyond all expectations and is negligible compared to the supplies. The total amount of supplies to the army and air force and all services is considerably greater than before our attack in the west.

Credit to Four Year Plan.

"Raw materials essential in war: Thanks to the four year plan Germany was admirably prepared for the most severe trial. No army in the world has adapted itself to the use of such materials essential to the conduct of war as were produced within the country, in place of those which had to be imported, to anything like the extent to which this has been achieved in Germany.

"Thanks to the efforts of the marshal of the reich [Goering] the adaptation of the German economic system to an autarchy in war economy had been accomplished even in peacetime. We possess the two most vital raw materials—coal and iron—in what I may today term unlimited quantity. The supply of fuel we have in storage is plentiful and our productive capacity is on the increase and will within a short time be sufficient for our requirements even if our imported supplies should cease. Thanks to our system of collecting old metal our reserve supplies of metal have increased to such a degree that we can carry on even for any length of time and will not be at the mercy of any contingency.

"In addition, there are the tremendous possibilities presented by the acquisition of inestimable spoils and the exploitation of the territory occupied by us. These spheres of economic interests controled by them, Germany and Italy have at their disposal two hundred million persons among whom they can draw on one hundred and thirty million for military man power, whilst over seventy million are engaged in purely economic activities.

Food Supplies Guaranteed.

"I told you on September 3rd, gentlemen, that in order to carry on this war I had promulgated a new 5 year plan. Today I am in a position to assure you that the necessary measures have been taken but, that, come what may, I do not now anticipate any contingency of a threatening nature. Thanks to measures adopted in time, food supplies are likewise guaranteed, however long the war may last.

"The morale of the German people: Thanks to their National Socialist training, the people of Germany did not enter this war in a spirit of superficial and blatant patriotism, but with the grimness of a nation aware of the fate that awaits it should it be defeated.

"The efforts of our enemies to shatter this unity by means of propaganda were stupid as they were futile. Ten months of war have only served to strengthen our fanaticism. . . .

Assails Imperial Foes.

"I have recently perused in documents from the ark of the covenant which stood in the allied headquarters, containing among other things reports on conditions in Germany and memoranda on the morale of the German people. These reports were made by diplomats, but on reading them one can merely ask one's self whether the authors were blind, stupid or low scoundrels.

"I readily admit that there naturally were and probably still are persons, even in Germany who watch almost with regret while the third reich marches on to victory. Incorrigible reactionaries and unseeing annihilists may well mourn that things have gone very differently from what they had hoped, but their number is negligible and their significance still more so.

"Unfortunately, however, it would appear that when judgment is passed upon the German people abroad the scum of the nation is chosen as a criterion. The result is that the diseased imagination of shipwrecked statesmen fastens upon these last reasons for renewed hope. Thus British diplomats alternately choose general hunger or threatening revolution as their allies. . . .

Refers to Pact with Russia.

"In the opinion of the British politicians, their last hopes, apart from allied peoples, consisting of a number of kings without a throne, statesmen without a nation, and generals without an army, seem to be based on fresh complications which they hope to bring about, thanks to their probing skill in such matters.

"A veritable wandering Jew among these hopes is the belief in the possibility of a fresh estrangement between Germany and Russia. German and Russian relations have been finally established. . . .

"In my speech of Oct. 6, I prophesied correctly the further development of this war. I assured you gentlemen that never for one moment did I doubt our victory. As long as one does not insist on regarding defeat as the visible sign and guarantee of ultimate victory, I would appear to have been justified by the course which events have taken so far. Altho I was convinced of the course they would take, I, nevertheless, at the time held out my hand people—are beginning to think very differently about that sixth of October. Indescribable misery has overtaken that great country and people since that day. . . .

"Neither in this world nor in the next can Messrs. Churchill and Reynaud answer for the suffering they have caused by their counsels and decrees to millions of people. All this, as I said once before, need never have happened, for in October I asked nothing from either France or Britain but peace. But the men behind the armaments industries wanted to go on with the war at all costs, and now they have got it.

Hears 'War Must Go On.'

"I am too much of a soldier myself not to understand the misery caused by such a development. From Britain I now hear only a single cry, the cry not of the people but of the politicians, that the war must go on. I do not know whether these politicians already have a correct idea of what the continuation of this struggle will be like. They do, it is true, declare they will carry on the war, and that even if Great Britain should perish, they would carry on from Canada. I can hardly believe that they mean by this that the people of Britain are to go to Canada. Presumably only those gentlemen interested in the continuation of their war will go there. The people, I am afraid, will have to remain in Britain and the people in London will certainly regard the war with other eyes than their so-called leaders in Canada.

"Believe me, gentlemen, I feel a deep disgust for this type of unscrupulous politician who wrecks whole nations and states. It almost causes me pain to think that I should have been selected by fate to deal the final blow to the structure which these men have already set tottering. It never has been my intention to wage wars, but rather to build up a state with a new social order and the finest possible standard of culture. Every year this war drags on is keeping me away from this work.

Charges Open Towns Bombed.

"Only a few days ago Mr. Churchill reiterated his declaration that he wants war. Some six weeks ago he began to wage war in a field where he apparently considers himself particularly strong—namely: air raids on the civil population, altho under the pretense the raids are directed against so-called military objectives.

"Since the bombardment of Friborg, these objectives are open towns, market places and villages, burning houses, hospitals, schools, kindergartens, and whatever else may come their way. Until now I have hardly made any reprisals. That does not mean this will be or is my only reply. I know full well that our answer which will come one day will bring upon the people unending suffering and misery. Of course, not upon Mr. Churchill, for he no doubt will already be in Canada where the money and the children of those principally interested in the war have already been sent.

"For millions of other people, however, great suffering will begin. Mr. Churchill or perhaps others for once believe me when I prophesy a great empire will be destroyed, an empire which it was never my intention to destroy or even to harm.

"I do, however, realize that this struggle, if it continues, can end only with the complete annihilation of one or the other of the two adversaries. Mr. Churchill may believe this will be Germany. I know that it will be Britain.

An Appeal to Reason.

"In this hour I feel it to be my duty before my own conscience to appeal once more to reason and common sense in Great Britain as much as elsewhere. I consider myself in a position to make this appeal, since I am not the vanquished, begging favors of the victor. Speaking in the name of reason I can see no reason why this war must go on. I am grieved to think of the sacrifices which it will claim.

"I should like to avert them, also for my own people. I know that millions of German men, young and old alike, are burning with the desire at last to settle accounts with the enemy who, for the second time, has declared war upon us for no reason whatever, but I also know that at home there are many women and mothers who, ready as they are to sacrifice all they have in life, are yet bound to it by their very heart strings. Possibly Mr. Churchill will again brush aside this statement of mine by saying that it is merely born of fear and of doubt in our final victory. In that case, I shall have relieved my conscience in regard to the things to come.

"Deputies and members of the German reichstag: In looking back upon the last ten months, we are all struck by the grace of Providence which has allowed us to succeed in our great work. Providence has blessed our great resolves and guided us in our difficult matter. As for myself, I am deeply moved, realizing that Providence has called upon me to restore to my people their freedom and honor. The humiliation and disgrace which originated 22 years ago in the forest of Compiegne have forever been obliterated in the same place. . . ."

RUMANIA READY TO DEMOBILIZE MORE SOLDIERS

Denies Reports of Trouble on Bulgarian Border.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, July 19 [Passed by censor].—Rumanian authorities tonight denied reports of trouble and shooting in districts along the Bulgarian frontier and said they even were preparing to announce demobilization of more troops.

Reports reaching here from Bulgaria said 18 Bulgars living in the Rumanian Dobruja area near the Bulgarian border had been shot in the last few days by Rumanian troops. Authorities denied it and a protest was made by Bulgaria.

There have been announcements of demobilization of groups of soldiers, but the number affected is believed small. Now there are to be new demobilizations affecting about 150,000 of 1,00,000 men under arms, it is said.

Hungarian Demands.

While all official emphasis here is on the peaceful state of their frontier, Rumanian and Hungarian newspapers continue to exchange personal remarks over the problem of the Hungarian minority in Transylvania. Hungary demands to have that region back.

Confident of German support, the Rumanians insist they will not yield an inch of territory.

Signs of all-pervasive German influence daily become more obvious. The campaign to drive the Jews from economic and political life in Rumania is in full swing. Newspapers carry lists of Jewish doctors dismissed from public posts. A list of Jewish teachers to be dismissed immediately has been prepared by the ministry of education.

Suppress 28 Publications.

A list of 28 publications suppressed by the censorship appeared today. Most of these are Jewish and some are labor organs.

Rumania is looking to its defenses as best it can. Since the Russian grab of Bessarabia, the streets of Bucharest have been patroled by soldiers and police. A vigorous campaign is being carried on against careless talk and spies.

For the moment tension has relaxed, but this condition is believed to be merely a lull before new developments, which will probably come when the harvest is finished.

When and if Germany attacks England, there is a general belief that Russia will take advantage of the situation by trying to force her neighbors into new concessions.

This time, it is believed here, Turkey is slated to be called upon to give Russia at least a share in the control of the Dardanelles.

DEMOCRATS O. K. TRIBUNE NEWS OF CONVENTION

The three men who presided over sessions of the Democratic national convention yesterday approved THE TRIBUNE'S coverage of the event. Here are their replies to the question, "Do you feel THE TRIBUNE has been fair and impartial in its coverage of the convention?"

James A. Farley, national chairman, who opened the meeting: "THE TRIBUNE has conducted itself in keeping with the best traditions of the press in its coverage of the convention. It has been most fair to me and to the great Democratic party."

Speaker William B. Bankhead, temporary chairman and keynoter: "Those stories I have seen in THE TRIBUNE have been fair."

Senator Alben W. Barkley, permanent chairman: "As far as I have seen the news columns of THE TRIBUNE have been impartial in their reports of the deliberations of this great convention. As a Democrat I object to some of the cartoons."

NAZIS THREATEN A WARSAW FATE TO BRITISH CITIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 19.—In an editorial to be published tomorrow the Essener National Zeitung will say:

"Should the English people give up their faith in victory, then they should chase away the criminal at the head of their government, Winston Churchill. If not, then they will do well to mind the words Adolf Hitler addressed to England.

"The English people would certain understand them if, in their majority, they had had the possibility of seeing the ruins of Warsaw and Rotterdam with their own eyes. That is the fate which threatens probably not only the capital of the British empire but also most of the big cities on the English highlands.

"The English people will then have to accept that everything that they consider as their culture and as a power of their empire is annihilated and destroyed."

IRELAND CALLS ON 400,000 TO ENLIST IN ARMY

DUBLIN, July 19 (AP).—Minister of Supply Sean Lemass declared tonight "We must prepare for the worst and prepare quickly," as Ireland called for 400,000 more volunteers for the army.

"In case of attack the government itself might be put out of action," Lemass said in a broadcast to the people. He explained the government planned to appoint regional commissioners with power to administer their areas.

Present army enrollment is about 190,000 for all forces. The regular army's strength approximates 70,000. Soldiers today carried out maneuvers based on resisting invading parachute troops.

About four tons of ammunition and six men were seized near here by detectives.

SONS OF FRANCE ALONE CAN HOLD FRENCH OFFICES

Many Facing Ouster Under New Edict.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 19.—A wholesale dismissal of French officials is expected to start immediately as the result of the publication today of a new decree law providing that those who serve France, either in local or national offices, must be French born, having both father and mother of French origin.

Notices of intention to dismiss persons in office who lack these qualifications were served today. Some exceptions will be made in the case of those who served in the world war. Pensions will be given to persons who have worked for the government more than 15 years.

Oust Three in Foreign Service.

The strong nationalistic trend of the new French government was given further emphasis in a decree which permits government ministers summarily to dismiss personnel who got into office during the years 1936 and 1937. It is charged that many who got jobs in this period could not even speak French. The decree applies to magistrates, civil servants, and military agents.

The ministry of foreign affairs announced three members of the foreign service, an embassy secretary, a vice consul, and an interpreter had been dismissed for leaving their posts without orders.

The cabinet ministers spent a busy day around the Hotel du Paro, the center of government activities.

Reject Lord Halifax Plea.

Interest was divided between speculation on Gen. Charles Huntziger's report to Marshal Petain on how armistice negotiations are shaping at Wiesbaden, Germany, and Foreign Minister Paul Baudoin's somewhat sudden announcement that Lord Halifax, British foreign minister, had wanted to resume diplomatic relations with the French.

The French told Lord Halifax this was out of the question unless the British first restored all warships and commercial ships they had seized from the French and agreed to indemnify the French for damage done to the French navy.

The French embassy in London wound up business and started home today.

Officials Move to Paris.

GRENOBLE, France, July 19 (AP).—Finance Minister Marcel Bouthillier will leave for Paris on Sunday to reestablish the French finance ministry in its offices on the left bank of the Seine, the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois reported today.

Leading French banks and insurance companies already are returning to their headquarters in the capital.

Threaten Purge of Press.

BERLIN, July 19 (AP).—A portion of the German press registered impatience with the "liberty" allowed French newspapers in commenting on the German occupation of much of France.

DNB, German official news agency, found fault with reported observations in French papers that the defeat was due to French indifference—that there was no real military test.

The governor of Baden, Robert Wagner, today intimated an ousting of Jews and prominent French partisans would be started in Alsace soon.

AFTER HOURS BAR ALIBI WINS: ANY PORT IN A STORM

A good thing for tavern owners is to have a handy man or a friend in the place around closing time. The next best thing is a good rainstorm.

This lesson was apparent yesterday when 22 tavern owners, whose licenses were revoked by Mayor Kelly recently for closing hour violations, were given permission by the license appeal commission to reopen.

One tavern owner said in appealing to the commission that when the police found him open late, that drink being served was only for a plumber who had been at work in the basement. Another said the man who had a drink in his hand was a friend, waiting for him to go home.

The rainstorm alibi was offered by another who said several of his customers didn't want to leave his tavern at closing time because it was pouring outside and they were waiting for taxicabs.

Resume Hearings Monday on Lake Diversion Plea

Monte M. Lemann, special master appointed by the United States Supreme court, will resume hearings Monday in Joliet on Illinois' plea for an increase in diversion of lake water from 1,500 to 5,000 cubic feet a second until Dec. 31, 1942. More than a hundred witnesses living in and near Joliet are expected to testify that obnoxious odors and unhealthful conditions are created by the dumping of Chicago sewage into the Illinois waterway.

Britain Sets Up Tribunal to Adjust Labor Disputes

HITLER OFFERS BRITAIN PEACE OR DESTRUCTION

Fuehrer Predicts Victory in War to Finish.

ish capitalist warmongers, their hands stained with blood, saw their tangible pretexts for realizing their diabolical plans vanish into thin air.

"Once again we witnessed a conspiracy of wretched, corruptible, political creatures and money-grabbing financial magnates for whom the war was a welcome means of furthering their business aims," he cried as the audience roared with delight.

Calls Poland "Popinjay."

Hitler described Poland before the outbreak of the war as "a popinjay puffed up with political pomp." He spoke of documents Germans found, which Nazis allege prove that France and England wanted to inveigle all small countries of Europe into a war against Germany.

Hitler said that the German campaign against Norway "was prepared down to the last detail" when "the reaction of Norway to the sowing of British mines removed all doubts" in Norway's sympathy for England. He described Germany's conquest of Norway as the "boldest undertaking in the history of the German forces."

He said the Norwegian troops fought bravely. Concerning the British expeditionary force, he said, "All that was remarkable about them was the lack of sense of responsibility of those who sent out such poorly trained, insufficiently equipped, and miserably led soldiers."

Pays Tribute to Troops.

Hitler paid a great tribute to the German high command, his officers, and soldiers.

Hitler described the battle for France and emphasized that he had seen to it that a repetition of the disaster which overtook Germany at the Marne in 1914 was prevented.

Ciano suddenly looked up from the copy of Hitler's speech when the Fuehrer declared:

"In the spheres of economic interest controled by them, Germany and Italy have at their disposal 200 million persons. From these they can draw on 130 million for manpower, while over 70 million are engaged in purely economic activities."

The population of Germany proper is estimated at 88 million, while Italy with her colonies and Albania has close to 66 million persons.

Goering closed the reichstag session after the singing of "Deutschland Ueber Alles" and the Horst Wessel song.

"Never before has there been such a session," the newly promoted marshal general said. "You, my Fuehrer, again and again stirred the German people up. To the world you even gave prophesies of vast magnitude.

"Today nobody can deny all your prophesies had usual fulfillment."

HEARS PRESIDENT AND GETS SO MAD HE AXES HOME

"Foss had his radio on," said Michael Spiro landlord of the building at 5507 Cottage Grove avenue, where Foss lives. "Apparently he didn't agree with what the President was saying. So he shouted back into the receiver.

"Then he got an ax and began chopping up the porch at the rear of his apartment. After that he chopped down an 8 year old tree in the yard."

Foss, arraigned on a disorderly conduct charge, admitted he had had a few drinks and got angry at the President's speech. Judge Weiss, a Democrat, ordered Foss examined by a psychiatrist and continued the case to July 26.

Bullitt and Ex-Empress Are Due on Clipper Today

New York, July 19 (AP).—William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to France, and Zita, former empress of Austria, were en route to New York tonight aboard the Dixie Clipper, from Horta, the Azores. Pan American Airways said the Clipper would reach New York at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. The ex-empress, whose son, Archduke Otto, is in New York, was accompanied by her daughter, Princess Elizabeth. The Dixie Clipper, with 12 passengers aboard, was delayed in its departure from Lisbon but overtook the Yankee Clipper which stopped at Horta last Monday for motor repairs.

HERE'S THE RECORD OF HITLER'S EARLIER 'OFFERS FOR PEACE'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Since his rise to power in 1933, Fuehrer Adolf Hitler has made most of his important pronouncements before the reichstag. Included were these:

May 18, 1933—"There is but one great task before the world; namely, to secure the peace of the world. . . . Germany is ready to join every solemn nonaggression pact."

Jan. 30, 1934—"The assertion that Germany plans to violate Austria is absurd and incapable of proof."

May 21, 1935—Pledging participation in arms limitation pacts and proposing mutual nonaggression agreements: "We believe that if the people of the world would unite jointly in destroying all their fire, gas and explosive bombs, this would be cheaper than destroying each other."

March 8, 1936—Announcing remilitarization of the Rhineland: "I believe I can consider with today the fight for German equality as concluded. . . . I can assure you that nothing, certainly nothing in this world, can move us to renounce this sovereignty [over the Rhineland]."

Jan. 30, 1937—"I hereby most solemnly withdraw the German signature from that declaration [the treaty of Versailles] forced upon a weak government against its better knowledge."

Feb. 20, 1938—"Germany has no quarrel whatsoever with England—aside from our colonial desire. There will be an increasing demand for those colonial possessions."

Jan. 30, 1939—"There is no doubt that a war against the Italy of today for no matter what motive, will call Germany to the side of her friend."

April 28, 1939—Denouncing British-German naval pact and nonaggression agreement with Poland and answering President Roosevelt's request for nonaggression assurances: "I have not taken any steps that violated foreign rights but merely have restored the rights violated 20 years ago."

Sept. 1, 1939—"I am putting on the uniform and I shall take it off only in victory or death."

Oct. 6, 1939—Proposing a broad conference to bring about disarmament and new economic treaties: "The most important condition for a real revival of economic life in and outside Europe is the establishment of unconditionally guaranteed peace and of a sense of security on the part of individual nations."

SLAYER ADMITS KILLING CHILD IN RAPE ATTEMPT

Robert Schroeder, 26 years old, confessed yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Blair Varnes that he killed Maizie Smith, 8 years old, when the little girl repulsed his attempt to attack her. Previously Schroeder had admitted the murder, but insisted he knew no reason, except that his mind "went blank."

The body of the child, beaten with a furnace poker and a disconnected water faucet, was found early Thursday, hidden behind a boiler in the basement of a tavern at 2850 North Central avenue, where Schroeder lives and was employed. The girl lived at 2913 North Parkside avenue.

Schroeder confessed he coaxed the Smith girl into the basement and then attempted to rape her. When the child screamed, Schroeder said he became panicky and struck her repeatedly with the two bludgeons. The state plans to seek his indictment Monday for murder.

MR. ROOSEVELT CONFESSES.

The third term, as Mr. Roosevelt confessed in his radio talk to the convention, needed a war. It needed a war and along with it the strange doctrine that only one man could save the country.

All thru his second term Mr. Roosevelt was determined to have the third if he could get it. He knew that the judgment of the country would be against him unless the nation could be thrown into a state of great alarm and worked into a sense of great national emergency.

If Mr. Roosevelt was to be the first man to hold the White House as a permanent residence, the doctrine of indispensability had to be made as plausible as it could be. Mr. Roosevelt says that it was only after the beginning of the European war in September that he began to lie awake nights troubled by his conscience. Until that time he had been persuaded that he could do what he desired to do, which was retire from public life.

When the Germans invaded Poland and Great Britain and France went to war "that quiet, invisible thing called conscience" began to conflict with his "deep personal desire for retirement."

Long before Sept. 1, 1939, Mr. Roosevelt had cultivated the mystery of his purposes. He had refused to answer the anxious questions of his own party associates. He had indicated his disapproval of every candidate suggested as his successor. He had moved likely fellows, when he could dispose of them, about so as to detach them from publicity. His place men, who knew how to please him, were saying in public places that he must be drafted. They didn't say it was for war; they said it was for continuance of the New Deal revolution.

Mr. Roosevelt did not rebuke any one who said he was indispensable because the New Deal must not perish, but he did show his displeasure when any other Democrat was mentioned as a possibility.

This cultivated uncertainty discouraged all other ambitions. Men said they would be candidates if Mr. Roosevelt did not desire to be renominated. The uncertainty did not begin September first. The question of the third term had occupied public attention for more than a year before the war started. Mr. Roosevelt's friends did not, as he says they did, know that he intended to retire and not seek renomination.

His predecessors when their intentions were asked had been quick to say that they would under no circumstances accept a third term. Only Mr. Roosevelt refused to answer that question. He not only refused but he created the conviction in the minds of all the people that he would take the third term, that he would use all the powers of his office to get it, and that the firmest determination of his life was to break tradition and to stay in the White House, becoming historically notable as the President who did what no other President had done.

When war broke out he seized his opportunity immediately. He brought the war as close to these shores as he possibly could. Documents reveal that before the French and the British despaired of peaceable solution of the Danzig question Mr. Roosevelt's ambassadors, Mr. Bullitt in Paris and Mr. Kennedy in London, were giving representatives of the Polish government to understand that America would be in on the side of Poland if Poland would resist. What this did to make impossible any negotiations between Poland and Nazi Germany cannot be known now. There is a feeling that it did a great deal.

As soon as the war had begun Mr. Roosevelt proclaimed a state of limited national emergency. He had the neutrality law repealed in order that the United States might become the supply depot of one set of belligerents. Week by week, he has increased the warlike measures and operations of the United States. He has never allowed the people to avoid the idea that they are about to go to war.

As the time for the nominating convention approached, Mr. Roosevelt, lying awake nights wondering how he could most easily achieve this overweening ambition, sent his messages to congress calling for 14 billion dollars of armament and a week before the delegates came to Chicago he announced his purpose of asking authority to call out the National Guard. He threw over the country the shadow of the war which was to make it impossible for him not to sacrifice himself to this undying ambition of his while he called upon his fellow countrymen to sacrifice themselves to chimeras he evoked from beyond the seas.

As hypocrisy this reaches the zenith of the ridiculous. A man who says he wanted to retire has played upon the emotions of the American people with every tremulous tone he could sound, seeking to further his ambitions to be the first Caesar who crossed the White House threshold not willingly to go out of the office which it represented. He pictures himself as a country squire sacrificing himself to the war conditions he has created.

This dictatorially minded man produced the sham of the Democratic convention, rehearsing every event from the opening speech by Mr. Bankhead to the last note of his own soulful voice saying how he was immolating himself upon the altar of his country. The sham, beginning when he refused to make the simple statement that he was not a candidate for the renomination, coming to one climax when he told the convention Tuesday night that he did not want it and to another Thursday night when he confessed that he has been wanting it in his sleepless hours all along for the last 10 months.

Surely a reading of Mr. Roosevelt's record along with a reading of his speech will show to any one whose mind is open the duplicity of a man given to histrionics, a man obsessed with visions of extraordinary grandeur, and a man who craftily seeks his way into the sympathies and illusions of a people who may be deluded by such craftiness. He has a low opinion of the sound judgment of the people of the United States.

Less candor has never been in the White House. More duplicity has never been there. There has never been a serener contempt for the common sense of the American people. There never has been a more determined resolve to sacrifice American welfare to personal aggrandizement.

Any one who could read that speech to a convention completely dominated by the federal purse and completely immunized from any considerations of national good and not see how false it was in word and emphasis, how deceitful it was in purpose and intent, and how completely it revealed the overreaching ambitions of a willful, egotistic man, has closed his eyes to the evidence before them and his ears to the meaning of the words he hears.

Mr. Roosevelt speaks of submitting to a draft upon his conscience because these are times in which men must surrender their liberty of choice in action to the national emergency. There is no national emergency except the one he has first created in his own purposes and then endeavored to convey to the country as a certainty of doom. This certainty of doom he hopes to be his certificate of election to a third, and after that how many terms? The sleepless man in the White House is sleepless with unlimited ambition. He is willing to go to any extreme to satisfy this restless urge of his. He has betrayed himself by his confession and his acts make the confession unnecessary.

Republicans need not regret anything that happened in the Stadium in Chicago Thursday night. There the intrigue was written as boldly, as distinctly, as if in words of prophetic fire. The country knows what it can expect because it sees what has been done. A cold and clammy intrigue burst out in the truth of a confession which must needs fail to do what it tried to do. It tried to picture a stricken man yielding to the necessities of his country. What it did was to show an ambitious man sacrificing his country to himself.

AND WALLACE.

The Democrats did not want to nominate Henry Wallace for the Vice Presidency but they yielded to Mr. Roosevelt's ultimatum. They don't like Mr. Wallace as a human being or as a public official; they don't like his record, his politics, or his economics. Speeches by the delegates from farming districts showed plainly that the Democratic leaders out in the country fear that Mr. Wallace's unpopularity with the farmers will work great injury to the party in November.

The alarm was genuine and from their behavior there is no doubt that a majority of the men and women on the floor would have preferred almost any one else had the choice been a free one. Mr. Lucas was candid. He said the delegates were not free.

Mr. Wallace was the candidate not of the farmers but of Kelly, Hague, Philip Murray of the C. I. O., and others like them. The Democratic party came to power under Jefferson as the party of the independent, self-dependent farmer. It has wholly lost that character. It is now the party of the big city machine politicians allied with proletarian radicals. The other elements in the population and particularly the southerners who supported Speaker Bankhead are no longer consulted. They continue to strut about as if they amounted to something but they don't and they and everybody else know it. They have been bought with the pork barrel and they are in the humiliating position of having to take orders from the purchaser.

Mr. Roosevelt wanted Mr. Wallace as his running mate because Mr. Roosevelt believes, contrary to the opinion of men who live in the county seats, that Mr. Wallace will hold the farm vote. There have been the plainest indications in the last two years that the middle west is deserting the New Deal. Since 1938 downstate Illinois has been Republican. The congressional elections showed substantial Republican gains in almost every important agricultural state, and this year's primaries indicate that the trend is continuing. If Mr. Wallace as secretary of agriculture could not keep the farmers in line and, indeed, drove them into the opposing camp, it is not easy to see how Mr. Wallace as candidate for Vice President can do better.

Mr. Roosevelt's pride of opinion and lust for domination determined the choice. In 1932 and again in 1936 Mr. Roosevelt gladly accepted a Democrat as his running mate. Even this sop to the party traditions has now been snatched away. The Democratic party, as Mr. Glass almost said in his moving speech nominating Mr. Farley, is now little more than a name. Today it is the New Deal party, and if Mr. Wallace should happen to succeed to the Presidency, it will remain so.

Editorial of the Day

CLAUDE STILL HAS THE RECORD.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Perhaps attentive readers may have noticed that Ambassador Bullitt finally has extricated himself from Nazi occupied Paris and has joined the French government, to which he is accredited. The ambassador had been "missing" and under "protective custody" between 10 days and two weeks. However, Mr. Bullitt has nothing on Ambassador Bowers, who "lost touch" with the old Spanish government long enough to retire to France and write a book. There was a real record in absenteeism.

Cultural note culled from the Deutscher Weckruf und Beobachter, New York Nazi organ:

Quite a number of people also describe the German classical author, Shakespeare, as belonging to English literature, because—quite accidentally born at Stratford-on-Avon—he was forced by the authorities of that country to write in English.—American Mercury.

Sixty-five erstwhile members of the American Youth congress are organizing a new youth movement, something like jacking up the radiator cap and putting a new car under it. The question now is, "Which gets Mrs. F. D. R.?"—Illinois State Journal.

The scarcity of jobs is becoming considerably less acute. Every day or so somebody not kin to any public official succeeds in securing employment.—Washington.

CONVENTION POSTSCRIPTS.

Our first prize for character at the Democratic convention goes to the delegate from some northwestern state who, at a late stage in the Presidential roll call, demanded a poll of his group. His purpose was to get an opportunity of standing up and announcing that he would not vote for any of the nominees. An individualist among the collectivists! As great a hero as the Lone Ranger!

Every other demander of a delegation poll caused us to yearn for the old fashioned steamroller.

Second prize is awarded to a gentleman from Puerto Rico who mounted the platform in high excitement to read a thesis on Caribbean economics that seemed to have been written in Esperanto.

The most surprising act [reported by an eyewitness but not recorded, as far as we know, in the press]: Chairman Barkley kissed a picture of President Roosevelt. Perhaps our informant was mistaken; perhaps it was only a state standard, of which the affectionate Barkley kissed several. But if true, some Republican camera should have snapped a picture of the performance for use in the campaign. That way, dear Alben, lies Fuehrerism.

The motto of the convention should have been, "Alea jacta est." [The die is cast.] These were the words of Julius Cæsar when he crossed the Rubicon, with his army of Gaul, in violation of the traditions of the Roman republic.

The gossip columnists and society reporters missed the social highlight of the convention. At a dinner session in the Tavern club, the governor of North Carolina met the governor of South Carolina.

MEMORIES OF ENGLAND—V.

(Ely Cathedral.)

Say not they wrought too lavishly who raised
This dream of beauty from the vulgar sod;
For as they toiled they companied with God.
Thru loving years their spirits were amazed
At that which slow took form; their rapt eyes gazed
On heaven as they carved, from stubborn stone,
These lacy miracles. They would atone
For bloody wars of lust and hate, who praised
The God of love with splendid wastefulness.
Their bones have turned to dust, their dream abides,
And deep within the God of beauty hides,
And weeps that we still grovel in the mire
Of greed, and hug our gold. These shrines confess,
For us, our sins, proclaim man's high desire.

A Song of Baby Shoes.

Let me tell of my experience with the Yellow Kid [July 12]. I'm an auctioneer and he sent me his home furnishings and art collection to sell in February, 1928. He had an excellent library of English classics.

The Kid came in before the sale. He had parked his car, double, outside and I smelled trouble when a copper entered and inquired for its owner. The Kid told the officer he was driving down Wabash avenue and happened to see the signs in our window, announcing the sale of his goods, and that he had forgotten the parking rules, in his anxiety to enter and bid for his little girl's baby shoes, his poor darling little girl's baby shoes.

The policeman left, murmuring huskily, "When you have time, buddy, kindly move the car."

The Sounds We Hear No More.

Sounds that are disappearing from American life:

The "clop-clop" of horses' hoofs, the "whoo-whoo" of the steamboat's whistle, the "clang-clang-clang" of the fire engine's gong.

And soon the "chu-chu" trains will be drowned out by the sustained, nonrhythmic roaring of the Diesel engined streamliners.

The staccato clatter of lathers' hammers, a familiar sound to Chicagoans of the 1890s, when the vacant lots were being covered with dwellings, is now as extinct as the howling of prairie wolves on State street.

MOUNTAIN AND MOUSE.

The senator wi' pompous mien
Portentous secret carried,
While news hoons sniffin' at his heels
His footsteps dogged an' harried.
He strode up tae the rostrum high
An' flailed the fenceless breeze,
Exuded an oration lang—
(Shades o' Demosthenes!)
He labored, groaned an' grunted,
A' thru a weary hour,
While sweatin' delegates a' feared
The secret wad grow sour.
At last the fatal moment came;
It burst upon the house—
Did laboring mountain ever bring Forth such a tiny mouse? M'Tavish.

As we listened to President Roosevelt's radio address to the convention, an old Indiana folk saying to describe the self-consciousness of virtue came into our mind:

"Butter wouldn't melt in his mouth."

AMEBIC DYSENTERY, A TROPICAL INVADER.

THE first introduction which most American physicians received to amebic dysentery came when our soldiers returned from the Philippines. Prior to that time we were practically free from the disorder. Our troops in China during the Boxer uprising were obliged to be on their guard against cholera and other tropical infections, such as bubonic plague. For the most part the boys in blue escaped all but the parasitic diseases. We are still fighting some of them—and we have been doing so for more than 40 years.

We are well aware that certain varieties of ameba are harmless, and individuals may show many in the stools without the slightest danger to health. But with the type known as "histolytica" we should shun even a bowing acquaintance. An outbreak in one of our large cities in 1933 was sufficiently severe to put health officers everywhere on guard against this formidable invader. Fortunately, our water supplies are protected so zealously that we need not fear trouble from that source.

But uncooked food—particularly unwashed vegetables—may constitute a possible origin. During the vacation season many of us are likely to let down a bit in our sanitary precautions. Thoro scrubbing of raw vegetables designed for the table must be emphasized. Peeling is an almost sure preventive but, in many instances, the outer layers are composed of valuable elements which we do not wish to destroy. Even fruits may become contaminated, altho earth grown edibles are more frequently involved.

While the malady is not common in the sense that a cold or an attack of influenza may strike one at almost any time, nevertheless, when diarrhea persists—with symptoms of colitis—the physician will realize that he may be dealing with an intestinal parasite.

The course of the affliction is illustrated by the report of a 24 year old woman who entered the hospital a few weeks ago complaining of numerous bowel movements which contained flecks of blood. On examination she was found to be anemic, with a temperature of 101 degrees Fahrenheit, and a pulse of 120. Laboratory analyses revealed the presence of entameba histolytica. She was given injections of emetine hydrochloride which—for all practical purposes—may be considered a specific remedy. The drug was administered first hypodermically and later orally. Within two weeks the feces had returned to normal with no evidence of blood and with complete disappearance of the cause. This history may be considered typical of an acute manifestation which was recognized early and the patient thus saved a lingering illness.

But all cases are not quite so simple nor do they respond so satisfactorily to medication—especially if they have progressed untreated for many months. Unfortunately these troublemakers can wander to the liver and there form abscesses, resulting in a stepladder temperature and wasting of the tissues.

Medical men who have observed victims of long standing amebic infection know the difficulties with which they are confronted. Laboratory tests of the discharges—made by an expert—will nearly always determine whether or not the patient harbors these organisms. When in doubt, a checkup of the mucous lining of the lower bowel can be made with appropriate instruments and sometimes the appearance will prove diagnostic.

Diarrhea alternating with constipation should prove sufficiently suggestive to call for further study. We can well understand why anemia exists in most of these persons because the loss of blood exceeds the rate at which it is manufactured.

CHIGGERS.

W. E. L. writes: I have sprayed my garden with lime sulfur to eradicate red spiders but this does not bother the chiggers. Can you advise something to use to kill them after they get on one's person?

REPLY.

Chigger attacks may be prevented by the use of powdered sulfur. This may be dusted over the skin of the legs and a small quantity placed in each stocking. Powdered naphthalene—the substance composing mothballs—may be used with the same result. Relief from itching may be obtained by taking a warm salt bath or by killing the mites in their lairs by the application of benzine, sulfur ointment, or carbolized vaseline. A drop or two of chloroform may be used at the site of each swelling. If applied frequently, this will kill the insects. Keep the grass short. The lawn may be dusted with powdered sulfur or sprayed with a dilute kerosene emulsion to which sulfur has been added.

WELL FITTING TEETH.

R. W. writes: Is it a fact that when all of the teeth of the lower jaw are extracted, the shape of the mouth and lips change, even tho a full dental plate is worn?

REPLY.

Not if the normal occlusion is preserved. A lower plate that is too short may narrow the bite—giving the wearer a grim, unnatural expression.

CHOREA NOT EPILEPSY.

H. L. writes: What causes chorea? Is it related to epilepsy?

REPLY.

The result of an infection which is related to rheumatism. In no way associated with epilepsy.

STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

Chicago, July 17.—May I comment on a letter written to the Voice by Mrs. W. E. Burger?

I am sure no intelligent American would object to the singing of "God Bless America" every day, or several times a day, if a citizen is cheered by this sort of patriotic rededication. It is a fine, easily sung piece, as is also "America the Beautiful," but nothing should be allowed to take the place of our national anthem "The Star Spangled Banner," as they have no historic background.

Granting that our accepted anthem is difficult to sing, why not transpose the key and lower the pitch for the accompaniment? And why—O, why not learn the words of at least the first verse?

Francis Scott Key, a prisoner on a British ship during the war of 1812, remained on deck all night, watching the enemy's attack on Fort McHenry. With the coming of dawn, as the smoke of battle drifted away, he saw his beloved Stars and Stripes still flying over the American fortress, proving that the British had not captured this fort. With natural emotion, shown in the stirring words, the prisoner, Francis Scott Key, sat down and scribbled off the immortal lines to the flag that gave us our national anthem.

Enjoy your modern songs and all patriotic marches, but hold firmly to your heritage, as given to us in the "Star Spangled Banner," written in a day when God did "bless America," by saving her for posterity! FRANCESCA F. MILLER,
Chaplain, Daughters of 1812.

A JUROR'S EXPERIENCE.

Chicago, July 18.—The writer served over a month ago on jury duty but has not received any pay. A call at the county building was of no avail, as they say they are broke. Still we have to give up our salaries to serve or be held for contempt of court.

Out of eight panels for which I was selected only two cases went for the jury to decide; the others were settled after the jury was picked, or between sessions.

Just why should cases come up to juries, wasting money, and then be settled? It is a condition that should be stopped. If these cases were adjusted before going to court it would not be necessary to have so many jurors.

I hope you print this, as I know many like myself who gave up our salaries could use the money. JOHN DALY.

AT THE THRILL SHOW.

Chicago, July 18.—The management of the Thrill Show at Soldiers' field on Sunday is to be commended for permitting free entrance of the vast number of people who were willing to purchase admission tickets but could not do so because all available tickets had been sold.

I voice the sentiment of every one who otherwise would have been sadly disappointed if the above action had not been taken by those responsible.

The feeling of satisfaction by those who enjoyed the performance under the above circumstances will make for bigger and better success in years to follow.

E. W. Y.

BARKLEY'S CHIVALRY.

Chicago, July 17.—In his convention speech Senator Barkley made reference to the Republican platform as appearing to have been "written in mud by the migratory feet of a weasel." Fine words, these, by a professed southern gentleman. A weasel being allied to a polecat, the reason is obvious.

I have lived in the south and during the world war spent three months in a southern officers' training camp, composed largely of southerners, and I never lived among a finer, truer group of men than my buddies in 1918; therefore I feel qualified to speak with a degree of authority when I say that any thorobred Kentucky gentleman could not under any circumstances consider himself as such were he to refer to a group of outstanding Americans, whether Republican or Democrats as "weasels" [polecats].

It is barely possible that Mr. Barkley is ignorant of the relation between a weasel and a skunk; but I'll give him the benefit of the doubt, as I cannot conceive of a man in high office stooping so low as to make such public utterances.

I appreciate the traditional chivalry and culture of the southern people, and the sooner they rid themselves of men of the Barkley stripe, the higher will be the regard of the people of the nation for the southern people—God bless 'em.

JAMES H. BRUNDAGE.

TOO OBVIOUSLY REPUBLICAN.

Chicago, July 18.—Your paper is too obviously Republican to suit me. Not that I'm necessarily a loyal Democrat. I'm not saying. Your editorials and cartoons are loaded with sarcasm for the Democrats, exaggerations of their bad points, and filled with applause and orchids for the Republicans. You actually think there are no crooks in the Republican party? Don't be silly. Politics are dirty and you have had a goodly hand in the dirty end of it, as witnessed by your mud slinging of late. If the newspapers would keep out of politics we could probably have an honest campaign for once. STEPHANIE.

CANDIDLY GRATEFUL.

Chicago, July 18.—Are women in politics more candid than men? One female delegate from the glorious state of Washington, when called on Wednesday night to vote for a presidential candidate [on the state's call for a poll of the delegates], said: "I vote for President Franklin Delano Roosevelt because he gave us Coulee."

Another of the fair sex said "For Roosevelt; he gave us the dam site."

But there was a man in the Massachusetts group who voted "Roosevelt," in a loud tone of voice, "because of what he's done for Brockton." B. S. E.

BUT WE'RE FOR PREPAREDNESS.

Chicago, July 15.—About two and a half decades ago you advocated preparedness; we followed you. For the last seven years you have been criticizing the New Deal; we followed you. Grim, gory world events—not of our making—have brought the New Deal to the realization that a nation on a dole cannot survive, that we must bring our man power to a high grade of proficiency and utility, that we must prepare for war on a grand scale in order to keep the hungry, covetous wolves from our door. Why antagonize this fortunate return to sanity? J. LANSKI.

WHAT ABOUT HATCH BILL?

Birmingham, Mich., July 18.—Roosevelt is not on recess, vacation, or fishing trip just now, so why doesn't he sign the Hatch bill for clean politics?

Less politics and clean politics is important at this time. GEO. A. BEECHER.

BRITAIN IS DOING IT.

Chicago, July 18.—We should be realistic and come to an understanding with Japan as soon as possible. Whatever we think about Japan's imperialism and its invasion of China we cannot possibly hope to keep the yellow race apart forever. Blood is thicker than water. Sooner or later the yellow race will unite. They are bound together by the same language, race, and religion.

Nippon is our best customer; a Japan which has to colonize China will buy heavily our machines, our steel, our coal, and oil. In the near future our trade with a Hitler dictated Europe will shrink.

We cannot make politics with our emotions; only with our brains. We can easily come to an understanding with Japan about the status of the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies, and about our trade rights in China and the near east.

This will give us and our fleet a free hand in the Atlantic. E. O.

INCOMPETENT'S ESTATE.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Could an interested party in an estate of an incompetent person be declared administrator of said estate by the court in Illinois?

2. The party contemplating taking control of this Illinois estate is at present a resident of New York, but is planning to move to Illinois within the next 30 days. The person planning to take control of this estate is one of five children interested in the estate.

3. Would this sister have to have the written consent of her brothers, who also are interested, before she could be declared the administrator? W. T. H.

1. Yes, assuming that by an interested party you mean a person who would be an heir upon the death of the incompetent.

2. She would not be eligible until she resides here.

3. Not necessarily. If the others remain silent it is probable that her application would be acted upon.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNCLAIMED ESTATE.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Where should I inquire about inheritance left by an uncle who died in the year 1916 in Illinois, leaving no direct descendants? Even the town or place where he died is unknown to the would-be heirs.

2. After how many years does the inheritance forfeit and turned over to the state? D. C.

1. Follow up clews in your possession.

2. The estate would escheat to the state of Illinois only if it appeared that there were no heirs. If there were heirs, but they failed to assert their claims, the limitation period would depend upon the nature of the assets, upon the facts as to adverse possession, and on other facts that are not before us. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TODAY IN HISTORY

July 20, 1923

Pancho Villa, Mexican revolutionary leader and outlaw, assassinated at Parral, Mexico, while sitting in an automobile with three friends. Villa began his career as a cattle rustler, and later became a military leader. When the United States recognized a rival politician, he developed a hatred for this country that culminated in the Columbus, N. M., massacre of 1916. Villa's last few years were spent in peaceful retirement.

HINT AT SECRET U. S.-CANADIAN DEFENSE DEAL

Officials Are Reticent on Any Accord Details.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—War and navy officials said today that it was logical to assume that the United States has consulted with Canada on mutual defense against any possible invasion, but that no other details of a possible coördinated plan could be divulged.

Conversations of a military nature with the dominion government are no different than those carried on with other governments in this hemisphere, it was said. Each nation must provide for the defense of its borders, but as to a coördinated plan the military spokesmen refrained from further comment.

Report Secrecy Necessary.

If there were such a plan it could not be confirmed because of necessary secrecy involved, they said. Asked if any decision had been made on the coöperative use of navies, they replied that the same answer held.

As to what parts of the navies might be rendered useless to an invader, it was declared that scuttling of the fleet could always be resorted to and possibly even the destruction of vessels on the shipbuilding ways, altho this would be more difficult. The latter would hold true of any fixed shore establishment, such as munitions plants, fortress, or shipbuilding facilities that might prove of value to an enemy, they said.

Plan Home Guard Units.

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP).—Creation of state "home guards" to provide local defense in event of total or partial National Guard mobilization was reported today under war department consideration.

Authoritative sources envisioned the possibility that men disqualified for active combat duty because of age, physical defects, family and job responsibilities might be organized into "shotgun brigades" to replace the regular militia.

Altho the war department gave no confirmation to the reports, it was known that the army has been studying the "civilian protection" problem for some time and has drawn up comprehensive measures for emergency use.

Rests with States.

Several authorities pointed out that the police powers normally exercised by the National Guard would remain the responsibility of the states and that they might be charged with creating home defense units, under war department supervision.

Home defense training on a national scale for men between 18 and 21 and between 45 and 65 is contemplated in the pending Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill, which the war department has indorsed in general.

Under that bill, the 21-45 group would be liable to combat training, but men with dependents and with jobs vital to defense might be exempted.

Drop Men with Dependents.

Anticipating mobilization of the Guard for active service many states already are weeding out of their militia units all men in the lower enlisted ranks who have dependents, and it was thought likely that men with vital jobs also may be dismissed eventually.

The war department, which does not accept regular army recruits with dependents, has estimated that 8 to 10 per cent of Guardsmen of all ranks have dependents, but the National Guard bureau here believes that most in the lower grades where pay is low have been eliminated since a limited national emergency was proclaimed last September.

President Roosevelt has announced his intention to mobilize 50,000 Guardsmen for training, if congress approves, and the army wishes to call out the entire militia later to aid in compulsory training.

ROYAL CHILDREN AND LUXEMBURG CONSORT IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP).—The Luxemburg legation announced today that Prince Consort Felix and his six children had arrived in this country, and would stay for the present at the Long Island home of Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Belgium and minister to Luxemburg.

The state department disclosed a few days ago that the royal family was aboard the United States cruiser Trenton, homeward bound from a European waters assignment.

Prince Felix brought the children to the United States to place them in schools here "in view of the unsettled conditions in Europe and the prospects of hardships which may be encountered there this winter," the legation said. Luxemburg was occupied by Germany when the reich began the march into the Low Countries.

Hitler Frees All Captive Belgians Except Officers

BERLIN, July 19 (AP).—Adolf Hitler ordered the release today of all Belgian prisoners of war except commissioned and noncommissioned officers. From Brussels, DNB, the German news agency, reported that members of the fugitive Pierlot government, which refused to recognize King Leopold's capitulation, had been forbidden to return to German occupied Belgian territory.

SHARPER FOREIGN POLICY MAPPED BY JAP CABINET

Expect That It Will Lead to Union with Axis.

TOKIO, Japan, July 19 (AP).—A new and sharper Japanese foreign policy, one expected to lead to closer association with the Rome-Berlin axis, was formulated today by the inner government of the new totalitarian type régime of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe.

Prince Konoe declined details of a long conference of cabinet leaders. However, observers held it certain that Japan, before taking any expansionist action, first would seek an understanding with Germany, particularly in the cases of French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies.

[In German-occupied Amsterdam, a German spokesman said mistreatment of Germans in Dutch East and West Indies "obliged Germany," with "regret" to act in reprisal. Several persons connected with the Dutch colonial administration already have been taken into custody in Amsterdam.]

American Relations Weighed.

Konoe said today's conference touched on relations with the United States, Britain and Russia and "complete agreement was reached."

Earlier Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, said Japan wanted more friendly relations with the United States but would not be diplomatically humble to get them.

He said Japan's desire for friendship with the United States would not be decreased, even tho the new government strengthens relations with Germany and Italy.

Delay Seen in Axis Union.

Konoe and Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka generally are described as believing the present time inappropriate for outright alignment with Germany and Italy and that instead Japan should proceed speedily toward stabilization of East Asia and establishment of a "self-sufficient economic system."

These and other questions were set for discussion at today's first meeting of the new four-man inner cabinet, consisting of Konoe, Matsuoka, War Minister Lieut. Gen. Eiki Tojo and Navy Minister Vice Admiral Zengo Yoshida.

Not Consulted, Says Russia.

MOSCOW, July 19 (AP).—Britain neither solicited the opinion nor the advice of Russia concerning the agreement with Japan to close the Burma road because she "is not obligated to do so" in the present state of British-soviet relations, Tass, the official news agency, said today.

It said Prime Minister Winston Churchill's reference yesterday to consultation with the U. S. S. R. contained an "inaccuracy." "What really took place," said Tass, "was that British Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs [R. A.] Butler informed the ambassador of the U. S. S. R. in London, [Ivan] Maisky, of the decision of the British government to conclude an agreement with Japan on closure of the Burma-China road."

Ask Probe of Fight.

SHANGHAI, China, July 19 (AP).—Richard P. Butrick, acting United States consul general, received a written request from the Japanese consul general today for an appropriate investigation of a café brawl last Sunday night in which three United States marines and several Japanese civilians were involved.

The letter reserved all rights on behalf of two Japanese, alleged to have been severely injured. Butrick said the matter would be referred to Col. Dewitt Peck, marine commanding officer.

DIES OF CRASH INJURIES.

Evansville, Ind., July 19 [Special].—Mrs. John H. Smith, 49, clerk in a local department store, died early today of a broken neck received in an automobile accident near Oakland City. The car plunged into a ditch as she and her husband, foreman at the local Chrysler plant, with friends, were en route to Canada on a vacation trip.

U. S. IS WILLING TO NEGOTIATE ON RIGHTS IN CHINA

Wants Peaceful Setting, Welles Asserts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The United States is willing to continue negotiations for the surrender of extra-territorial rights in China but only under peaceful conditions, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles said today at his press conference.

The statement was prompted by the recent declaration of Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England that the British government had agreed to close the Burma road, over which China receives supplies. The prime minister had said that during the three months that the road would be closed Great Britain will negotiate for peace in the far east, including the abandonment of extra-territorial rights in China.

Interrupted by War.

Such rights as far as the United States is concerned provide that Americans living in international settlements such as that at Shanghai are not compelled to abide by Chinese law and are subject only to the laws of the settlement administration. Welles said that discussions with various nations on abandonment of extra-territorial rights were interrupted by hostilities between China and Japan.

"The most recent statement of this government on this subject," Welles said, "is contained in a note presented on Dec. 31, 1938, to the Japanese government, which mentions, interalia, the progress made toward the relinquishment of certain rights of a special character which the United States together with other countries has long possessed in China.

"In 1931 discussions on the subject between China and each of several other countries, including the United States, were suspended because of the occurrence of the Mukden incident and subsequent disrupting developments in 1932 and 1935 in the relations between China and Japan.

For Orderly Negotiations.

"In 1937 this government was given renewed favorable consideration to the question when there broke out the current Sino-Japanese hostilities as a result of which the usual process of government in large areas of China were widely disrupted.

"It has been this government's traditional and declared policy and desire to move rapidly by process of orderly negotiations and agreement with the Chinese government, when other conditions warrant, toward the relinquishment of extra-territorial rights and of all other so-called 'special rights' possessed by this country as by other countries in China by virtue of international agreement. That policy remains unchanged."

FRENCH WAR DAMAGE CALLED HEAVY; MANY BUILDINGS DESTROYED

VICHY, France, July 19.—Some news of the havoc wrought on the battlefields of France reached here today. It was learned that Laon, Abbeville, Arras, and Amiens suffered severely. A number of public buildings were wrecked as well as railroad stations and many dwellings in the working class sections.

At Rouen a great stone bridge over the Seine was ruined and many houses near the cathedral were destroyed.

At Le Havre, the only section remaining intact is that near the market. The harbor is entirely out of commission, and the damage done by British and German bombing is described as "enormous." Cherbourg harbor also is reported to be badly damaged.

HAVANA BOUND, HULL ASKS PACT OF FREE NATIONS

Faces Argentine Dissent at Minister's Parley.

Miami, Fla., July 19 (AP).—Secretary of state Cordell Hull left United States soil tonight to promote among American republics a "common cause" which he said was "wholly divorced from any thought of aggrandizement or domination" and was open to any nation willing to cooperate on that basis.

Before boarding an overnight boat for Havana to meet foreign ministers of the 21 American nations, he summed up the aims of this country as a desire "that the calamities of other parts of the world may not reach our shores to any greater extent than they have thru the dislocation of trade and commerce and of free interchange of things worth while."

It was the 68 year old secretary of state's first trip out of the country since the war began and his first visit to Cuba since he went there as a captain in the Tennessee Volunteers during the Spanish-American war.

Outlines American Plan.

Upon his arrival by train from Washington, Hull set out in a brief talk the purpose of his delegation to the Havana meeting.

To the other American republics, he asserted they were "all friends in a common cause" having as its purpose promotion of friendship and cooperation "among nations wholly divorced from any thought of aggrandizement or domination."

And this, he said, "applies not only to the American republics but to every nation of the world that is willing to meet us on that basis."

The Havana meeting, called at the suggestion of the United States to consider vital problems of hemisphere economy and defense, will open Sunday afternoon with an address by the president of Cuba.

Business Starts Monday.

The main business gets under way Monday with speeches by various foreign ministers, including Secretary Hull, and the setting up of committees.

The hopes of the United States delegation for unanimity of nations on measures against military or economic threats appeared to depend largely on the attitude of Agrentina, which has indicated reluctance to take any stand that might jeopardize its future trade with the totalitarian nations of Europe.

Argentine Dissent Feared.

HAVANA, July 19 (AP).—Delegates to the pan-American defense consultations today gave attention to Washington reports indicating Secretary Hull already has formulated attitudes on such problems as the status of American colonies of invaded European nations, fifth column activity, and broad questions of economic and political security.

Reports that Hull intends to deal "realistically" with hemisphere problems cheered Oscar Schanke, of Chile, Luis Lino Cornejo and Manuel Freyre Santander of Peru, and Lopez de Mesa of Colombia, because of the possibility of gaining immediate action on the war-diminished commerce of those countries.

Others expressed fear of a tug-of-war between North American and Argentine ideas.

Argentina has indicated she wants freedom of action on any proposal affecting her heavy over-seas trade.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Here is the fourth instalment of my TEST FOR THE BOY FRIEND, based on confidential interviews with 1,187 women who candidly stated the virtues and faults of their own specific sweethearts. To find how you rate, subtract your DEMERIT total from your MERIT total, and then interpret the results according to the norms below.

DEMERITS.	MERITS.
1. Stubborn. Rarely admits that he is wrong, and seldom apologizes. [6]	1. Neat in appearance with shoes shined, haircut, etc. [6]
2. Addicted to profanity or vulgar stories. [30]	2. Morally and physically clean. [30]
3. No time sense. Stays too late even when he knows his girl must be up early to get to work next day. [6]	3. Has an interest in cultural things, such as good music, books, the theater, etc. [6]
4. Has poor table manners. [6]	4. Confides his secrets in his girl. [6]
5. Too bookish and highbrow. [6]	5. An interesting entertainer. [6]
6. Flees from reality into a dream world. Then tries to bolster his ego with tall tales and boasting. [30]	6. Sympathetic and kind. May even shed a furtive tear at pathetic climax in a movie. [30].
7. Lets girl have her own way too much till he appears spineless and sissy, and she loses respect for him. [6]	7. A good sport. Will adapt himself to altered plans without getting grouchy, sulky, or pouting. [6]
8. Has a light attitude regarding the sacredness of marriage. [6]	8. Is generally good humored and can laugh at a joke on himself. [6]
9. Has rarely earned his own money. Lives on a "dole" from indulgent parents. [30]	9. Gets along well with girl's parents. Helps with dishes. [30]
10. Is guilty of dandruff, dirty fingernails. [6]	10. Speaks well of everybody. Not prejudiced or narrow minded. [6]

Score yourself as follows: 0-27, very poor; 28-43, poor; 44-61, average; 62-80, superior; 81 and up, very superior.

Mrs. Mary Armstrong Josset.

Mrs. Mary Armstrong Josset filed suit for divorce yesterday in Superior court against Raoul Jean Josset, a sculptor, of 510 North Dearborn street. She married him 10 months ago in the Winnetka home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong. It was her third marriage. In December, 1935, she eloped with Arthur Clayson Swallow Jr. of Milwaukee and in January, 1938, was married to Charles H. Penicoff.

LA GRANGE MAN KILLED IN OHIO AUTO COLLISION

John Hayes, 34 years old, 1000 Arlington avenue, LaGrange, was killed early yesterday in an automobile crash at Marion, O. Alfred J. Kutchera, 55, of Philadelphia, Pa., driver of the other car, also was killed. Hayes was connected with Moody's Investment Service of Chicago.

Norma Kirschner, 17, of 7514 South Park avenue, was killed early yesterday when a motorcycle on which she was riding with Fred Chojnecki, 24, of Chicago, struck a parked truck north of Lockport. State police said the truck driver, John Davis, of Lockport, had been given a summons because the truck's tail light was not burning.

Daniel Coughlin, 40, of 8451 South May street, a mover, was killed instantly last night when he was struck by an automobile at Racine avenue and 84th street. The car was driven by William Gross, 30, of 6654 South Seeley avenue. He was held for an inquest.

James Keighley, 67, of 1426 Highland avenue, an armature winder, died in the Edgewater hospital of injuries incurred July 7 when he was struck at Sheridan road and Glenlake avenue by a car driven by Donald E. Kimball II., 333 Belden avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 459 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. In Chicago 345 had been killed and 12,289 injured.

LAWYER SOUGHT FOR CONTEMPT FOUND IN COMA

Deputy sheriffs with orders to jail Attorney Victor P. Frank for withholding $2,465 in rent and proceeds of a foreclosure sale on an apartment building while acting as a special commissioner, found him unconscious in St. Luke's hospital yesterday. The deputies had planned to remove him to the Bridewell hospital, but were told that might prove fatal.

Frank, who lives at 5200 Sheridan road, was stricken Wednesday in the Roosevelt hotel, 1152 South Wabash avenue. His condition was believed due to high blood pressure and heart disease.

Judge John J. Lupe issued one order Monday in a contempt action alleging that Frank failed to turn over on the foreclosure sale, while an attachment was issued by Judge Donald S. McKinlay for failure to hand over $465 rent. The complainant in both actions was the Chicago Title and Trust company. The court action would permit Frank to be held in jail until he makes good the alleged shortage.

Mother of Rep. Garman Dies in Urbana, Ill., at 75

Urbana, Ill., July 19 [Special].—Mrs. Isaac H. Garman, 75 years old, mother of State Representative Tom M. Garman, died here today, following a month's illness. FRETTED STRING FESTIVAL BAND MEETS TUESDAY

The world's largest fretted instrument band, which will be heard at the 1940 Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field, will start rehearsals Tuesday evening. The music festival, which attracts nearly 100,000 music lovers each year, is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. It will be held the evening of Aug. 17.

Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the instrumental participation in the festival, announced rehearsals of the fretted instrument band, to be held in the recital hall of the Lyon and Healy building, 64 East Jackson boulevard. Rehearsals also will be held July 30, Aug. 6, and Aug. 13 at the same place. Teachers and players of the mandolin, tenor banjo, Spanish guitar, Hawaiian guitar, and the electric guitar are invited to take part and become part of the band.

Entry blanks and rules for all types of contestants who wish to enter the festival tryouts are available at The Tribune public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower, and in room 421 of the tower, headquarters for the festival.

MRS. FULLERTON, ILLINOIS PIONEER, DIES AT AGE OF 82

Mrs. Vincy B. Fullerton, member of a prominent pioneer Illinois family, died yesterday in Fond du Lac, Wis., at the home of a daughter, Mrs. John T. Boyle. Mrs. Fullerton was 82 years old.

She was the daughter of Washington Bushnell, former attorney general of Illinois, who served in the state senate during the civil war. Mrs. Fullerton often recalled that her father's friend, Abraham Lincoln, stayed at the Bushnell home in Ottawa, while attending sessions of court.

Mrs. Fullerton was the widow of Capt. Thomas C. Fullerton, a civil war veteran and a former United States representative. In recent years she made her home here and in Fond du Lac.

She is survived by two sons, Charles B., of Barrington, and Thomas B. of Abingdon, Va., two daughters, Mrs. John C. Burg of Kew Gardens, N. Y., and Mrs. Boyle; and by four sisters. Services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. in Christ church in Ottawa.

REDS ON TEXAS SCHOOL STAFFS, DIES INFORMED

Beaumont, Tex., July 19 (AP).—Sheriff Chris P. Fox of El Paso told the Dies committee today that many teachers and student leaders in state-supported institutions are members of the communist party.

His testimony came after another witness said that "absolute social equality" of Negroes and white persons is a communist party objective. Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the house committee investigating un-American activities is conducting the one man hearing.

Names of professors and students, including virtually the entire membership of the basketball and football teams of one state school, punctuated Fox' testimony. He also told of obtaining a detailed account of a secret communist meeting outside a north Texas city at which political plans were formulated to include "particular emphasis" on the gubernatorial race.

VOTE TO RESUME RELIEF GRANTS FOR WPA JOBS

IERC Sets Up Rules for New Plan.

Resumption early in August of relief fund contributions to Chicago Work Projects administration jobs was voted yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The plan, which is subject to WPA acceptance, is similar to one the IERC abandoned June 30 after eight months' trial on the ground it was costing more than direct doles.

Contributions to projects would amount to $16 for each person transferred from direct relief to a WPA job.

Conditions Set for WPA.

Before the plan can be put into operation, however, the WPA must fulfill these conditions:

1. Its national administrator must agree that WPA jobs in Illinois will not be reduced for three months after the system goes into effect.

2. The WPA must not expand its rolls in Chicago at the expense of downstate communities.

3. The IERC shall have the right each two months to review the cases it assigns to WPA and to replace those no longer eligible.

4. No person who can be kept at lower cost on direct relief shall be transferred to WPA.

5. Downstate, as well as Chicago, shall be permitted to benefit thru the plan.

Provides 20,000 Jobs.

Further, the arrangement is based upon the understanding that WPA eventually will provide 20,000 jobs. Charles E. Miner, state administrator, has promised 10,000 at the outset.

The provision imposed by the IERC will eliminate objectionable features of the earlier plan, the commissioners stated. This is especially true of costs which started at $13 per person transferred last November and were about to be raised to $23.95 last May.

Even so, IERC Chairman Nell H. Jacoby opposed resumption, as did Commissioner Melvin L. Straus and Russell L. Peters, director of accounting and auditing, and E. E. Ferebee, director of allocations.

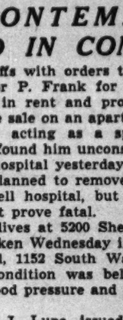
Cites Higher Costs.

Ferebee challenged favorable figures produced by Leo M. Lyons, IERC executive secretary. He asserted many of those transferred to WPA would not have been on relief as long as they stayed on WPA. Increased administrative costs and employment of larger staffs would be necessary, he asserted.

Lyons said that an average family on direct relief would draw $30 a month. For $16 the family can be put on WPA and have a living averaging $70 a month. With a transfer of 20,000 persons, the saving would be $280,000 a month, which could be held as a reserve for use when the regular allocation runs out at the end of the year, he said. Other commissioners proposed slashing the August allotment from $3,900,000 to $3,700,000.

ALFRED E. EDEN STATE SENATE'S SECRETARY, DIES

Springfield, Ill., July 19 (AP).—Alfred E. Eden, 65 years old, secretary of the Illinois senate since 1933, died early today in his home here. Funeral services were set for Sunday in Sullivan, Ill.



Alfred E. Eden.

The senate secretary had been ill at his Springfield home since late in May when he became unable to attend the closing meetings of the special session of the legislature.

Known as "Ned" to the state senators and his other co-workers, Eden functioned during five general assemblies. First appointed secretary in 1915 for the 49th general assembly, his service was discontinued until 1933 when he again was appointed and continued as recorder for the upper house until his death.

His widow, a son, Roy L. Eden, who is employed in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction, and a daughter, Josephine, of Green Bay, Wis., survive.

Hot Spell Arrives; May Stay for Several Days

Several days of real summer weather were promised Chicago yesterday as the mercury climbed to a torrid 93, highest this year, at 4 p. m. Readings above 100 were reported from a number of middle western cities. Huron, S. D., had a maximum of 107 on Thursday. Forecaster R. E. Gumpf said that warm air from the southwest, first attracted by an area of low pressure over the Dakotas, was moving eastward and that there was no likelihood of a cooling off before Monday.

TAVERN BOMBING LAID TO ENEMIES OF GERMAN BUND

Enemies of the German-American Bund were blamed yesterday by Otto Willumeit for the bombing of the Haus Vaterland, 3857 North Western avenue, a tavern and bund meeting hall of which he is president. The explosion early Thursday shattered glass and damaged the front of the establishment.

Willumeit told Sergt. Marshall Pidgeon, head of the bomb squad, that stones have been hurled thru windows, telephone threats have been received and that the place has been broken into several times in the last two years.

Postal inspectors took a hand in the case yesterday when Ewor Thoroe, a bartender, received an anonymous letter, threatening further attacks upon the Haus Vaterland. Police continued to interview neighbors in the hope some one might have seen Thursday's bomber.

LUGGAGE FIRM OFFICIAL FOUND SHOT CRITICALLY

Ted Wilt, 33 years old, secretary of the Charles T. Wilt company, leather goods and luggage firm at 185 West Madison street, was found shot and critically wounded yesterday in the company office. A .45 caliber automatic was beside him.

Police recorded the wound as self-inflicted and said that Wilt, when taken to Henrotin hospital, told them he had been despondent over ill health. Two of Wilt's brothers, Charles T. III., president of the company, and Robert L., said that the shooting may have been accidental.

Ted Wilt is married to the former Ruth Nettelhorst, daughter of Louis Nettelhorst, once a Cook county commissioner. They have three children and live at 6333 North Richmond street.

RUSSEKS SHOW NEW MICHIGAN AVENUE STORE

Officials of the new Russeks Michigan avenue store at Michigan avenue and Lake street held open house yesterday, preliminary to the opening of the fur shop on Monday for business.

Max Weinstein, president of the operating company, Russeks-Fifth Avenue, Inc., came from New York for the occasion. Also on hand to greet scores of fashion writers, designers, business men and well-wishers were David Nemerov, executive vice president and manager and the stylist whose ideas of decoration are embodied in the store; Frank Russek, vice president, and Lester Welch, general manager. Among the guests were Ruby Keeler and Martha Ray, from the "Hold on to Your Hats" musical comedy cast.

Features of the store pointed out by Nemerov were the fluorescent lighting, Russeks' being the first shop, he claimed, to employ it throughout; the interior decor, following a classic simplicity of line in the modern interpretation, and a color scheme, conceived as background for the display of furs, ranging from soft beige to coffee brown, with accents of chartreuse; and the basement vaults capacious enough to hold 10,000 coats.

A corps of beauteous models gave a preview of the fall and winter fur fashions.

Giant Wadlow Is Buried in 10½ Foot Steel Coffin

Alton, Ill., July 19 (AP).—Robert Pershing Wadlow, tallest human being in medical history, was buried in Oakwood cemetery this afternoon in a specially built steel coffin. It was believed to be the largest coffin ever built in this country—10 feet 6 inches long. Young Wadlow, 22 year old, 8 foot 10.3 inch giant, died last Monday in Manistee, Mich., of a foot infection. Funeral services were attended by several hundred persons. A full Masonic burial ritual was held at the grave.

FIND NO TRACE OF GIRL, SUITOR MISSING 4 DAYS

Dixon, Ill., July 19 [Special].—Concern over the disappearance of Genevieve Full, 16 years old, and her suitor, Russell Meyers, 28, who is charged with kidnaping her, increased today as the fourth day passed with no clews to their whereabouts.

County and state authorities said all possible sources of information are being investigated. An appeal to the police of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, and Missouri was broadcast from the state police's sending station at Sterling.

Officers were told that Meyers, a truck driver, forced Miss Full into his car Monday night a few miles from Sublette, a village 18 miles from here where both of them lived, as the girl was en route by automobile to Amboy with a party of friends. The girl's father had ordered Meyers to stay away from her because of the difference in their ages.

Arlington and Ravinia Share Interest Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the convention over and most of the visiting Democrats having departed yesterday for their homes, life for Chicagoans settles down today to a more normal tempo. It will be anything but dull, however, over the week-end, for numerous interesting things are taking place. Chief among them in interest to horse racing fans is the Classic, the richest race of the season at Arlington Park, which will be run this afternoon. Admirers of Albert Spalding, violinist, will be flocking tonight to Ravinia park, where he is to be the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Artur Rodzinski will conduct the concert.

Dr. Rodzinski's final appearance at Ravinia this season will be tomorrow afternoon. After the concert the executive committee members and trustees of the Ravinia association will give a supper party at the Exmoor club for Dr. Rodzinski, Mr. Spalding and his wife, and Nicholai Malko and Mrs. Malko. The Spaldings are visiting the Giovanni Cardellis in Lake Forest.

Percy B. Eckharts Having Guests in Their Box.

The Charles H. Swifts and the Edward L. Ryersons will be with the Percy B. Eckharts [he is chairman of the association] in their box tonight, and Mrs. Ralph Bard will be entertaining the William Peters and the Everett Millards in the box of Mrs. Frederick A. Preston. Dr. and Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong, Miss Jean Armstrong, and Durand Smith will be the guests tonight of Mrs. Louis Eckstein.

More than 400 reservations for luncheon in the Post and Paddock club have been made for today. The president of the club, Laurance H. Armour, and Mrs. Armour will have about 40 guests, and so will John Denby Allen, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, and Mrs. Allen. The Joseph Kirk Loves are entertaining for Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard Faber of New York, who are on the way to their summer home in Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. John Evans Love and Edwin M. Love, who has come from Pittsburgh especially for the program this afternoon, will be in the party.

Harry M. Watts is having a party for Allan H. Lockheed. Among others who will be luncheon hosts are Mrs. Phelps Hoyt [whose party will number 16], Mrs. George E. Van Hagen, the Robert J. Thornes, Col. E. R. Bradley, the Charles A. McCullochs, the J. Clark Deans, the George A. Kellys, and Neil Hurley.

Henry Webers Giving Garden Picnic Tonight.

Henry Weber and his wife, Marion Claire, are hoping that there will be no clouds to shut off the moonlight tonight, for rthey are giving a picnic supper party in the garden of their home in Lake Bluff.

Numerous Lake Foresters will be coming to town tonight to hear their friend, Nonie Mitchell, sing at the Pump room. The charming young singer, who hails from Moline, is a relative of the Charles Deere Wimans.

The dinner-dance at the Onwentsia club tonight will be an especially gay party, as the 32 men who have come from out of town to take part in the annual guests golf tournament, and their wives will be fêted. The tournament will be concluded tomorrow afternoon with the awarding of prizes.

Members of the Knollwood club and their guests have been invited to dance around the club's beautiful big pool tonight. Supper will be served on the clubhouse terrace.

If the weather coöperates, members of the South Shore Country club will hold a balloon party this evening out of doors.

Helen Mary Bryan Sets Sept. 21 as Wedding Date.

Miss Helen Mary Bryan and John I. Marshall Jr., son of Mrs. Marshall of Lake Forest, have decided to be married on Sept. 21. The ceremony will probably take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bryan Jr.

The marriage of Miss Ann Doty and Ernest Putnam Clark Jr. will take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening in Christ church chapel in Winnetka and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lappin Doty of Winnetka. Miss Mary Miller will be the maid of honor and Miss Janet Ramey and Miss Esther Webber the bridesmaids.

Albert Howard Carter Jr., Marjorie Dargan Wed Today.

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Dargan and Albert Howard Carter Jr. will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of her parents, Prof. and Mrs. E. Preston Dargan of the University of Chicago. The Rev. Irvin Lunger, incoming pastor of the University Church of the Disciples, will perform the ceremony, which is to be a quiet one because of the recent illness of the bride's father. Only members of the families will be present. Miss Dargan was graduated from the Art institute Mr. Carter, son of Dr. and Mrs. Carter of Oak Park, is an instructor in the English department of the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Benn George Calloway of Wilmette announce the marriage on June 29 of their daughter, Caroline, to Lieut. Raymond K. Gallagher, son of Mrs. James F. Gallagher of Rogers Park. The ceremony was performed in the chapel at Langley field, Va. After Aug. 15 Lieut. Gallagher and his bride will be at home in Hampton, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland B. Anthony of Beverly Hills, Chicago, announce the marriage on last Saturday of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Henry Baldwin O'Brien. The bride attended the Katharine Gibbs school. Mr. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. O'Brien of Morgan Park, was graduated from Dennison university.

ON LOOKING INTO CHAPMAN'S HOLLYWOOD.

A fine insight makes Chapman able
To write of Garland, Garbo, Gable;
He knows them well—he waves a "Hiya"
To stars like Loy and Ouspenskaya.

He hobnobs with the wise, the loony,
Basil Rathbone, Mickey Rooney;
He pals around with actors gory,
Karloff, Laughton, Peter Lorre.

He interviews the mighty actor
Who's wrestling with his chiropractor;
He foresees things, like stars' divorces,
Babies' births, Bing Crosby's horses.

Into gatherings gay, occasions solemn,
He pokes his nose a la fifth column;
There's naught about which he can't chatter,
And if there is—it doesn't matter.

Broncho Bus.

Thirteen year old Barbara Biddle, who rides the range near her Red Bluff, Cal., home, was a recent visitor in Chicago. During her first ride on the upper deck of a Sheridan road bus she remarked: "Dad, if we just had our spurs on we would think we were near home."

Fifteen Years Ago.

From Arnold Bennett's diary, dated March 21, 1925, relayed by Bob Snider:

We were at Lady Colefax's supper to meet John Barrymore. In "Hamlet" at the Haymarket, Barrymore, arriving at the supper after 1 a. m., seemed to be partly exhausted. He looked distinguished but didn't talk distinguished. During songs he closed his eyes and seemed to sleep. Then he exclaimed, "O, for some Cointreau!" very urgently, and it was brought quickly to him. He is very shrewd and perspicacious.

Sally Has New Party Thrill to Announce

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Some of you boys and girls got so excited about the news of our circus party that you seem to have forgotten the simple little rules I told you about.

Some of you wrote good letters, which would have been among the winners if only you'd remembered to include your address in your note. Others forgot their ages and several hundred letters came in too late. They didn't even arrive until after Thursday, when the winners had already been chosen. Most of the tardy letters seemed to come from boys—so wake up, young men, if you want to be included in the next party.

Of course, there's going to be another one, and you'll find all the details about it in your Sunday TRIBUNE. It's one I'm positive you'll like, so if you were too late this week, here's a chance for you to come to another good time.

One hundred boys and girls are going to be delighted to see their names listed in my column tomorrow, I know, because that mean's they're winners, and will soon receive personal invitations to come with me on July 25. We'll see the thrilling new Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus on that day—so, if you wrote in—watch for tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

5,000 Music Groups to Aid Paderewski Polish Relief Fund

Five thousand music societies affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs will participate in a campaign to raise money for the Paderewski Fund for Polish Relief. The plan, as explained by Gen. Robert E. Wood, vice chairman of the society, calls for contributions of units of $80 which will be sent with a birthday card to Paderewski, who is this year celebrating his 80th anniversary. Mrs. Lola Carter Robuck will serve as co-chairman with Gen. Wood.

Proceeds will be used to purchase food, clothing, and vital necessities which will be distributed in Poland thru the Commission for Polish Relief, headed by Chauncey McCormick.

Mr. McCormick said goods are being regularly distributed by American workers. Transit and other difficulties have been work out with both Britain and Germany. Fifteen hundred tons of food already have been given out. Thirty thousand dollars' worth of cod liver oil has been dispensed to undernourished children.

Because of its large scale buying and its efficiency the commission can feed a child for 5 cents a day and an adult for 7.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I'd pay money to see "Untamed" for the scenery alone! Those Canadian forests in spring, summer, autumn and winter! Gloriously photographed in technicolor! I'm telling you the city had just NO charms for me the rest of the day. [AND evening. Senator Barkley, you know.]

The scenery is, really, the film's greatest asset. Any story would seem good, backgrounded by it, and this tale—adapted from Sinclair Lewis' "Mantrap"—intrigues you, as it proceeds about its "eternal triangle" business.

The three sides of same are represented by a young city doctor, sent to the North Woods for his health, a French Canadian guide, and the latter's young wife, beautiful, discontented—a one time bit of Seattle flotsam. . . . All three are noble as can be. . . . The death of—guess I won't tell you who—clears the way for a H. E.

While hunting the young doc meets with an injury to his leg. Joe Easter, his guide, insists that the former convalesce in his home in a small Canadian town attended by his "angel" wife—Alverna. . . . And so two intrinsically fine young people meet—and love.

Alverna's beauty and charm have made her popular with men, and a target for the jealousy, gossip and hate of the few women of the community. . . . Plenty is said about her and Dr. Crawford, even tho during Joe's absences they are well chaperoned by an elderly couple. . . .

The beloved old physician who has practised thereabouts for many years dies—and Crawford decides that here in this country, helping the simple and little moneyed natives, is his life work. . . . Drama develops.

You'll not have really lived till you see the snowstorm that provides the setting for the story's main crises.

How Ray Milland HAS come along! I know of none of the younger players so able to lose identity in a part. He has warmth, humor, and today is as colorful a personality as you'll meet. Once upon a time you just wouldn't notice him. . . . Akim Tamiroff gives a fine portrayal of the guide with his faith in his young wife and in "Le bon Dieu." . . . You'll love J. Farrell MacDonald as Dr. Billar—why on earth do they keep Mr. M. pigeonholed!—and enjoy Jane Darwell, Roscoe Ates, Elly Malyon, J. Warren Kerrigan, and the late William Frawley in small rôles.

Pat Morison, luscious to look at, I thought artificial at first. She warms up and is more convincing, later on.

The film's been well directed and the dialog's not bad.

See you tomorrow.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Not even our best friend could get our bottle of a favorite friction lotion away from us. Come summer, it's our pride and joy. It would probably be yours, too, if you ever gave it a whirl.

The friction lotion isn't new; it's been on the cosmetic counters for a couple of years. But not many women know what a find it is. It's inexpensive and delightful. The scent is rather difficult to describe but the dominant note is a fresh lemony one that we think one of the nicest perfumes in the world. The scent is highly concentrated, too, and lasts a long time.

This isn't either a cologne or a toilet water exactly but it does have the best features of each. It's marvelous for a rubdown after the bath because it's slightly stimulating but at the same time cooling to the skin. It can be used in the bath water if you like and is wonderfully refreshing on those headachy occasions when you want to bathe your wrists and temples with a cool lotion that's not too sweetly scented.

Not so long ago the woman who makes this tops in bath glorifiers brought out a lovely soap in the same fragrance. This makes a gorgeous creamy lather—just the kind you like when you're taking a luxurious bath. Not only the bath water but your skin will hold the fragrance.

In warm weather too cloying scents are almost unpleasant and heady perfumes are definitely so. The cool, uplifting scent of the friction lotion is a perfect choice.

ENGAGEMENT

From Maplewood, N. J., comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Ethel O. Schachtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Schachtel, to Milton S. Kingson of New York and Chicago, son of Mrs. Samuel A. Kingson of New York. The wedding is planned for early in September.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, July 19.—The Republic studio, where Mack Sennett and his cuties once cavorted, still has a good deal of the happy-go-lucky spirit of those early days. A comparatively small plant with an astonishingly large output, it keeps endlessly busy, has fun and meets some funny problems.

One of the current problems is a new serial, "Superman," which is about to start. They've had a hard time figuring out endings for each chapter. They can't, for instance, have Superman tied under a buzz saw as an instalment ends, because any dope would know that the buzz saw would just wear itself out on Superman's hide. Similarly, there'd be no sense in shooting him because he'd just catch the bullets and throw them back.

The suspense ending, therefore, has to be different. They're going to have somebody else in trouble; somebody else about to be shot or under the buzz saw or hanging from a cliff, and Superman is so far away it looks as tho he'll never make the rescue in time.

Westerns are a Republic specialty, 24 of feature length being shot each year—largely of Gene Autrey and Roy Rogers. . . . Shooting schedule is 12 to 14 days, including 5 to 10 days on location. Locations are Lone Pine, Red Rock canyon, Big Bear, Big Pine lake. Director Joe Kane is known as Run 'Em Ragged Kane because he is a bug on locations. He will walk for miles, with trucks, crew, and cast patiently following, until he finds the right spot.

Recently Run 'Em Ragged had Johnny Burke, the location manager, slightly crazy. Kane had picked a certain location and Burke argued that it wouldn't do. The script called for a waterfall and, said Burke, there wasn't water within miles of the spot. Kane insisted he knew of a dandy waterfall, departed with his crew, returned a few days later with excellent waterfall shots. Burke was dumbfounded. Not for a long time did he know that the picture was in miniature; that Kane had just found a rock and poured water over it from a sprinkling can.

Now in the works at Republic are two films: "The Girl from Havana," which is about South American munitions smuggling, and "Colorado," a Roy Rogers western. A bit of self-censorship has cropped up in the "Havana" picture. In the script somebody says something about a Mexican stand-off. This line has been altered to Latin-American stand-off to avoid offense to Mexico. Appeasement!

I chose a gander at the Rogers set. A 'dobe cabin. Rogers is unconscious on a cot, bare to the waist, with a bullet wound in his tummy. A pip of a wound, about three inches across. Another guy is preparing to operate on him with a bowie knife while pretty Pauline Moore tears up a sheet for bandages. Real flames blaze in the logs of the fireplace—but they're gas. Somebody tickles Rogers' bare ribs with a straw and he rapidly comes conscious. Director Kane calls for a take, and the guy comes over to the cot with the bowie knife.

Kane says, "Cut." Not about the operation, but because the take is over. "Hey, Joe," yells an actor, "did you hear that guy nominate Roosevelt? You'd of said 'Cut' after two words!"

You probably could do a one happy family piece about the western crew. No formality, but no waste motion, either. Not with a twelve day shooting schedule. They've all worked together for years. Recently some of the gang on the lot decided Rogers ought to have a swimming pool on his five acre place near by, so they all went over and dug him a ten foot hole. All Rogers has to do now is pay for the concrete work.

Rogers is a fair, soft spoken, amiable, crooning cowboy type who would rather shoot bow and arrows than a six-gun. A top notch archer, he once, for publicity pictures, posed shooting an apple off the head of Sam Abarbanell, Republic's press agent. He'd let fly an arrow. Then they'd make another shot of an arrow stuck thru an apple, in the act of toppling from Sam's head. This was a good gag for Abarbanell. Then they set up another apple for another take. Rogers shot another arrow smack thru the apple this time. When Abarbanell saw the fruit, complete with arrow, lying on the ground beside him, he fainted without more ado.

Rogers is a good ball player, and will pitch in the all-star charity game next month. He's a dead shot with a sling shot. Since he had his tonsils out he is beginning to eat like a cowboy, and his wife cooks breakfast for him every day, even when he has to be on location at dawn. Sample breakfast: Two lamb chops, two eggs, sliced tomatoes, four hot biscuits and two coffees. "Maybe I'll gain some weight," he says. He also has an uncanny but faintly useless genius for finding four-leaf clovers.

Crocheted Dish Mats

Burning Heat Starts Calls for Ice, and There's No Money

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Yesterday's heat wave started the anticipated deluge of pleas for free ice tickets at all 10 of the United Charities stations.

There have been summers when welfare workers have had a Free Ice fund of thousands of dollars to draw upon in emergency. Yesterday it was a different story—a bleak story in the Old Mother Hubbard vein. Only in the case of the practically depleted ice fund treasury it meant deprivation, not for a hungry pet, but for hundreds of babies whose milk spoiled; for old people with weak hearts acutely affected by extremes in temperature; for the feverish ill, young and old, whose poverty denied them the relief even of the proverbial cup of cold water.

"It may be," speculated Joel Hunter, general superintendent of the Charities, "that the answer to the slow response to the free ice philanthropy this season lies in the continued cool weather, and that a few sweltering days like this will serve as a spur to recall the plight of the poor to those who are more fortunate."

But whatever the reason for the all-time low in the fund's history of more than a score of years, the fact is that, up to yesterday, voluntary contributions to the ice fund amounted to only $102.83.

Ice is no luxury. It is a necessity. That is the consensus of the case worker and the physician from the welfare station, the public health nurse, the minister, the parish priest—all those intimately acquainted with the problems of the poor. Hot weather inevitably means overcrowded children's charity wards in the hospitals. The cause? Usually spoiled food.

Yet families on relief receive no ice. They must make out as best they can by letting the water from the tap trickle over the milk bottle or with whatever makeshift coolers they can devise—unless they can procure a free ice ticket from the United Charities.

There was no ice ticket yesterday to give to the young south side mother of four undernourished children, the oldest of whom was 5. That little family lived in one small, hot room. Then there was a 3 year old boy who had just had a tonsilectomy. He had whooping cough. He needed ice packs.

And there was a motherless family of four children, all threatened with tuberculosis because of undernourishment. There is a company that would give their father a job if he could "build himself up." He is 5 feet 2 inches tall and his weight is 132 pounds. The company, of course, is unwilling to take the chance of having him, in his present condition, break down with disease.

These were a few cases, cited at random—a few among thousands.

THE TRIBUNE appeals again to its readers to come to the aid of the needy. Contributions to the free ice fund should be sent to The Tribune Charities, Inc., Tribune Tower.

Here Are Gay Trifles to Perk Up Dull Dress

BY REA SEEGER.

Roundup of midsummer trivia that accent otherwise simple or dangerously dull dresses: Spanking white jackets with short sleeves shining with white buttons. Some use gold metal or silver metal buttons for more glitter. Scads of amusing pins in brilliant colored enamel with the patriotic stuff are making record sales. The Canadian maple leaf pins and clips have arrived to take their place with the tricolor stuff, the British pins and the eagles that scream for U. S. A.

There are umbrellas or sunshades in gay colors and white, the whites tops for the dramatic touch to a dull black dress. There are summer footgear in stripes, dots and floral prints, usually matched with huge underarm bags. Striped jersey skirts with white blouses ablaze with sailor collars of the same striped pattern as the skirt. Some have turbans to match. Summer evening bags of pastel crêpes painted with sprays of small flowers and leaves are unusually beautiful. Others are made of rows and rows of narrow val lace or ruffled rows of gros-grain ribbon in Roman stripes or plaids.

And the neat, smart, straw handbags still take the money, with the all purpose natural and suntan shades the favorites. New this summer are the huge flat envelopes of fabric with appliqué patterns of patent leather or equally effective models with contrasting allover braid trim.

Big floppy face shading leghorn hats are here to wear with dark or light summer clothes. Most of them are simply accented with a bow, band and long streamers of black grosgrain or velvet ribbon.

Cotton skirts and shirtwaist blouses are almost the accepted daytime uniform for hot days in town or for office wear.

The Housewife

We're enthusiastic about the use of those good looking transparent plastic place mats for summer tables. They bring so much smartness and color to any decorative scheme. Some charming new ones have a border of painted morning glories in pastel pinks and blues. Others have graceful sprays of off-white leaves decorating three sides. And there are choices of still more flowers, too. These mats are not cheap, but they last a long time and can be kept clean simply by wiping them off with a damp cloth.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, a childless widow, knowing she has but a short time to live, wants to select the most deserving heir for her large estate. Amelia Pennyfather, a distant cousin, lives with her, but on pretense she has to retrench financially, Madge sends for the other members of her family and suggests they live with her also. Leda, her own niece, is married to Frank, her husband's nephew, but in love with Geoffry, another nephew of Madge's husband. Frank has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by a former marriage. Shirley Westall, Madge's secretary, is given charge of Betsy. Madge has always been partial to Geoffry because of his continuous playing up to her, but she is beginning to find his debts and escapades rather trying. She likes Shirley and suggests to Geoffry that Shirley would make a good wife. Tiring of Leda, Geoffry pays court to Shirley and is infuriated when she repulses his advances. Frank, miserable because he suspects Leda and Geoffry, sees the sweetness of his first wife in Shirley and falls in love with her. Shirley sympathizes with Frank when she sees how Leda is treating him and finds her sympathy turning to love. After a number of tantrums by Leda, Madge begins to see things in their true light and decides to change her will. Amelia overhears Madge's conversation with Alfred Barnes, her solicitor, and learns of Madge's illness and her plans for a new will. She tells Geoffry, who in turn steals Madge's keys to her safe and reads the old will in which he is to be left the estate, and the new version in which Frank is to be the main heir. The new will is not to be signed until the following Friday. Geoffry, furious at the turn of things, goes on a rampage. He encounters Frank in the woods and threatens to get Shirley as he got Leda. Frank strikes him, knocking his front teeth out. When Frank confronts Leda with Geoffry's accusation, Leda, in a fit of temper, admits to both Frank and Madge her love for Geoffry. Madge decides to wait up for Geoffry, who has gone to the city to see his dentist. She wants to talk things over with him. He arrives late, is insulting to Madge, and when she asks him to get her medicine for her he gives her an overdose which kills her. Amelia is eavesdropping, but is too afraid of Geoffry to tell, as he threatens to commit her as insane. When Barnes reads the will, he tells them Madge signed the new will the day she died, leaving the estate to Frank. To get revenge on Frank, Geoffry elopes with Leda. Frank trails them. Amelia breaks down and tells Barnes that Geoffry killed Madge.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.

REVENGE.

At that moment, as tho it had ears itself and was replying to Gibson's remark, the telephone rang out with sudden, nerve shattering effect.

Thank God, it was Frank Darmeny's voice that answered him.

"Hello . . . Hello . . . Hello? O, is that you?"

"Yes, Frank, it's me," said Alfred, with no pernickety regard for grammar. "What . . . I mean, where are you? We're rather anxious, Gibson and I. We were sort of expecting you back any minute. Have you—er—did you find Leda?"

There was an instant's pause.

Then Frank said: "Yes, I found her. . . . She's dying, Alfred. And Geoffry is dead."

The instrument almost dropped from Alfred Barnes' hand, which had gone limp and lifeless. He had to catch and brace it with the other one, while Gibson stood by, trying desperately to read what had happened from his face and words.

"I see," said Alfred, so completely stunned that he sounded as tho he had just received the most ordinary piece of news in the world. "When and how did it happen? And where are you phoning from?"

"I'm at Charing Cross hospital," Frank said. He, too, sounded almost matter of fact. "They think Leda has only a few hours to live. She's unconscious now, but before she became so, she was able to make a statement. I got to Geoffry's rooms about 10 minutes after it happened. She shot him and herself. He died at once."

Alfred Barnes very nearly fainted with relief, for terrible as Frank's news was, it might have been much worse, from his point of view. He did not offer any condolences; they would have been foolish and futile.

"Do you want me to come up? I could ring for a taxi from Canterbury, or have old Fielding waked up to bring me."

"No, I'd rather you stayed at Beechbourne, at least until morning. I'll ring you again, then. Good-by, I must hang up now. I want to get back to Leda."

Alfred Barnes told Gibson all he knew.

Neither of them mentioned the Beechbourne ghost, but the phenomenon was in both of their minds.

Leda died before the day broke without regaining consciousness again.

She died with Frank sitting on one side of the hospital bed, and a police sergeant on the other. She had murdered her lover and slain herself, and thus come violently to the end of her turbulent life.

They had her dying statement, which bore a feebly scrawled signature.

Geoffry Darmeny had drunk too much that night and given away the whole of his evil plan.

He had taunted Leda with the fact that he no longer cared for her and that he was using her in this way merely to get his revenge on Frank.

He had said he would keep her with him a few weeks at the most, before he sent her out of his life forever. He thought he had reduced Leda Darmeny to that state of craven love sickness which his other castoff loves had suffered. He expected her to fall on her knees, beg and plead, and weep.

But instead, she went quietly into the next room and came back with a revolver in her hand.

Then it was Geoffry Darmeny who fell on his knees and did the begging and the weeping.

"I shot him"—her statement concluded—"like the dog he was. I then shot myself, but my hand shook. I pray I may die."

And the last prayer of Leda Darmeny's was answered, too,

. . . . . .

It was really quite some time before Alfred Barnes faced again the problem Amelia Pennyfather had set him, and by then he quite wisely came to the conclusion that Geoffry Darmeny's death had solved it for him.

Amelia, herself, had long since taken it for granted.

By autumn she was settled in her cottage and she had taken Frank literally at his word when he said she might choose what she pleased from Beechbourne to furnish it. Nor did Amelia go up to the attic for her treasure trove, and the amount of what she took was only limited by the size of the cottage. When she had got it to her liking there was hardly an inch of space left in which to move. However, Beechbourne was so vast it would hardly miss what it had lost.

Alfred Barnes and Frank decided that cremation was the suitable ending as far as Geoffry's and Leda's bodies were concerned. Alfred, for private reasons of his own, was determined about that. Whatever happened, and even if he was destined to carry Amelia's burden to his own grave, he could not bear the thought of Madge Darmeny's murderer being laid beside her in the tomb. It seemed to him that only by fire could the shame and dishonor of it be obliterated.

There was no purpose to be served now, in publicly proclaiming Geoffry's crime. He was dead. The law could not punish him any further. The law could not reach beyond, in his case the crematorium.

Frank sent in his resignation to Arlington. He would have been in no state, anyway, to take up his duties there at the end of the summer holidays, and they were drawing rapidly to a close. Besides he had to shield Betsy as much as possible from this tragedy which had so darkened his own life.

He took the child away, leaving everything pertaining to Beechbourne in the hands of Alfred Barnes. Alfred, himself, urged, insisted upon his doing so.

Something of the truth had to be told to Betsy, but Frank conveyed it as mercifully as possible and in a form suitable to her tender years. He told her that Leda accidentally shot Geoffry and herself.

Betsy did not seem to question her father's version of the story, and by the time she grew up and learned about it, the affair would have become blurred both in her memory and in her sensibilities.

"Stay away just as long as you feel you want to," Alfred Barnes had said.

It so turned out that Frank and Betsy made an informal tour of the world.

They were in Brazil when signs of spring were coming back to England, and one morning, looking out over the harbor at Rio, Betsy pointed to a ship that carried the Union Jack. It was a big freighter of some sort.

"It will be lovely at Beechbourne, now," she said. "I do wish we were going home, daddy. I think Brownie will be missing me. And sometimes I miss Shirley dreadfully. I can't think why you didn't ask Shirley to come with us. We've got plenty of money, haven't we?"

Frank smiled and nodded.

"Next time perhaps we will," he said.

He, too, had been thinking of home and Beechbourne and Shirley with increasing longing, but had determined to wait as patiently as he could for a sign from Betsy.

"Perhaps——" he said—"we could sail by that very ship, if she carries passengers. Shall we go along to the shipping offices and find out?"

Betsy gave a delighted squeal.

"Only I hope we'll have time to buy some presents," she said. "There's Shirley and Cousin Amelia and Bob and Mary—O, and we mustn't forget Mrs. Lemon and Gibson and the maids. Can you think of anybody else, Daddy?"

"There's Mr. Barnes," said Frank.

"O, yes! I wonder what we could take him? But hadn't we better hurry, or else the ship might sail without us."

By the time the travelers had returned and set foot on their native soil once more, nearly nine months had passed since the night Frank rang up Alfred Barnes from the Charing Cross hospital.

Muni Doesn't Like Role, Cancels $800,000 Contract

Hollywood, Cal., July 19 (AP).—Paul Muni, who didn't like his part in a new Warner Brothers gangster film, has severed his connection with the studio and thereby passes up $800,000. That sum, agent M. C. Levee says, was the amount Muni was to be paid for seven pictures at the studio. Humphrey Bogart will replace him in "High Sierra."

Levee also announced that William Dieterle, one of the better known Warner directors, also had canceled his contract by mutual agreement.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Drop a few fresh berries [any kind] into the tall glasses of orangeade you serve on the porch next time the heat becomes oppressive, and see how much more appeal the chilly drink has for guests [as if it wouldn't have plenty of appeal anyway!]

Here's how to make a good orangeade for four: Combine 2 cups orange juice, ½ cup lemon juice, ¼ cup sugar, and 1 cup water. Stir well to dissolve sugar, and pour over cracked ice in tall glasses. Garnish with a sprig of mint to each glass, a half orange slice, and a few fresh berries.

Berries and orangeade remind me of a good raspberry ice cream and an equally delicious orange sherbert, both made in the refrigerator.

Raspberry Ice Cream.
[Serves Six.]
1 pint fresh raspberries
½ cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup light corn sirup
1 cup cream, whipped

Combine berries and sugar. Mash fruit and let stand for an hour. Strain and add milk, lemon juice, and corn sirup. Fold in whipped cream, turn into refrigerator tray, and freeze. Stir once during freezing.

Orange Sherbert.
[Serves Eight.]
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1½ cups sugar
1 cup water
2 egg whites
2 cups orange juice
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Soften gelatin in cold water. Save out 2 tablespoons of sugar and boil the rest with the cup of water for 5 minutes. Dissolve gelatin in hot sirup. Beat egg whites until frothy and add the 2 tablespoons sugar. Continue beating until stiff. Pour sirup into egg whites slowly, beating constantly. Add fruit juices. Pour into freezing tray and freeze at coldest temperature. When sherbert has almost entirely frozen, remove to chilled bowl and beat well. Return to refrigerator tray to freeze until firm.

For many another fruity ice, sherbert, ice cream and parfait to be made in the refrigerator, see "Refrigerator Ice Creams," a booklet which will be mailed upon receipt of 5 cents in stamps.

Wife Is Wise to Let Mate Aid His Family

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Should a wife refuse to let her husband contribute to the support of his parents?

Ambitious to get ahead, one young wife resents the money her husband gives to his father and mother.

"We married without his parents' consent," she writes. "My mother lives with us and pays half the rent and does everything she can to help us.

"My husband makes $22 a week and I make $18. His parents now receive relief and his relatives give them meat and groceries. They have a spare room they could rent with board, but his mother won't take a boarder.

"I am trying to save my salary so my husband can open his own business. The $5 a week my husband gives his parents would pay my rent. My husband is a grand person, but how can I make him realize that charity begins at home? He says he can't see his parents starve, but we haven't had chicken for months and his mother gets a chicken ever. week from a relative who is a butcher."

This wife doesn't realize it, but the charity that begins at home ends at home, usually with the individual. If her husband practiced the philosophy she advocates he would be selfish to his wife. The day might come when she might be left in the lurch, too.

The old mother-in-law may not be as adaptable as she should be in the matter of a boarder, but she raised a fine, honorable son. The girl came along and took him from her. The least the young wife can do is not to begrudge the little her husband does for his parents.

Let Beauty Be Not Vanity, but Real Compliment

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The motive for beauty is important. It makes all the difference between empty prettiness and radiant charm.

The vain woman preens before her mirror. Her cold creams and cosmetics are part of her ritual of self-worship. Her clothes and trips to the beauty parlor probably are bought at the expense of some one else's necessities. The hours she spends on beauty care are invested to reap admiration of herself. The result is a superficial perfection that "misses," a lamp with the light pulled out.

Good grooming, a skin enhanced with the right cosmetics, well dressed hair, daintiness, careful manicuring can and should be the expression of a woman's regard for other people. She may use the same creams and hand lotions as her vain sister. She may attend the same beauty shop. A certain amount of time is set aside to keep her face and hair, her hands and figure, at their best.

Her desire is to compliment her husband or her sweetheart, her hostess or her guests. It is her gracious way of showing that she values their interest in her. When her husband comes home, she wants to look attractive for the sake of pleasing him.

No one would go to a formal dinner with touselled hair, dirty nails, and dressed in slacks. It would be an insult to the hostess. Yet sloppy grooming, cracked nails, makeup carelessly applied suggest that a woman doesn't value her husband's or her friends' opinion very highly.

A sincere desire to compliment other people by being well groomed will illumine loveliness.

Thrilling Spy Drama Told in W-G-N Wings for America Episode

Wings for America, W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system's serial of fifth column activity against America's defenses, presented last night an episode of spies and sabotage revealing how subversive agents might seek possession of the nation's great secret weapon—the army airplanes' new bomb sight.

In this imaginary drama, Elissa Landi, playing the part of a Chicago Tribune reporter, and Phillips Holmes, as a Mutual network commentator, foil a plot of "Advance Front" agents to steal a bomb sight from one of the army's flying fortresses. The spy group steals a plane but cracks up against a canyon wall in a fog.

This episode, titled "Claws of the Eagle," is portrayed in two full pages of pictures in the Graphic section of tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Special guests in W-G-N's main studio for last night's broadcast were army flyers and personnel of air lines operating in Chicago.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Daylight Time.]

The American Choral Festival, 60 minutes of fine choral music, conducted by Alfred Wallenstein, will be offered over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Selections to be offered include "John Brown's Song," by Robert Delaney, and "King Gorm and the Grim," by Horatio Parker.

Jolly Joe Kelly.

Jolly Joe's Junior Jamboree, a program designed to bring out the talents of young folks, is scheduled at 9 o'clock this morning. Jolly Joe Kelly, director of the show and radio favorite for many years, offers the youngsters showing talent, dramatic or musical, a chance to appear before the microphone. The Jamboree is heard each Saturday at the same hour.

A description of the running of the Arlington Classic, $30,000 race, from Arlington Park, will be reported at 4:45 p. m. Guy Savage, W-G-N announcer, will be heard in the commentary from the track while the running of the race will be given by Frank Ashley, official track caller. Starting at 1:55 p. m. Bob Elson will be heard with a play-by-play report of the Chicago Cubs-Philadelphia ball game.

W-G-N and Mutual's famous Dance Parade featuring the orchestras of Griff Williams, Leonard Keller, Ben Bernie, Terry Shand, Blue Barron, Ray Noble, and Stuart Allen, will be presented from 9:35 p. m. until closing.

Gifted Child Needs Special School Care

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The gifted child is, from a school standpoint, "out of luck." On the contrary, the handicapped child, physically handicapped or below normal mentally, has been especially provided for, for years. But not the brilliant child. I was surprised when in Washington in January for the White House conference to find that of all the recommendations made for child welfare, nowhere was there any mention of making educational provision for the gifted [or brilliant] child. I sent a suggestion to the committee in regard to this oversight and shall be interested in the results.

In the meantime, it is encouraging when one of the largest public school systems in the country sets itself the task of making a survey of the subject of gifted children, and how they can best be provided for. The board of education of the city of New York has just ordered such a study made.

It is suggested that the top 1 per cent in intellect might be brought together in special classes in one school, to be given an enriched program of education, work beyond the capacities of normal children. This will do away with the great difficulties created for teachers and intellectually gifted children when they are forced to be in ordinary classes.

We have reading references on the gifted child. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for them. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Concerto for Flute to Feature Tribune Symphonic Hour

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour, to be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9 to 10 o'clock tomorrow evening, will present Leo Kopp's "Concerto for Flute" as a musical highlight. Theodore Yeschke, flutist with the W-G-N orchestra, will be soloist.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak briefly.

Marion Claire, noted soprano, is to sing "Could I" by Paola Tosti, and "L'Amours Toujours L'Amour" by Rudolph Friml. Other highlights will include Manuel de Falla's "Spanish Dance No. 1," Reinhold Gliere's "Russian Sailor Dance" and the "Minuet" from Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, all played by the W-G-N Symphonic orchestra directed by Henry Weber.

William A. Bacher directs the production of the Symphonic hour. Cecil Smith will give the program comment.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Sometimes a redouble will cause quite a swing in duplicate games. When the opening preëmptive bidder redoubled my double of his four heart contract he did not foresee that he gave me an opportunity to make a bid which resulted in giving my partner and myself a top on the board.

"East, dealer.
"Match point duplicate.
"Neither side vulnerable.

SOUTH
♠Q 8 6 5 3

♣9 6 2

"East, the dealer, opened the bidding with three hearts. Probably a bid of one heart would have been better, considering the outside ace he held, and certainly, if he wanted to preëmpt, a four heart bid was much preferable to three hearts. South passed and West raised the contract to four hearts. I, sitting North, with four honor count in my hand, doubled and East promptly redoubled.

"When the bid came around to me I considered passing, but the redouble seemed to indicate some outside strength and I finally made the bid which I probably should have made in the first place, namely, four no trump. It appeared that if my partner held as good as four or five spades to the queen we would have a good play for five spades, while if he bid clubs I could then bid diamonds with a fair degree of safety. East doubled and my partner then bid five spades, which East again doubled.

"The queen of hearts was opened and it was not difficult to make the doubled contract for a top.

"The point I make is that a four heart contract doubled would have been down one for a normal score, while even if played at the same contract redoubled, the result would have been bad for East. As matters turned out, it gave us the chance to make a fairly logical bid, in view of the preëmptive bidding, and earn a more or less deserved top.

"I would like to know what your reaction is to the four no trump bid. To me it seems logical after the redouble, altho I admit the spade suit is perhaps a little sketchy for this purpose. M. A., Missouri."

East's bidding was very bad thruout. Since his partner had not yet passed, the correct opening bid was a simple one heart East's hand was far too strong for the preëmptive bid of three hearts, and it was far too weak, defensively, for the redouble. East should have realized that at four hearts he at least could not be hurt, but that if the opponents ran to four spades or five in a minor suit, he himself would be able to supply only one trick, the spade ace, to the defense.

Now for North's bidding. A four no trump overcall of preëmptive bidding is actually a huge take-out double, demanding that partner name his best suit. Since this response may have to be made at the five level, it naturally follows that the four no trump bidder must have very strong support for the other three suits, or hold one suit so long and strong that he can rescue with it. North's hand did not quite meet these specifications, hence I approve his action of first doubling and then making the four no trump bid only under duress, so to speak, this despite the fact that the double, if left in all around, would have given North-South a very unsatisfactory result.

Smart Dress and Housecoat

MISS' DRESS AND HOUSECOAT.

This one pattern creates several costumes for your wardrobe: An everyday frock, a housecoat for your leisure hours, a daytime dress for smart occasions, and a dinner gown. The sketches illustrate these various adaptations of the one design. The fabric selections will determine whether the article you make will appear publicly or remain behind the four walls of your domain.

Style No. 3355 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for dress, 4¾ yards for housecoat.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

WHAT LEADERS IN THE SPORTS WORLD SAY ABOUT ARCH WARD'S COLUMN

"Whoever would like a view behind the scenes of sport, and wishes to read inside information that makes the characters who tread that stage human beings, should peruse Arch Ward's 'Wake of the News'."
—AVERY BRUNDAGE, President
American Olympic Committee

"My first act in the morning is to turn to the sports page and read 'In the Wake of the News'."
—WILLIAM HARRIDGE, President
American League Professional Baseball Clubs

"'In the Wake of the News' is one of the most widely read newspaper columns in America."
—GEORGE A. BARTON, Sports Editor
The Minneapolis Tribune

"I've always found 'In the Wake of the News' not only replete with up-to-date sports information but filled as well with interesting data to suit almost any reader's taste."
—MAURICE O. SHEVLIN, Sports Editor
St. Louis Globe-Democrat

"No column covers as much ground in carrying as timely and as interesting items as 'In the Wake of the News'."
—HARRY STUHLDREHER, Athletic Director
University of Wisconsin

"I have been a constant reader of your column 'In the Wake of the News' and consider it the best in the country."
—GEORGE S. HALAS, President
Chicago Bears Football Club

"I have read this column diligently and daily, and consider it a wealth of information and a source of sport education."
—JOSEPH TRIMBLE, Chairman
Illinois State Athletic Commission

IN 1937, Arch Ward's first year as conductor of the sports page column "In the Wake of the News," he received a total of 4,541 contributions from readers.

In 1938, the total jumped to 20,902.

Last year it soared to 30,173—nearly 100 letters every business day.

From this record may be judged the mounting popularity of a Chicago Tribune feature which has no counterpart in the field of journalism.

Sixteen separate investigations by an independent research organization show that Arch Ward's column leads all other Tribune features in popularity among men. It is read by 45% more men than read the weather report on Page One! It is more popular among men than all but the top four comic strips.

Out of twenty Tribune features read by women, Arch Ward's column is ninth in popularity—even outranking many purely feminine features of definitely proved high appeal to women.

Each year for the past two years, Arch Ward has made a selection of the best material which has appeared in his column and collected it between the covers of a 64 page book.

Priced at 10 cents a copy, this booklet sold 62,140 copies in the six weeks it was on sale in 1938 and 65,096 copies in a similar short period in 1939—a total of $12,723.00 spent by Tribune readers as proof of their deep, personal interest in this feature.

In its feature departments, as in its coverage of the news, the Tribune spares no expense in an effort to give full effect to its policy of printing the most interesting newspaper in the world.

As a result, the Tribune now has more than 1,000,000 circulation every day of the week. This is over 90,000 more net paid than it sold a year ago—and from 200,000 to 750,000 more than other Chicago newspapers sell today.

Has your milkman left an All-Star football ballot with your morning order? Do you find one inside your newspaper?

Have you voted in your neighborhood movie, received a circular from the Chamber of Commerce, been handed a petition at the beach?

Has your high school or university alumni association enlisted your support? Do you belong to a college fraternity?

John Haman.

These are a few of the ways by which loyal followers of college football players who live in Chicagoland or who have played on teams in this territory seek to land their candidates on the 1940 All-Star squad.

They're all Talented.

That team meets the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Professional league, in Soldiers' field Aug. 29.

Without the gift of foresight, we do not know how many of these young graduates will win the prize of membership on the All-America team. We believe them all exceptionally talented and we are convinced of their sincerity because of their hard work and the diligent support of their friends.

Bob Daly and John Haman, Northwestern university end and center, respectively, have united forces in their bid for All-Star berths.

George McGurn, Wildcat full back, has his own campaign managers. Bob Waldorf, Missouri guard, brother of Northwestern's coach, Lynn Waldorf, and Tad Harvey, Notre Dame tackle, are backed by the Wilmette Chamber of Commerce. Both attended New Trier High school.

Sheetz Is a Candidate.

"Americans vote now. The big election is on. Not for President. Not the Democratic ticket, but the All-Star football election. The straight Xavier ticket with Paul Sheetz for guard. Sheetz is a graduate of Xavier [Cincinnati] university and St. Ignatius [Chicago] High school." That is the handbill Paul Sheetz and his friends have distributed thruout the city.

Ted Hennis and Felix Mackiewicz, of Purdue, and Harry Bird and Joe Dubsky, of the University of Washington, have organized a high school bloc, combining the efforts of Lindblom and Harrison Tech under the direction of Bob Dougherty, Harrison football coach. Hennis, Bird, and Dubsky attended Lindblom while Mackiewicz played at Harrison.

Tony Sacco, St. Ambrose quarter back, opened his drive with an attack that left his rivals at the post altho national support has aided several others since. Tony sent in 38,000 votes on the first day to lead all players.

Park District Helps.

Dan Sacco, his father, owns a newspaper stand at the Gunderson avenue elevated station in Oak Park and thru this center ballots have been distributed. Bob Caruthers, center, and Frank Berg, end, are Lake Forest college candidates.

The Chicago Park district, thru its beaches, has given permission for solicitation of votes. The Waukegan News-Sun, Waukegan Post, Kenosha News are supporting these boys as are local suburban newspapers.

Seventy-two active and alumni chapters of Phi Gamma Delta have been informed of McGurn's candidacy. During his last two years at Northwestern McGurn delivered milk for the Borden Milk company. The Evanston manager inaugurated the move which has resulted in petitions being sent to every branch of the company in the nation.

Bob Daly is captain of life guards and second in command of the Chicago municipal beaches and pools. Along with the Evanston life guards these men are getting votes for Daly and Haman. Beilfuss, Griffith, and Jackson Natatoriums and the 76th street beach have turned in several thousand votes already. The Evanston News-Index, with Sports Editor Sam Pohn assisting, is tabulating much of the north shore vote.

Tony Zale Wins Crown; Stops Hostak in 13th

Seattle, Wash., July 19 (AP).—Tony Zale, former steel mill puddler from Gary, Ind., methodically mowed down his opponent tonight to win the National Boxing association's 46-state recognized m. idleweight boxing championship with a technical knockout over Al Hostak, of Seattle, in the 13th round of their scheduled 15-round fight. Zale weighed 158 pounds; Hostak, 159¾.

The victory was Zale's second over Hostak, the Gary boxer having won a decision over the champion in a 10-round non-title bout in Chicago Stadium Jan. 29. Hostak suffered an injury to his left hand in that bout.

Hostak Down Twice.

Referee Benny Leonard stopped the fight after one minute, 20 seconds of the 13th round. Hostak was knocked down for a count of nine in the 12th round and again in the 13th shortly before the bout was stopped. The Seattle fighter's eyes were badly cut and his left hand appeared to have been injured in the late rounds.

Zale opened a cut over Hostak's left eye early in the eighth round. From there on the Indiana boxer worked on Hostak's eyes and finally closed one and had the other badly puffed. Zale's flashing attack was one of the finest seen in the Pacific northwest in a long time. He repeatedly rushed into Hostak, throwing left hooks to the head and often connected with uppercuts to Hostak's chin.

It was Zale's 43d victory in 53 appearances during a six year professional career. The triumph was his 12th in a row. Prior to the encore Zale had signed to make his first defense of the championship against Hostak within two months, the probable site Chicago.

Golden Glover in 1934.

Zale, 1934 Gary sectional Golden Gloves middleweight winner and a member of the Chicago intercity Golden Gloves team that year, started his climb to the heights by knocking out Johnny Shaw in Marigold Gardens a year ago. He is undefeated since then.

Prior to the Shaw knockout, Zale was just an ordinary workman, but he has displayed considerable improvement since placing himself under the management of Sam Pian and Art Winch last June 13. The Winch-Pian combination also directed Barney Ross to the lightweight and welterweight championship.

FERRIER SHOOTS 66 FOR RECORD TO LEAD IN OPEN

Revolta a Stroke Behind; Metz, Turnesa 3d.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

James Ferrier, a golf writer who can play the game a touch, too, yesterday led the first round of the third $5,000 Chicago open tournament with a 34-32—66, six under par and a new competitive course record for the Tam O'Shanter country club.

Jim Ferrier.

The 25 year old Australian's performance was as warm as the steaming temperatures braved by the gallery of 3,000 who romped over Tam's well groomed acreage to see the first day of Chicago's No. 1 golf show.

Yesterday's elegant card was the best submitted by large James, who is the golf expert of the Sydney Morning Herald as well as his homeland's amateur and open champion, since he came to the United States late in February. It also gave him a one stroke lead on the field of 200 swingers who play the second 18 holes of the tournament today.

Oliver Cards 69.

Ferrier was one of the earlier starters, and altho he is a sizable hitter off the tee, he found himself matched with two players who do more than bunt their drives. They were Lawson Little of Bretton Woods, N. H., National Open champion, and Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., who matched Little's 287 in the big party only to have it erased thru a U. S. G. A. disqualification. Lawson took a 73, but Ed stayed right on Jim's pace with a 69.

This crowd-pleasing trio finished shortly after noon, and altho other scores below 70 intervened, there was no definite threat to Ferrier's leadership until nearly six hours later, when John Revolta, Evanston's curly headed pro, former national P. G. A. and Western Open boss, came up to the 18th with a 20 foot downhill putt for another 66. Had John gone for it, he probably would have slid well past, but he putted short and was well content with his 67, considering that there are still 54 holes to go.

Metz and Turnesa Get 68s.

One shot away from Revolta's 67 going into today's round were Dick

Three Bidders for $50,000 Arlington Purse

When an all-star field of 3 year olds goes to the post for the $50,000 Classic at Arlington Park today Chicago's hopes will ride with Gallahadion, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Kentucky Derby winner, shown above with Trainer Roy Waldron.

Another strong bidder for the rich first prize is Arnold Hanger's Dit.

E. R. Bradley will send his great star, Bimelech, out to duel with the nation's finest in the Classic.

Record Fleet of 54 Yachts Starts Mackinac Race Today

A fleet of 54 sailing yachts, largest in the 33 year history of the event, start the Chicago Yacht club's annual Chicago-Mackinac Island race this afternoon when Race Committee Chairman Byron Willis gives them the gun off Belmont harbor.

The craft represent five Chicago yacht clubs, four Michigan clubs, three Wisconsin clubs, and one Ohio and one Indiana club. Altho most of the yachtsmen are Chicagoans, some are from Arizona, New York, Massachusetts, Minnesota, and Missouri in addition to the four states around Lake Michigan.

All the Q class sloops on the Great Lakes except one are gathered together for the first time to race. Among them is Gloriant, Anthony Herrmann's light, narrow sloop, defending the racing division title in the long race. Siren, now owned by Fred Temple of the Toledo Yacht club, arrived in Belmont harbor Thursday, after being towed from Mackinac Island by the yawl Hostess II. of the Detroit Yacht club. The Siren, five times winner of the Chicago-Mackinac race, won the 240 mile Port Huron-Mackinac race last Monday.

Tahuna in First Race.

Ten large yawls are expected to provide the closest competition in the cruising division. Largest of the yawls is Manitou, James Rowland Lowe's 62 foot boat which broke a 17 year speed record in winning the cruising division of the Port Huron-Mackinac race last week.

Tahuna, owned by Commodores Joseph A. Moller and Henry B. Babson, is the newest yacht in the race. Built at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., this summer, it was launched a week ago today. It has never been raced. On the other hand, several of the entries were built in the 1890s.

Three boats, Mnemoosha [formerly Seiglinde], Eslyn, and Holiday, will sail with only four men apiece, while the largest yacht in the race, Ralph Friedman's Tamaris, will carry twelve yachtsmen and five professionals.

The youngest owners ever to enter the Mackinac race will sail their craft. Lawrence J Bates, 18 years old, a sophomore at the University of Chicago, is the owner of Patsy, Jackson Park Yacht club racing yawl. The Patsy is a veteran of the Mackinac race, having entered under the name Jackson Park II. as a Q class sloop many years ago.

Two Women to Sail.

When off the Midway last winter young Bates rebuilt the 43 foot sailer. In his other spare time he was on the freshman wrestling squad.

Tommy Fisher, 20 years old, of the Grosse Pointe [Detroit] Yacht club, is owner-skipper of the 45 foot cruising cutter Apache. His first boat was an 11 foot Frostbite dinghy.

Two yachtswomen will sail in the race. Mrs. Hobart Olson will sail with her husband on his new 31 foot cruising cutter Duchess. Also aboard the Duchess will be Albin Peterson, who has sailed a score of Mackinac races, Sanford Olson, George Dalseg, and William Abbott. Alice Hill, radio actress, will sail with her husband, Sumner W. D. Scott, on their 40 foot ketch Breeze, also in the cruising division.

Escanaba Again Convoy.

The 165 foot Coast Guard cutter Escanaba, commanded by Lieut. Commander J. P. Murray, will convoy the

CUB BATS, FISTS SUBDUE DODGERS IN FINAL, 11 TO 4

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hank Leiber, the handsome Arizona bachelor, yesterday delighted a ladies' day crowd of 26,489 in Wrigley field by knocking a first inning homer with the bases loaded. This would have been enough excitement for the guests, but to give good measure the Cubs, in the course of effecting the final score of 11 to 4, put on a free for all fight in the eighth inning after Claude Passeau, winning pitcher, had thrown his bat at Pitcher Hugh Casey in retaliation for a clunk in the back.

The fight was a much better attraction than the usual baseball embroglio inasmuch as gore was spilled, same coming as a result of a bust on the nose that Stan Hack tendered big Joe Gallagher, Dodger bench warmer, with something of a reputation as a tough guy in his days as a Yankee and Brownie before he was waived out of the American League.

Cub Hits Irk Casey.

Casey had started the eighth as the Dodgers' third pitcher, Jim Gleeson greeted him with a double to right whereupon Bill Nicholson drove his fourteenth homer into the right field bleacher. Leiber followed with a single. By the time Passeau got to bat Hughie wasn't feeling especially chummy.

One pitch to Passeau went as a wild pitch, Leiber scoring. Another throw to Claude wasn't so wide and was scored as a passed ball. The next pitch got Passeau between the shoulder blades. Tho there may be some doubt about Casey's intentions, there was none about Passeau's. He threw his bat at the surprised Casey. The latter, after ducking, started for Passeau, but before he could get to him, Gallagher had run from the dugout and started pommeling Passeau. Passeau went down with the much larger Gallagher on top of him. As Gallagher was pulled off Passeau by Gabby Hartnett, Hack got in his haymaker. Gallagher's

Gallahadion Nears Derby Form.

The Field

SIX horses were named in the overnight entries for today's $50,000 Classic stakes at Arlington Park. The field, arranged in order of post positions,, follows:

Horse and jockey—	Wt.	Prob. odds.
Bimelech [F. A. Smith]	126	4-5
Sirocco [G. Woolf]	121	10-1
Andy K. [J. Richard]	123	8-1
Gallahadion [C. Bierman]	126	3-1
Dit [L. Haas]	123	5-1
Alhalon [W. Garner]	118	20-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The $50,000 Classic Stakes, the race that has made and broken many champions of the past, will be run again today at Arlington Park before a crowd of 40,000 or more. Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech, chief contender for the 3 year old title, will match his speed against the Kentucky Derby winner, Gallahadion, and four other rivals—Dit, Sirocco, Andy K, and Alhalon.

Once more the mile and a quarter Classic promises to be a relentless struggle calling for early speed in the dash for position, tenacious stamina in the long run down the back stretch and bold finishing power in the drive to the wire.

Bimelech May Set Pace.

In his best races of the past Bimelech has shown the ability to sprint with the sprinters and stay with the stayers. Against the type of field which faces him today, he may undertake to set the pace from start to finish. In the crowd there will be so many fans who expect him to lead his rivals on a merry chase that he will be established in his usual position of heavy favorite, probably at less than even money.

Gallahadion, owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, has shown such impressive evidence of a return to best form that he will be a strong second choice. Dit probably will be third in the betting and Sirocco or Andy K. fourth. Alhalon will be a long shot outsider.

There was considerable similarity in the way Gallahadion performed in the Derby trial and the Classic trial. In the former event, he caught the eye of every observer when he began to move on the turn. In fact, it was just about the first time many had noticed him at all. He came on well in the stretch and Bimelech seemed to be a bit leg weary as he crossed the finish line in front, while Gallahadion was running stoutly in second place. Then in the big race itself, Gallahadion fulfilled the indications he had given in the trial, tho scarcely anybody had taken those indications seriously.

Bimelech Has Rested.

In the Classic trial last Saturday Gallahadion looked like the same horse he was at Churchill Downs, tho there was no Bimelech on the track. He was running with consummate ease, tugging for his head, all the way around—and when Jockey Carroll Bierman finally let go of him in the stretch he came on like a cyclone to win easily. This performance earned him leadership in the "stop Bimelech" ground swell.

Bimelech will be making his first start since the Belmont Stakes six weeks ago. He has been training so well, however, that he is reported to be ready for another of his brilliant efforts despite the fact that a preparatory race scheduled for last week was canceled. If he adds a victory in the Classic to his triumphs in the Belmont, Preakness, Blue Grass and Derby trial stakes it will be difficult for any other horse to establish a more convincing claim to the 3 year old championship in the three remaining important events—the American Derby, the Travers and the Lawrence Realization.

Dit Shows Improvement

Dit, owned by Arnold Hanger, has his victory in the Wood Memorial to show what he is capable of at his best. That was early in the season, but he too has indicated that he is on his way up again. Last Saturday he ran third in the Empire State stakes.

The Dixiana Farm's Sirocco is a horse which is generally believed to have good possibilities for development. He has not yet shown all his handlers expect of him. In his last race at Suffolk Downs he put on one of those stretch runs for which he is becoming noted, but failed to get up and win by the margin of a nose. If the pace setters don't get too far away from him, he is expected to be an important factor in the last quarter mile of the Classic.

A. S. Ernst's Alhalon is moving so far up from his customary class that a victory would be one of those happenings that defy advance calculations. But of course those are just the kind of things that happen in horse races.

ALL LAFAYETTE BACKS PURDUE IN ALL-STAR VOTING

Nominates 25 Players for Game with Packers.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., July 19.—Lafayette, a thriving college town in the heart of the Indiana agricultural Eden, has a flair for organization and coöperative enterprise. Mayor A. R. Killian calls it Lafayette's heritage from the late Noble Kizer, the energetic young man who came from Plymouth, up the pike a piece, to give Purdue an athletic setup that serves as a model for American educational institutions.

The capacity for organization is demonstrated again this summer as the Journal-Courier conducts its seventh annual All-Star poll. Every energy, every group, and seemingly every individual in the city of 40,000 has been coördinated in support of 25 senior football men at Purdue who are eligible for the starting positions on the All-Star squad which faces the Green Bay Packers on Soldiers' field in Chicago on Aug. 29.

It's an Old Story.

All-Star polls are nothing new in Lafayette. In 1934, Gordon Graham, sports editor of the Journal-Courier, organized the campaign that elected Kizer head coach of the first Chicago All-Star squad. Graham and his cohorts placed John Drake, Purdue's great full back, on the starting team against the Packers in 1937 and Drake defeated the Packers by breaking up the pass to Don Hutson on the goal line that seemed destined to wipe out the All-Stars' 6 to 0 margin. Two years later Lafayette elected Cecil Isbell to a starting position. Isbell led the collegians to a 28 to 16 victory over Washington. Martin Schreyer, a tackle, also was elected to the 1938 starting lineup and last year Purdue was represented at the kickoff by Joe Mihal, another tackle. Lafayette and Graham know how to conduct polls.

WBAA, the Purdue radio station, and the Journal-Courier presented a 30 minute All-Star program from the street on the north side of the square in the heart of Lafayette today. Chief of Police Ed O'Connor sent over six motorcycle policemen to direct traffic. WBAA set up its microphones on a truck provided by H. A. Horner, Chevrolet dealer, and the American Legion forces, led by Harry McGrath, pulled up with their 40 and 8 engine properly placarded and festooned in the gold and black of Purdue.

President Elliott Arrives.

Mal Ross and Ernie Morehouse, student announcers, handled the programs under the direction of Dick Shively of the Journal-Courier staff, who had been made chairman of the entire campaign. As Ross and Morehouse interviewed President Edward C. Elliott of Purdue under the blazing noon day sun, Chief William Koerner wheeled around the corner to the screech of sirens with two of the city's newest fire fighting machines, frequently taken on runs thru the town in behalf of the campaign.

Timing their arrival perfectly, in another manifestation of Lafayette's capacity for efficient organization, the West Lafayette police, under Chief Ivan Miller, drew up in another burst of sirens precisely as Coach Mel Ellward ended his talk. They brought from the campus Half Back Lou Brock, Guard Frank Bykowski, Quarter Back Ted Hennis, and Ends Felix Mackiewicz and Gene Britt, all among the leaders in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's nation-wide poll.

Campus Paper Helps.

Lafayette was the first town to set up an All-Star polling place on the street. In 1934 Graham erected a booth on the square near where today Frances Kimmell and Mary Helen Boyd, Purdue nominees in the Big 9½ conference beauty contest, attired in complete Purdue varsity football outfits, maintain an all-day vigil for prospective voters. Janet Decker, switchboard operator at the Journal-Courier, does double duty, manning the Courier phones and its lobby booth. A big diamond that sparkles as she works may explain why she is so insistent that all voters put down Lou Brock's name first.

The staff of the Purdue Exponent, campus paper, maintains a booth on the campus, with editors and reporters dividing the watch, and over in Deac's book store in Lafayette Deac Reisner tells the voters about his son-in-law and the All-Star game. The son-in-law is Cecil Isbell. Bill Lamb at the Lambs' café, Norb Arth at the University Drug store, Frank's place, a popular hamburger dispensary, and every filling station in the town provides polling booths. Ed Vaughn, superintendent of the city playgrounds, has an organization of his own in Columbian park, where the town's future All-Star candidates are doing preliminary training on teeter-totters and swings.

Cavarretta's Ankle Broken, X-Ray Shows

Phil Cavarretta, Cub first baseman, will be out of the lineup indefinitely with a broken ankle, X-ray negatives revealed yesterday. An earlier diagnosis had described the injury as a minor one.

The fracture, in the right inner ankle, was suffered last Tuesday when Phil slid into second base after Manager Gabby Hartnett had failed to connect on an attempted hit and run play. Later in the game, Cavarretta became the hero in a 2 to 0 victory over the Giants when he drove in both of the runs in the contest with one of four singles the Cubs made off Harry Gumbert.

Cavarretta also doubled and later scored the only Cub run in the Brooklyn-Chicago opener Wednesday. Thursday, however, Phil was suffering great pain and was ordered to rest what was supposed to be a sprain.

With Rip Russell, alternate first baseman, in the same hospital with Cavarretta recovering from an appendectomy, there was quite a scurry to find a minor league first baseman.

In the dilemma Charley Grimm, for many years brilliant first baseman and later player-manager of the Cubs, offered his services. Altho Charley made the offer as a friendly gesture and was received favorably by Owner P. K. Wrigley, those charged with bookkeeping were said to have opposed the move. Grimm asked no bonus for signing and made no salary demands, but would have to be compensated for being away from his radio broadcasting job.

Rip Collins, shunted to Los Angeles a year ago last spring, is now eligible for reemployment by the Cubs. The relationship between the Cubs and the Angels, however, never has been one the Cubs could count on in an emergency.

Ferrier Cards Record 66 to Lead in Open

Metz of Oak Park, who matched Ferrier's back nine of 32 for his 68, and Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., 1938 National Amateur champ, who put together a pair of 34s. Joining Oliver at 69 were Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, twice National and thrice Western Open king, and Johnny Bulla, also of Chicago, who was runner-up in the British Open last year.

Ferrier's card:

HENRY AND LEW GET THEIR CASH; TO FIGHT AGAIN

New York, July 19 (AP).—The state athletic commission cleared the way today for Henry Armstrong and Lew Jenkins to get paid for their fight Wednesday night, and Promoter Mike Jacobs immediately announced plans for a return match in Madison Square Garden, Sept. 27.

The commission, which had held up the fighters' purses without giving any reason yesterday, cleared up the mystery, and then pinned a 60 day suspension on Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager, for a row over hand bandages a few minutes before Wednesday's bout started.

The commissioners explained that they held the purses only because they wanted Welterweight Champion Armstrong and Lightweight Champion Jenkins to post forfeits of $2,000 and $1,500, respectively, to make the next defenses of their titles in this state. Jacobs immediately returned to his office and mailed the forfeit money to the commission.

Both fighters agreed to a re-play of Wednesday's fight, in which Armstrong stopped the Texan in six rounds.

fleet for the seventh year. Only once in that period has it been necessary for the cutter to assist one of the yachts—in the 1937 gale, when the vessel's presence was invaluable.

The 125 foot Coast Guard cutter Antietam, from Milwaukee, in charge of Lieut. R. R. Curry, will be stationed on the course to aid the Escanaba in patroling the 331 miles. W. J. McGuire and Jack Ritchie will represent the Chicago Yacht club race committee aboard the Escanaba, and Joseph Richter will be aboard the Antietam for the committee.

The historic Mackinac cup will be awarded the winning yacht of the cruising division, and the newer Chicago-Mackinac trophy will go to the Universal [racing] division time prize winner. Six trophies, donated by yachtsmen who sailed in the race before the first world war, will be awarded to winning yachts in the six classes.

Finishing Time Variable.

As only canvas may be used during the race, finishing times depend as much on the winds encountered as the skippers, navigators, and crews' ability. In gales, the first boats have sailed the course in slightly over 31 hours, while in some years the wind was so light the fleet required two weeks to complete the distance. This year a time limit of 48 hours after the first boat finishing in each class has been set. Then any boat still out can accept a tow or turn on its auxiliary motor.

RIVALS DEFEAT HYDROX, 10 TO 6; TAKE 1ST PLACE

Josephine Keaty's double with the bases loaded in the fifth inning provided the winning margin as the Rivals defeated the Hydrox team, 10 to 6, last night. The triumph moved the Rivals into first place in the Girls' Major Softball League. The Mills team, which meets the Rockolas tonight as Girls' Major Softball league contests are inaugurated in Rand Stadium, 1900 E. 75th street, moved up in defeating the Raabs, 12 to 8. The Rockolas dropped a 5 to 4 decision to the Parichys in a non-league game at Rockola Field.

In other games tonight and tomorrow night, the Jax Beers of New Orleans, La., meet the Parichy Bloomer Girls at Harlem and Harrison; the Louisville Dairy Maids play the Rivals at 4200 N. Central avenue, and the Holtz Girls of St. Louis invade Shrewbridge Field, 74th and Aberdeen streets, to meet the Hydrox team.

gushing puss thereafter gave color to the occasion.

When police, ushers, and umpires eventually restored order, Passeau and Gallagher were chased and it was decided to let all other belligerents resume work or bench sitting.

Passeau, who was working under the discouragement of a quick pair of runs the Dodgers made in the first inning, got well on Leiber's mammoth swat and held the Dodgers to one unearned run from the first inning until the fight brought his banishment. Charley Root tried to pitch the ninth, but remained only long enough to load the bases. Ken Raffensberger finished the game, his efforts including two strikeouts. Despite the banishment, Passeau was credited with his 11th victory, his fourth in a row.

Cubs Keep Going.

Leiber had just played his first inning as a major league first baseman when he delivered that first inning homer with Hack, Bill Herman, and Jim Gleeson on base as a result of infield hits. Hank really leaned against one of Whit Wyatt's offerings, lining it to the last row of the bleacher in left center.

When the Dodgers rose to within one run of a tie on their unearned marker in the sixth, the Cubs scored four more on singles by Hack, Herman, and Gleeson, and doubles by Nicholson and Dom Dallessandro.

The Cubs made it 11 to 3 in the aforesaid bumping of Casey in the eighth immediately before the fight, and the Dodgers added a run in the ninth.

Life's Little Things.

Life's made up of little things each day—
A cheery word, a tender smile,
Or a hearty handclasp, firm and true,
Are things that make this life worth while.

Some one walking by your side today
Was needing just a word from you,
'Twould have helped him bear his heavy load,
And filled your heart with gladness, too.

But you had so many things to do,
You did not see your brother's need—
And that little child who crossed your path
Had none his faltering steps to lead.

Let's extend a helping hand to those
Who travel with us o'er life's way;
With a friendly word and kindly deed,
Let's strive to crown each passing day!

GIANTS' 5 RUNS IN FOURTH WHIP PIRATES, 5 TO 2

Schumacher Triples for 3 Runs in Big Inning.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 19 (AP).—The New York Giants beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 2, today for their fourth victory in nine games on their current western swing. Hal Schumacher won his seventh victory by batting in three runs with a triple off Rip Sewell in the fourth when the winners made all their runs.

CARDINALS WIN TWO.

St. Louis, July 19 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals snatched both games of a double header from Philadelphia today in late innings, winning the first 3 to 2 and the second 5 to 3. In the first, Kirbe Higbe allowed only one scratch hit for six innings and had a 2 to 0 lead until a Cardinal uprising in the seventh and eighth. Johnny Rizzo's 12th homer of the season gave the Phils a 3 to 2 lead in the eighth of the second, but Ernie Koy hit his fifth of the year in the last half, scoring Enos Slaughter, who had walked. Joe Orengo doubled and Martin Marion singled him home for good measure. Scores:

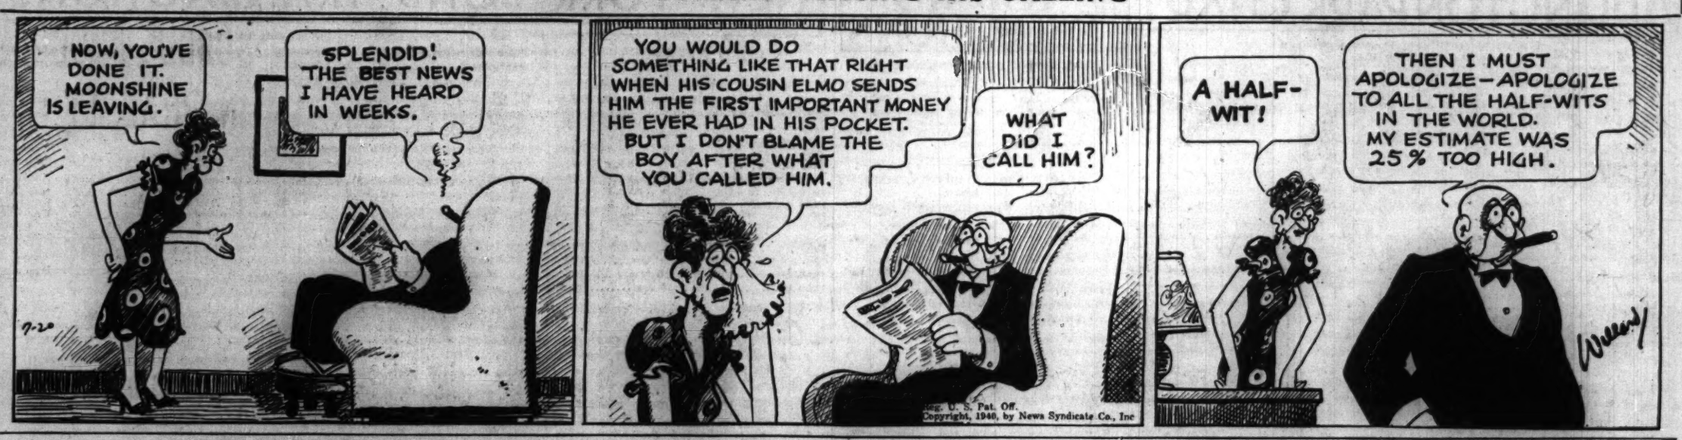
MOON MULLINS—MISSING HIS CALLING



Lee Baffles Senators; Sox Triumph, 9 to 1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The White Sox, who had been running in circles for a couple of days, put their bats to work today and thus fixed up a choice spanking for the Senators in the final of the series. Taking advantage of two big innings, the Chicagoans fairly gorged themselves with runs to triumph, 9 to 1, for Thorton Lee. Thornton southpawed so brilliantly in a torrid atmosphere that his sixth victory was sullied by only five hits.

Altho the Sox didn't do much for seven innings against the pitching of Walter Masterson, they got results by bunching hits, as well as getting distance into some of them. While Masterson was on the job there were only seven safeties, but three, two of them doubles, were combined with a pass in the fourth inning to furnish Lee with a 3 to 1 edge. This would have answered the giant southpaw's purposes but, merely to be safe, the Sox turned loose with a withering barrage in the eighth to pile up six runs at the expense of Joe Krakauskas.

Sluggers Fail to Slug.

Altho the hit total popped up to the dozen mark as the result of Krakauskas' appearance, it didn't mean much for the heavy swingers such as Taft Wright, Julius Solters, and Luke Appling. Wright, in five tries, was able to pick up only one hit, but it had value. It was one of the fourth inning doubles. Appling also was held to one blow—the other double in the fourth. Solters didn't break into the hit column until the ninth. But the batting oversights of the Big Three were taken care of by Jim Webb and Mike Kreevich, the latter with a single in the fourth and a triple in the eighth.

The Sox might not have had to wait until the fourth for some runs if they had given less attention in the first inning to their passion for running the bases. Webb opened the game with a two bagger over short and stayed on second long enough to watch Kuhel fan, whereupon he set forth on a steal of third. He didn't make it. Then Kuhel walked and a moment later failed in an attempt to steal second.

Senators Get One.

The second inning run that gave the Senators the lead had a slightly phoney flavor. With two out, Myer singled to center and stole second. Pofahl followed with a harmless looking grounder, but just as Webb was about to grab the ball it took a hop into right center for a double, Myer scoring. Lee then passed Ferrell and fanned Masterson.

The Sox got under way with one out in the fourth with a single to center by Kreevich, who went to second on a wild pitch. Kuhel walked and was forced by Solters. Wright then punched his two-bagger into left center, scoring Kreevich and Solters. Appling fooled the Senators by pulling a fly into left. Walker was so far toward center he couldn't get back so Luke got a double on which Wright registered.

Lee Gets Into Trouble.

After the second Lee had easy sailing until the seventh, when he precipitated a jam by his own fielding mistake. He was given an error for missing first base when he covered on Myer's tap to Kuhel. Pofahl slapped a single into center and Ferrell lined to Solters. Welaj batted for Masterson and flied to Solters.

The eighth inning bombardment began with Kreevich's triple and he kept on going to the plate when Travis let the throw-in roll into the Sox dugout. Kuhel and Solters drew passes and worked a double steal on Wright's strikeout. A pass to Appling loaded the bags and Tresh sent two of the boys home by singling. Kennedy doubled and Appling scored. Lee struck out, but Webb singled to account for Tresh's and Kennedy's sprints to the plate. Then Kreevich ended it with a fly to Case.

YANKS SWAMP INDIANS.

New York, July 19 (AP).—The Yankees pulverized the Cleveland Indians today, 15 to 6, to sweep a three-game series. The Yanks assaulted four Cleveland hurlers for 13 hits, including four home runs, two of them by First Baseman Babe Dahlgren. Seven runs off Lefty Al Smith and Joe Dobson in the opening inning settled the issue. Lefty Gomez, who started for the Yanks, caught a terrific drive off Roy Weatherly's bat on the heel of his hurling hand in the fourth inning and was painfully injured. He will be out for a week or 10 days. Score:

JOYCE, MORELIA BATTLE TO DRAW; JUDGE DISAGREES

Willie Joyce, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion, who knocked out George Morelia in a round last week, was held to a draw by the Detroit lightweight in an eight round return bout in White City last night. Referee Frank [Spike] McAdams and Judge William Battye scored the encore a draw, but Carl Witt, the other judge, voted for Joyce, 42-38.

Billy Seward, Ingomor, Mont., 131 pounder, scored a three round technical knockout over Sam Scully in a semi-final, scheduled for six rounds.

In preliminary events Matt Dougherty, Milwaukee lightweight, beat Kelly Kohn; Booker Beckwith, Gary light heavyweight, stopped Bobby Millsap, and George Feltes, middleweight, also of Milwaukee, conquered Ralph Guajardo. The Beckwith-Millsap match ended in the second round. The other contests went four rounds.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The White Sox will appear in Philadelphia tomorrow and Sunday in the closing series of the present tour. Eddie Smith, the tow headed lefty, will handle tomorrow's single game, and the Sunday double header will be put in charge of Old Man Ted Lyons and John Rigney. George Caster will be Smith's opponent.

Larry Rosenthal, the Sox's only extra outfielder, worked out today after learning that X-ray plates failed to reveal there was anything wrong with his back.

Sterling Beats Smith on Northwest Stadium Card

Andrew Sterling of Gary won a decision in five rounds over Francis Smith of Aurora in the feature bout of the amateur boxing card in Northwest stadium last night. A crowd of 1,600 saw the bouts. Ernest Nordman of Omaha, Neb., beat Tony Kimbrough of Gary in the five round semi-windup. Other results:

Bob Winters, Evanston, beat Joe Scull, Aurora [3].
Julius Soarks Gary, beat August Pope, Franklin Park [3].
Clarence Thompson, Gary, beat Celestina Voldez, Philippine-American A. C. [3].
Jesse Walker, Gary, beat Jerry Petiro, Portage Park [3].
Teddy Boyce, Aurora, beat Thomas Gage.

RECORDS OF THE HORSES ENTERED IN CLASSIC TODAY

Six Will Run in Stake at Arlington.

Past performances of entries in today's 12th running of the $50,000 Classic at Arlington Park are as follows:

BIMELECH—Owner, E. R. Bradley; trainer, William Hurley.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
1939	6	6	0	0	$135,090
1940	6	4	2	0	$106,005

Bimelech finished the 1939 season as unbeaten juvenile champion. He included the Belmont Futurity among his victories. He started his 3 year old campaign by winning the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland and the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs. After going to the post in the Derby as the odds-on favorite, he finished second, yielding the lead to Gallahadion after he had been out in front in the stretch. The following week he won the Preakness easily, numbering the Derby winner among his victims. Then he failed again, finishing second to the unheralded Corydon in the Withers mile. His next trip to the post was in the Belmont stakes. He recovered his prestige by winning this event in handy fashion. He has shown ability both as a sprinter and as a route runner, but he has never been sent to the post on a muddy track.

GALLAHADION—Owner, Milky Way farm; trainer, Roy Waldron.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
1939	10	3	2	2	$16,665
1940	7	2	1	3	$ 5,975

Sirocco showed signs of route running ability in winning the Walden stakes at the end of his juvenile campaign, but he has not been able to score an important victory as a 3 year old. In running second to Pass Out, beaten only by a nose, in the Yankee handicap at Suffolk Downs on July 4, he indicated that he was approaching his best form. He was closing fast and gaining on the leader at every stride. Previously he had won an allowance event and had finished third in the Constitution handicap at Suffolk Downs. He ran fifth in the Derby, following a victory in an allowance event at Keeneland.

ANDY K.—Owner, Millsdale stable; trainer, Anthony Pelleteri.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
1939	9	2	2	2	$43,360
1940	10	3	0	4	$25,400

Andy K. is one of the more erratic of the 3 year olds. He finished his juvenile campaign as runner-up to Bimelech in national reputation, but has failed to distinguish himself in his 1940 campaign. His most important victory was scored in the Kent handicap at Delaware. Tho he had been tabbed as a sprinter, he surprised many observers by showing excellent staying power in finishing third to Bimelech and Your Chance in the mile and a half Belmont stakes. A habit of bearing far out on the turns and during the stretch run has been fairly well overcome, tho he reverts to it occasionally. However, he has shown tendencies to sulk and refuses to run at times. In last Saturday's Classic Trial he finished last in a field of four, being beaten not only by Gallahadion but also by two other horses which are rated considerably below the first class 3 year olds.

ALHALON—Owner, A. C. Ernst; trainer, J. H. Skirvin.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
1939	9	1	2	1	$ 925
1940	8	1	2	2	$1,200

Alhalon is moving considerably above his accustomed class in running in the Classic. He has been competing in overnight allowance events with little success. Early in the season he scored one victory at Keeneland, but has been unable to win since then.

WRIGLEY PROFIT DIPS SLIGHTLY IN 2D QUARTER

Six Month Earnings Exceed Year Ago.

William Wrigley Jr. company, world's largest chewing gum manufacturer, had consolidated net profit of $2,342,818, or $1.17 a share, on the capital stock in the three months ended June 30, the company reported yesterday. Profit was $2,365,654, or $1.18 a share, in the June quarter last year.

Walter P. Paepcke reports gain for Container Corporation.

For the six months ended June 30 net profits were $4,800,653, or $2.40 a share, against $4,559,009, or $2.28 a share, in the first half of 1939. The six month statement included profit of foreign subsidiaries totaling $433,726 after deducting exchange loss of $99,648, the company said.

Container Profit Rises.

Container Corporation of America, Chicago, one of the largest carton and paperboard products manufacturers, earned $619,021 or 79 cents per share in the three months ended June 30 against $8,049 or 1 cent per share in the June quarter last year, Walter P. Paepcke, president, announced yesterday.

This large increase in profit was also shown in six and twelve month earnings. Net income for the six months ended June 30 was $1,128,735 or $1.44 a share compared with $32,249 or 4 cents a share in the first six months of 1939. For the twelve months, net income was $2,545,386 or $3.26 per share against $181,970 or 23 cents a share in the preceding twelve months.

"Sales for the first six months were $14,485,000 compared with $10,444,000 for the first half of 1939, or an increase of 38.69 per cent," Paepcke said.

Fansteel Earnings Gain.

Another Chicago company, Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, refiner and manufacturer of rare metals, reported net income for the six months ended June 30 was $126,753 or 52 cents per common share, against $100,177 or 41 cents per share in the first half of 1939. The company said it has a backlog of orders sufficient to keep the plant busy for two and one-half months.

Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, Philadelphia, reported profit for the six months ended June 30 was $1,006,352 compared with $274,933 in the first half of 1939. The Budd Wheel company had a net profit of $483,245 for the 1940 six months period against $276,274 for the corresponding six months of 1939.

Campbell Wyant & Cannon Foundry company, Muskegon, Mich., manufacturer of alloy castings used principally in the automotive industry, reported a sharp gain in profits for the six months ended June 30. Net income was $369,233 or $1.07 per common share, compared with a net loss of $38,968 in the first half of 1939.

Baking Firm Earns Less.

Continental Baking company and its subsidiaries, one of the largest baking products outlets in the country, reported net income of $1,324,900 in the six months ended June 29. This was equal to $3.30 per share of 8 per cent accumulative preferred on which there is an accumulation of unpaid dividends and compared with profit of $1,823,805 or 75 cents per share of Class A common in the comparable period of 1939.

General Finance corporation, Chicago, and its subsidiaries, showed a net profit of $169,301 in the six months ended May 31. This was equal to 16 cents per common share and compared with $153,832 or 15 cents a share in the six months ended May 31, 1939.

Liberal Trade After War Is British Pledge

BY JOHN FISHER.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—United States and British treasury officials have discussed the problems of frozen assets of foreign countries and postwar monetary policies, according to a joint statement issued today by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury.

Sir Frederick Phillips.

Morgenthau and Phillips have conferred privately for the last five days. Their conversations aroused much speculation as to what was being discussed. It was emphasized, however, that this was not to be interpreted as indicating any joint policy to be followed.

Promise "Liberal" Policies.

The statement said that a wide field had been covered in the talks. Morgenthau said that he had been assured that the British would "return to liberal monetary and trade policies" after the war. Phillips also told Morgenthau that recent measures taken by the British in exchange control were only temporary and were undertaken to "protect the American market" as well as to stabilize the pound sterling.

One of these measures was the recent arrangement for registering sterling accounts at the offical rate of $4.02½ to $4.03½, putting a further curb on the free market for sterling. Phillips said that the British government will return to the free and unregulated market as soon as possible after the close of the war.

Discuss Future Gold Value.

Morgenthau and Phillips also discussed the prospect of future purchases of war materials in the United States and their effects on the balance of payments betwen the two nations. No policy or agreement was made public. Phillips said of the outlook for gold, since the United States has acquired most of the world's monetary supply, that he believed "it will continue to be an international exchange medium."

There has been considerable speculation about the value of gold if Hitler gains economic domination over Europe. It has been predicted Hitler might expand the Nazi barter principle which obviates the need for gold in trade relations.

Concerning the freezing of assets in this country belonging to nationals or governments of countries overrun by the Nazis, Phillips said "we do not want any assets to come under the effective control of Germany."

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES IN DISTRICT RISE; CHICAGO LEADS

Recording the largest gain shown in any city in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district, Chicago department stores' sales last week increased 9.6 per cent as compared with the year ago volume, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Department stores' sales in Chicago and in the entire district were larger than in the preceding week also, recording the first week to week gain since the week ended June 8, when sales reached the peak volume of the year. Statisticians at the bank estimated sales last week at about 30 per cent below the volume of the June 8 week.

The entire 7th district showed a gain of 7.8 per cent over a year ago sales. Sales of Milwaukee stores increased 8.9 per cent; Detroit, 6.2 per cent; Indianapolis, 2.8 per cent, and other cities, 1.2 per cent. Department store sales in the entire United States last week showed a gain of 7 per cent above a year ago.

Chicago stores also made the largest gain in the district in sales in the first two weeks of July, volume increasing 9.1 per cent above last year, compared with an average gain for the district of 8.4 per cent.

SINCLAIR TELLS VIEWS ON ILLS OF OIL INDUSTRY

New York, July 19 (AP).—Harry F. Sinclair, oil executive, asserted today that a low price structure for crude petroleum and its products is a basic factor in the industry's present unsettlement.

His views were made known in a telegram to the North Texas Oil and Gas association in reply to a request for suggestions for stabilizing the industry.

Regarding recent cuts in crude oil prices in the north Texas district, Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee of Consolidated Oil corporation, said:

"The causes for this situation go far beyond north Texas and beyond any power of correction that you or we can apply locally. Shutdowns of production are not the remedy.

"As to the crude price, in my opinion a dollar is not enough for a barrel of crude oil. The price should be higher, but by no kind of artificial restriction or regulation can manufacturers continue indefinitely to pay more for raw material than they receive from the products made therefrom."

Sales of American Stores Company Rise 15 Per Cent

Sales of American Stores company, food chain with headquarters in Philadelphia, amounted to $10,130,494 in the four weeks ended June 29, compared with $8,783,284 in the corresponding 1939 period, a gain of 15.3 per cent, the company reported yesterday.

Seek Rail Coal Rate Slash to Fight Barges

The railroads shortly will start a drive to regain some of the coal hauling business from central Illinois to Chicago which they have lost to barge lines using the waterways, it was disclosed yesterday. In the last few years industries located on the Chicago river have been getting coal by barge instead of by railroad.

The roads propose to put into effect, if grante permission, a rate of $1.30 a ton on coal moving from central Illinois to Chicago in trainload lots of a minimum of 50 cars. The present rate is $1.75 a ton. The barge rates have not been disclosed but are understood to be, including the cost of loading and unloading, at a figure which would allow the railroads to compete with them if the roads had a $1.30 a ton rate.

Hearing Set for Aug. 6.

The Illinois Freight association will open a hearing Aug. 6 at the Union station on the railroad proposal. Among the roads said to be interested in the move are the Alton, Burlington, Chicago and North Western, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Illinois Central, Rock Island, Sante Fe, and the Wabash.

The move for lower rates will be started by a request of the Chicago and Illinois Midland for the $1.30 a ton rate to three points served by barges—Pulaski road and 35th street on the Chicago and Indiana Western, Fisk street and Cermak road on the Burlington, and Avondale avenues on the North Western.

Relief will be sought by the railroads from the long and short haul clause on shipments to these three points because of the definite water competition at these places.

[Under the long and short haul clause railroads may not charge higher rates for freight moved shorter distances than for longer distances over the same route.]

Eye Edison Coal Shipments.

Among other large coal consumers in the Chicago area with plants on the Chicago river is the Commonwealth Edison company which has been bringing large amounts of coal here by barge from central Illinois. The railroads have been casting a hungry eye at this business ever since the barges started to handle it.

Railroad executives assert that federal expenditures on the Illinois waterway for improvement and maintenance have made possible the low rates which enabled the barge lines to grab the coal hauling business from the rail carriers.

Another thing that rankles them, it was said, is the fact that the railroads have had to act as a standby to bring in coal when the barge lines, because of weather conditions, were not able to do it. Rail executives said that during last winter there was a period of six or seven weeks when the barge lines could not operate.

Backed Up Barge Lines.

They said that while they were glad to handle any business that brought in extra revenues, such business could be more attractive to the railroads if it was on a permanent basis.

Approximately 25,000,000 tons of coal are brought into the Chicago area annually, railroad men estimated. If 45 cent rate reductions were made on the entire amount the roads would lose about $11,250,000 annually, which they could not afford to do. For this reason they are asking for reductions only where they have to meet the direct competition of the barges.

DU PONT'S JUNE QUARTER PROFIT AND SALES RISE

Company Doubles Its Tax Reserve.

Sales and earnings of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and subsidiaries showed substantial increases in the quarter ended June 30, the company reported yesterday. This increase was partly offset in regard to the mount available for dividends by an increase of almost 100 per cent in provision for federal income taxes and an additional reserve of $4,000,000 established for "unforeseen contingencies."

The big chemical company, leading manufacturer of cellulose products, dyes and explosives, reported sales for the quarter totaled $84,514,779 against $69,743,731 in the June quarter last year. Net income was $23,126,507, equal after taxes and the contingency fund to $2.02 per common share, compared with $20,796,159 or $1.73 per common share in the 1939 quarter.

Earmark 6 Million for Tax.

Provision of $6,165,000 was made for federal taxes on income for the quarter just ended while last year $3,125,000 was provided. The contingency fund reserve was not made last year.

Sales for the six months ended June 30 were $163,018,582 compared with $136,385,469 in the first half of 1939.

Net income was $46,853,695 for the six months or, as reported in the preliminary release, $4.06 per common share against $39,871,535 or $3.28 per share in the first half of 1939. Provision for income taxes for the period was $10,370,000 while last year $5,820,000 was earmarked for the purpose.

Gets More from Gen. Motors.

A substanial part of the increase in earnings for the quarter was traceable to a $2,500,000 increase in revenue from the company's investment in General Motors corporation. Income from this source for the quarter was $10,000,000 against $7,500,000 in the quarter last year.

Remington Arms company, controled by the du Pont company, reported profit for the first six months of $1,219,000 after taxes and charges, compared with $144,000 in the first half of 1939.

JAPS RE-ENTER AMERICAN SCRAP STEEL MARKET

Japan has reëntered the American scrap steel market, ordering between 200,000 and 300,000 tons at an average price of about $17 a ton at shipside in United States ports for No. 1 heavy melting scrap, according to trade reports yesterday.

The buying was the first by Japanese interests in American markets in several months.

Revival of the buying program, trade interests at New York said, calls for purchases in the east, west coast, and at gulf ports.

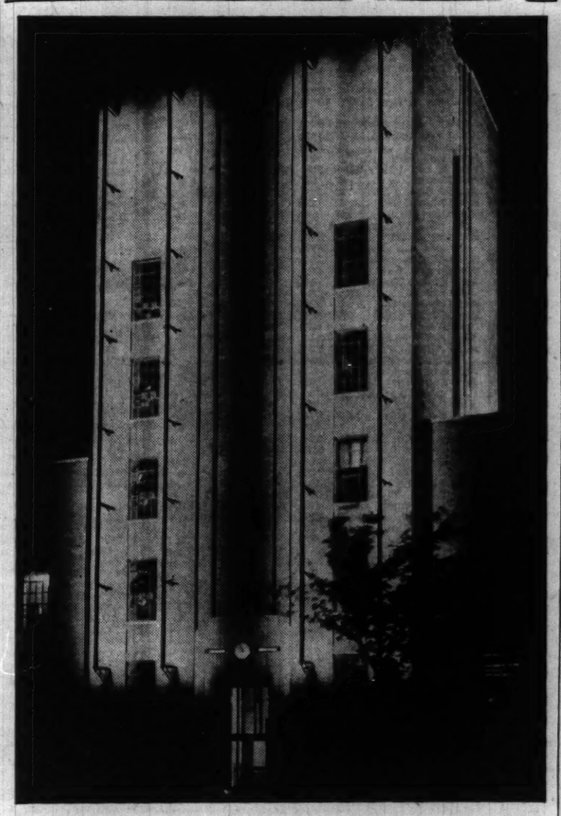
Domestic consumption of iron and steel scrap jumped to 3,482,000 gross tons in June, an increase of 14 per cent from 3,061,000 tons in May, the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel reported. The June tonnage compared with 2,221,000 in June of last year.

In the first half of the year domestic use expanded to 18,212,000 tons from 13,214,000 in the corresponding 1939 period. Exports thus far in the year have averaged 230,467 tons monthly, against an average of 295,965 tons in 1939, the institute said.

Republic Aircraft Share Exchange Basis Proposed

New York, July 19 [Special].—Aviation corporation announced today that it has arranged to purchase the assets and business of Republic Aircraft Products corporation on the basis of 1¾ shares of Aviation corporation stock for each share of Republic, subject to the approval of directors and stockholders of Republic. If the purchase is consummated, the acquired business will be carried on under the same management as a division of Aviation Manufacturing corporation, an Aviation corporation subsidiary.

Solve Flood Lighting Problem



The Commonwealth Edison company solved the problem of flood lighting the front of its northern service building at 3500 North California avenue by installing vertical reflector troughs or tracks, mounted three feet from the wall, as shown in the above picture. The fluorescent tubes in these tracks are raised into position by hand winches and are lowered by the same means for lamp replacement, cleaning, and general service. The problem of lighting the exterior of a building which has no setbacks, niches, or ledges to hold light projectors, has for years challenged the ingenuity of lighting engineers.

Two Concerns Plan Chicago Toluol Plants

War department preparations to obtain large supplies of toluol, used in the production of TNT, from low-grade gasolines by new synthetic processes have accelerated the plans of two corporations to construct synthetic toluol plants in the Chicago area, it was learned yesterday.

Commercial production of synthetic toluol has awaited the emergence of a sufficiently large military demand to warrant the heavy capital investment in new plant and equipment.

Used Also as a Solvent.

The supply of natural toluol produced as a by-product from the steel industry's coking plants is adequate only to meet normal industrial needs for toluol as a solvent.

The blue print stage of the Chicago area projects has been passed, it was indicated. Plans moved forward as a result of the announcement Thursday by Edward R. Stettinius Jr., in charge of materials for the defense commission, that bids from contractors prepared to produce synthetic toluol within 12 months would be received at a central office in Wilmington, Del.

Identities Kept Secret.

A large plant for the manufacture of synthetic toluol, with an annual capacity of one million pounds of toluol and related gasoline derivatives, has been projected by a leading chemical company. A smaller plant has been contemplated by a major oil company.

The identities of the companies have not been revealed because of the competitive bidding for the government contracts.

Nash Sales in 1st 10 Days of July Top June and 1939

Detroit, Mich., July 19 (AP).—Nash Motors reported today that its retail sales during the first 10 days of July numbered 1,685 units, compared with 1,397 in the like period of June and with 1,225 for the first 10 days of July a year ago.

CORPORATE SECURITY SALES AGAIN EXCEED 100 MILLION LEVEL

New York, July 19 (AP).—The machinery for distribution of new security issues continued to function smoothly in the week ended yesterday. Public offerings totaled $117,870,000, Poor's Publishing company reported today. It was the second successive week that new offerings have exceeded 100 million dollars.

It was an active week for corporate financing, but only 18 per cent of the total represented a demand for new money. The remainder of the issues were for the purpose of refunding existing obligations. Offerings of public utility securities reached their highest level of the year to date.

Comparison of the week's financing follows:

	This week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.

W. R. JOHNSON GIVEN HARRIS' TREASURY POST

Washington, D. C., July 19 [Special].—Another public career man was elevated to high office in the treasury today with the announcement by Secretary Henry Morgenthau of the appointment of W. R. Johnson as commissioner of customs to succeed Basil Harris, who resigned to return to the United States Lines as executive vice president.

Only a few months ago, Daniel W. Bell, another man who has devoted practically all of his life to serving the government in civil posts, was appointed under-secretary of treasury.

Johnson, who has been chief counsel of the bureau of customs since the fall of 1936, entered the government service 20 years ago as a clerk in the New York customs house. He served in the medical corps during the world war.

'FREE' STERLING DRAWS NEARER OFFICIAL RATE

The New York foreign exchange market's two prices for the British pound drew closer together yesterday as the "free" pound, destined soon to vanish, jumped 10 cents to within 11 cents of the official bank rate of $4.02-$4.04.

Dealings in both units were almost at a standstill, dealers reported, as traders tried to fathom some of the intricacies of latest British exchange restrictions.

The "free" pound closed at $3.91. The Canadian dollar continued its recent upward trend with a gain of ⅝ cent to close at 88⅝ United States cents. The Swiss franc held unchanged at 22.70 cents.

NEW CAR OUTPUT DIPS AGAIN, BUT SALES STAY HIGH

Detroit, Mich., July 19 (AP).—Additional shut-downs for model changeovers reduced motor vehicle output this week to 53,020 units, Ward's automotive reports said today. Assemblies last week numbered 65,176. This week a year ago production totaled 53,128 cars and trucks.

Noting a "distinctly contra-seasonal" sales trend, Ward's said that retail volume for July may prove better than that of June, and added that as a result field stocks are being rapidly reduced.

3,000 BOX CARS ORDERED BY I. C. FOR $9,375,000

Purchase Is Largest in 25 Years.

The Illinois Central has placed orders for 3,000 box cars to cost $9,375,000, J. L. Beven, president, announced yesterday. This is the largest order for box cars to be placed by the railroad in 25 years, and it was one of the strongest indications of expanding industrial activity to come to light yesterday.

J. L. Beven.

Beven said the purchase is being made in conformity with the preparedness program of the railroads. Delivery of the cars is to be started in the latter part of October, and is scheduled to be completed by the turn of the year.

Orders Widely Spread.

The orders were divided so as to benefit employment in various sections of the Illinois Central territory, Beven said. In the Chicago district the General American Transportation corporation will build 1,000 cars of 50 ton capacity. In the Birmingham, Ala., district the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company will build 1,000 40-ton cars. The American Car and Foundry company will build 500 40-ton cars at St. Louis and the Mount Vernon Car and Manufacturing company will build 500 40-ton cars at Mount Vernon, in southern Illinois.

All of the cars will be steel sheathed and modern in all respects, Beven said. Those to be built at Mount Vernon are being designed especially for the shipment of automobiles.

Financed by Certificates.

The new cars will be financed thru the issuance of equipment trust certificates. Beven said that, including the present order, the Illinois Central in the last four years will have added 11,662 cars to its freight car supply.

Among the other signs of increasing industrial activity was a disclosure by the war department in Washington that it has awarded to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. a 20 million dollar contract for smokeless powder. The powder is to be produced at the plant to be built in Charleston, Ind., in the Louisville, Ky., district.

The cost of the plant, it is reported, will be about 30 million dollars. The war department and the du Pont company signed a contract two days ago for its construction.

Construction of other powder plants is expected. The army's ultimate objective is believed to be a production of 1,000,000,000 pounds a year, sufficient for a war effort, as compared with 25,000,000 pounds at present.

Another Plant to Be Built.

A large explosives making plant is to be erected "somewhere in Ontario" for the production of high explosives for the British government, it was reported in New York. Construction is to cost $11,000,000. The Chemical Construction company of New York, a division of the American Cyanamid company, has the construction contract, which is being financed by the British government. It was said that the plant would be operated by North American Cyanamid, Ltd., also a division of American Cyanamid.

Among orders released yesterday by the war department were $1,409,450 to Goodrich Rubber company; $1,241,610 to Sperry Gyroscope company for fire control instruments; two contracts totaling $215,334 to Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company for trucks, $132,000 to R. Hoe & Co. for antiaircraft gun recoil systems, and $237,480 to Stewart-Warner corporation for field ranges.

Cessna Gets Plane Contract.

The war department signed its first contract for bimotored training planes—an undisclosed number of AT-8 planes with two 280 horse power engines each. The contract went to the Cessna Aircraft company of Wichita, Kas., for $900,378, with the delivery date not disclosed.

The planes will be used by advanced students in transition from light ships to twin engine service airplanes.

The following construction contracts were announced by the departments: J. H. Marchbanks Construction company, Chicago, engineering shop expansion and utilities at Patterson field, O., $336,370; Simpson Construction company, Chicago, addition to laboratory building, Wright field, O., $168,000; Kramp Construction company, Milwaukee, paved aprons and drainage at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., $272,377.

Barracks Contract Let.

The navy department let a $309,865 contract for emergency barracks and subsistence facilities at the naval training station at San Diego, Cal., to I. C. Curry of San Diego.

A contract has been let to J. A. Terteling & Sons of Boise, Idaho, for the relocation of two branch lines of the Great Northern railroad in Washington, made necessary by the Grand Coulee dam construction.

Report Mexican Pipe Line Plan Raises American Opposition

MEXICO CITY, July 19 (AP).—Mexico was reported today to have virtually completed negotiations for construction of an oil pipeline to facilitate sale of petroleum to Japan, but the deal was said to be bogging on the objection of the United States state department to participation by a New York construction firm.

The pipeline would run across the isthmus of Tehuantepec from Puerto Mexico on the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific port of Salinas Cruz. It would carry 40,000 barrels of oil daily from the gulf fields, for sale principally to Japan but also for a Mexican drive to open up markets on South America's west coast. This would put Mexico in direct competition with California oil wells.

Japs Promise "Huge" Order.

Representatives of Japan's powerful Mitsui financial interests are reported to have assured Mexico of a "huge" contract under which millions of tons of petroleum would be purchased for the empire's military needs, to be signed after completion of the pipeline. Japan now is dependent largely upon California wells.

The Raymond Concrete Pile company of New York is reported to have agreed to run the pipeline across the rugged mountains of the 150-mile wide isthmus for $6,500,000, taking about a year for the job.

The Mexican government is said to have agreed to pay $1,400,000 in cash and the remainder in scrap iron and petroleum.

[In New York an official of Raymond Concrete Pipe company denied the company had entered into an agreement with the Mexican government, or agents of the government, for construction of the pipe line. The company learned of the plan for a pipe line thru private interests in Mexico City, the official said, but has taken no steps to get the job.]

Hitch Is Indicated.

However, Washington's attitude appeared to present a definite hitch in the plan. The state department is said to frown on participation of the American company because of the present unstable character of Japanese-American relations. For this reason informed quarters are uncertain whether the contract eventually will be signed.

For years Mexico has discussed creation of a Pacific coast oil outlet to eliminate the long and expensive haul from her gulf ports thru the Panama canal. This haul has prevented Mexico from competing with California wells in the orient and in western South America.

CITIES TO SHARE $1,207,568 JUNE MOTOR FUEL TAX

Illinois municipalities will receive $1,207,568 as their net share of the June motor fuel tax collections, the state finance department said yesterday. Chicago will receive $644,869 of the total, of which $239,101 will be for school purposes and $405,768 for highway uses.

The gross allotment for the state was $1,287,933, but a deduction of $80,364 was made as reserve for the $30,000,000 relief bond issue. Allotments to the cities and towns, with the exception of Chicago, are exclusively for highway purposes under state law.

Peoria led the downstate cities with a share of $21,058, Rockford was second with $15,903, Springfield third with $14,529, and East St. Louis fourth with $13,718.

Indicate United States Oil May Go to Hitler Thru Spain

Washington, D. C., July 19 [Special].—The possibility that oil sent by American companies to Spain may seep thru to feed Germany's war machine was discussed today in diplomatic circles here. Gasoline and oil has been going to Spain from Texas, Venezuela and Colombia, it was said.

Figures at the department of commerce show that in the first seven months of the war, from September thru April, American motor gasoline totaling 1,350,604 barrels was sent to Spain. In addition, 668,393 barrels of gas-oil and 395,860 barrels of lubricating oils were shipped.

Exports Exceed Year Ago.

These amounts are greatly in excess of shipments for the comparable period of 1938-'39.

Also, according to official figures, 113,034 barrels of crude oil were dispatched during last December from Colombia, where American interests control many of the fields, to Tenerife, in the Spanish Canary Islands. In January, 114,813 barrels were sent, in February, 108,344, and in March, 73,270 barrels. Later figures are not available.

A large volume of Venezuelan oil is refined in the Dutch Isle of Aruba, and how much oil has been sent from there to Spain or Tenerife is not known.

While there has been speculation on how much oil Russia would send the reich, diplomatic quarters here assert that, altho complete figures are not available, there is reason to believe that far more oil has been reaching Germany from the Americas since the war started than Germany has obtained from Russia.

Much Went to Italy.

Much of this oil, it was said, went to Italy directly and indirectly from the United States and American owned fields in Latin America before Italy entered the war. Italy is estimated to hve 21,000,00 barrels of oil on hand. Relatively large quantities are believed to have passed thru Italy to Germany.

Now that the British fleet has closed the Mediterranean to Italian imports, it is believed possible that Spain, which has been obtaining sufficient quantities of gasoline and oil so that it now has an estimated 5,600,000 barrels in stock, and is buying more, may supply Hitler.

Many American oil concerns own tankers flying foreign flags. These are not banned from visiting Spain under the neutrality act as are American flagships.

3 YEAR TOBACCO CONTROL WILL BE VOTED ON TODAY

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP).—Approximately 250,000 bright leaf tobacco growers in six southern states will vote tomorrow on whether they want marketing quotas for a three-year period from 1941 to 1943.

The referendum, in which growers of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama will participate, will give farmers alternative choices of a one-year program for 1941 or none at all.

Congress authorized the referendum on the three-year program earlier in the summer after the war had shut down European markets for the leaf.

Bumper Cantaloupe Crop Ready Along the Wabash

Princeton, Ind., July 19 [Special].—After 17 years of average melon crops, cantaloupe growers along the Wabash and White rivers have reported a bumper crop of finest quality. "This is the best year since the record season of 1923," growers of Decker, Ind., reported. Ideal weather has prevailed. Growers said the harvest will be in full swing next week in all the melon growing centers of Knox, Gibson, and Posey counties. Cantaloupes shipped in former times to eastern markets by carload lots now are trucked to Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, and Philadelphia markets.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, July 19 (AP).—An irregularly lower stock market today followed Hitler's new threats against England. Prices moved fractionally in either direction most of the day and indefinite trends continued until just before the close, when declines running to a point or more appeared for scattered issues.

Trading virtually came to a full stop during the Fuehrer's lengthy address to the reichstag in which he warned England "a world empire would be destroyed" unless the British listen to "reason" and make peace.

Brokers said the acceptance of renomination by President Roosevelt and the choice of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace for second place on the ticket were without visible effect on share prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 41.4. A month ago the composite stood at 41.1. Transfers totaled 255,520 shares, compared with yesterday's 22 year low volume of 221,640.

Finishing lower were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, North American, Kennecott, Westinghouse, du Pont, Loft, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Great Northern.

Holding modest advances were Montgomery Ward, Willys Overland common and preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Eastman Kodak, and J. C. Penney.

Merchandising stocks were aided by reports of further improvement in year to year retail spending. Lessening of new steel orders impeded shares in this group. Motors also had to contend with another recession in this week's automotive output. Coppers were narrow despite a cut in the scrap metal and shakiness of the spot price structure. Lack of weakness in most categories was attributed to sustained hopes for business when rearmament purchases begin to spread.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 19 (AP).—A strong upswing developed in the foreign section of the bond market today as Hitler delivered his latest "peace" ultimatum to Great Britain.

Obligations of the British empire were spirited leaders of the upturn. In contrast with recent weak and erratic action, Brisbane 5s pushed up 5 points, New South Wales 5s of '57 and '58, up 3½ each, Australia 4½s up 2⅞ and Canada 4s up 2⅛.

The advance also embraced bonds of Belgium, Germany, and several South American nations. Italian and Japanese issues were mixed.

Only a few corporate obligations showed anything approaching activity but the tone was steady.

Dealings in United States government loans were small. Losses running to 10-32ds of a point predominated.

Transactions totaled $4,536,000 face value against $4,219,500 Thursday.

Chicago Stocks.

Declines predominated on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as volume shrank to 10,000 shares. Of the 61 issues traded, 14 advanced, 25 declined, and 22 closed unchanged. United States Steel sold off 1¼ points at 50¼. Midland United preferred, which had established four 1940 highs in six days, dropped ¼ point to 5¼.

Bank Stocks.

Stocks of Chicago banks closed irregular in over-the-counter trading yesterday. Chicago Title lost ½ point and Continental 1 point while Harris stock advanced 2 points. Other leading issues were unchanged.

U. S. FINANCING BY TAX EXEMPT ISSUES LASHED

Hurts Insurance Firms, Says Parkinson.

Criticism of the United States treasury for its continued policy of issuing short term obligations with tax exemptions was expressed yesterday by Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, after the semi-annual meeting of the board of directors.

Thomas I. Parkinson.

Asserting that the investment of increasing funds of policyholders remains the most difficult problem faced by insurance companies, Parkinson reported a scarcity of corporate obligations of the quality required for insurance company investment. The yield from high grade securities continues unreasonably low, he said.

Treasury Persists in Policy.

"The treasury persists in its policy of issuing short term obligations with tax exemptions which result in low yields unsuited to our investment requirements," Parkinson declared.

"Notwithstanding the general criticism of tax exemption, the treasury refinanced its maturity of June 15 with wholly tax exempt notes, and its offering of a few days ago of bonds for new money was tax exempt as to the normal tax, which for banks and other corporations means complete exemption from taxation.

"The huge mass of maturities which will be wheeling in front of the treasury with relentless regularity for years ahead will one day constitute a problem of major proportions for some secretary of the treasury to solve."

7 Billions in Force.

Equitable as of June 30 had life insurance in force of $7,027,000,000, an increase during the half year of $91,000,000, Parkinson reported. Of the total in force group life insurance represented $2,271,000,000.

The society's admitted assets as of June 30 were $2,473,000,000, a gain during the six months of $70,800,000. Total contingency reserves and surplus, including provision for dividends for the rest of 1940, amounted to $126,000,000.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL TO SET UP 40 MILLION SHIP INSURANCE FUND

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP).—President Roosevelt put the government in the marine war-risk insurance business today when he signed a bill appropriating $40,000,000 for a revolving fund to be administered by the Maritime commission for that purpose.

Under the act authorizing the system, which the President already had signed, the commissi n was empowered to insure American ships and their cargoes at any time private insurance facilities prove inadequate and to reinsure policies written by private companies.

Because a large part of the marine insurance written in the United States is reinsured in London, fear has been expressed that protection for American vessels and cargoes might be curtailed if the London insurance market were disrupted by the war. Proponents of the new law said the federal government alone would be able to assume the resultant burden in this country.

GREYHOUND DEAL FOR TORONTO BUS FIRM APPROVED

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized Greyhound corporation of Chicago to acquire direct control of Toronto Greyhound Lines, Ltd., by purchase of capital stock.

The commission approved an agreement under which Greyhound will purchase for $100,000 from Canadian Greyhound Lines, Ltd., the capital stock of Toronto Greyhound. As an integral part of the transaction, Canadian will transfer to Toronto Greyhound its operating rights between London and Port Huron.

Toronto and Canadian are both Canadian corporations. Toronto is controled by Canadian thru ownership of its entire capital stock. Canadian, in turn, is a wholly owned subsidiary of Central Greyhound Lines, Inc., whose voting stock is owned 55 per cent by the Greyhound corporation and 45 per cent by the New York Central railroad.

The I. C. C. said Toronto Greyhound was in need of additional funds for working capital and for purchase of buses and equipment.

ARMY WILL TEST SMALL CROSLEY ECONOMY AUTO

Cincinnati, O., July 19 (AP).—A small automobile which its builder claims can carry four soldiers with full field equipment at 50 miles an hour on 1 gallon of gasoline was made ready here today for demonstration to army officials.

Powel Crosley Jr., designer and head of Crosley corporation, said the vehicle already had been shown to army officials at Camp Holabird, Md.

DROUTH THREAT FORCES GRAIN PRICES UPWARD

Profit Taking Checks Market's Rise.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices per bushel on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade:

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Yr. Ago.
Wheat	$ .74⅛	$ .74	$ .64⅝
Corn	.50⅛	.50⅛	.40¼
Oats	.28⅜	.28⅛	.26
Rye	.44⅝	.43¼	.41¼
Soy beans	.74⅛	.74	.68⅝

Dry and hot weather over the spring wheat and corn belt states started the grain markets upward yesterday, with corn in the lead.

Corn prices advanced 1½ to 2¼ cents over Thursday's finish before profit-taking checked the rise. July corn sold at 63½ cents, the highest price in over a month. Inability of short sellers to cover was reported in the Kansas City market, where the July contract soared 3¾ cents to 70½ cents a bushel. Corn futures in Chicago closed with gains of ½ to 2 cents, the latter on December.

Wheat Market Higher

Fears that serious damage had been done by two successive days of temperatures above 100 degrees in parts of South Dakota and a forecast for continued warm weather in the northwest brought an advance of about 1½ cents in wheat futures. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅝ to ⅞ cent higher. Minneapolis finished at gains of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents. Prices of oats, rye and soy beans were moderately higher.

Rain is needed over most of the corn-growing area west of the Missouri river and crop experts predict rapid deterioration.

July and August are the critical months in the development of the corn crop, grain men said, and lack of subsoil mixture over a large area, including Illinois and Iowa, holds out a threat that severe damage might occur, unless weather conditions are unusually favorable.

Argentine Corn in Boston

The rapid upturn in cash corn prices has brought the market to a level where the threat of imports of grain from Argentina to relieve what brokers say is a government-created scarcity has become more than a threat. Argentine corn was reported yesterday to have been offered, duty and landing charges paid, at equal to 76 cents a bushel in Boston.

Reports to Fenner & Beane indicated that Argentine corn could be delivered at New England points from Boston at 80 to 85½ cents a bushel. American No. 2 yellow was offered in the same territory yesterday at about 81 cents. It is claimed that there is a section in northern New England where Argentine corn can be imported from Canada at a lower price than American corn can be purchased.

ACME PAPER BOX FIRM PURCHASES OLD TODD PLANT

Acme Paper Box Co., Inc., now at 2427 West 14th street, yesterday bought the former plant of the Todd company of Rochester, N. Y., at the northwest corner of State and 60th streets, for a reported $75,000. Ronald J. Chinnock of Farr & Co. represented the seller and William Kaplan was broker for the buyer.

Acme will spend $25,000 modernizing the one and two story factory, and will install an air conditioned press room. The company, which now employs 250 persons, will enlarge its manufacturing facilities and increase its personnel to 300, officials said.

The Todd company, maker of check protectors, built the plant, containing 62,670 square feet of floor space, in 1922. In 1933 the company moved to Rochester. Acme also bought 25,000 square feet of vacant adjoining land for future expansion.

Hot Weather Influences Rise in Butter Futures

Hot weather and a firmer tone in the wholesale markets helped boost prices of November butter futures 0.30 cent a pound on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. The closing quotation of 27.15 cents was near the high of the day. Egg futures prices rose 1-5 to ¼ cent a dozen.

BUSINESS BOOKS

"Government and Economic Life," by Leverett S. Lyon, Victor Abramson and associates. Volume II. [Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C. $3.50.]

This book, with the first volume published last year, is an exhaustive study and interpretation of American public policy in relation to the nation's economic life. The development of this policy, trends and current issues are traced and discussed in view of the influence and conditioning of the government's activities and prevalent economic forces.

The first volume dealt with such general subjects as modification of antitrust laws, the determination of "fair competition," tendencies toward federal monetary management, and labor action. The second continues more specifically with government ownership of public utilities and railroad regulation, price fixing, oil conservation, public relief, social security, government competition with private business, and tariff.

Particularly timely is the study of plans to overcome the difficulties of organizing the national economy experienced during the world war in the event the country should become involved again. "Lessons" to be learned from the NRA is another.

Lyon, formerly executive vice president of the Brookings institution, is chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce. His collaborators are specialists in a number of different fields.

People and Events

Gilbert W. Kahn.

Gilbert W. Kahn, partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., yesterday was elected a director and member of the executive committee of the Union Asbestos and Rubber company, Chicago. He is the son of the late Otto H. Kahn. The Union Asbestos and Rubber company manufactures asbestos products for the railroad, marine and automotive trade, and thru its equipment specialties division, manufactures specialties for refrigerator and freight cars located at Cicero and Blue Island.

The Jewel Tea Company, Inc., will hold its annual all-company picnic at Jewel Park, the company's headquarters, in Barrington, Ill., tomorrow. About 2,200 guests are expected to attend and help eat 1,200 chickens to be fried for the occasion.

About 400 employés of the Illinois branches of the General Finance corporation will have a picnic tomorrow at Old Timers grove in Niles Center. Arthur Bielefeldt is chairman, and Miss Irene R. Mielmann has charge of the games.

J. G. Jason, metropolitan sales manager of Montgomery Ward & Co. catalog order department, will entertain 250 of his employés tomorrow at Crystal Vista at the west end of Crystal lake. Miss Sally Bergen, director of social activities, has charge.

Peter G. Farrow, partner in Farrow & Farrow, and Robert S. Kelling of the same firm; Wilson Arthur Gibson of Straus Brothers; Hale Arthur Thompson, partner in Penny, Jackson & Co., and Arthur J. Goldberg, all of Chicago, have been elected to membership in the American Institute of Accountants. James J. Brophy of Price, Waterhouse & Co., and Carl B. O'Connor of Brummel, Laird & Co., have been elected associate members.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Chicago, has been awarded a trophy as a winner in a gas refrigeration sales drive sponsored by the American Gas Association refrigeration committee.

MERGER OF PAINT FIRMS UNITES 2 OLD ENTERPRISES

American Asphalt Paint company, Chicago, and its subsidiary, the Marietta Paint and Color company, Marietta, O., have consolidated and are now operating as one corporation under the name American-Marietta company, Grover M. Hermann, president of the new company, announced yesterday.

Hermann founded the American Asphalt Paint company 27 years ago for the production of heavy duty industrial maintenance paints. George A. LaValle, a director of the new company, founded the Marietta firm in 1897. The merger involved plants at Kankakee, Ill., Marietta, O., High Point, N. C., and Lincoln, N. J.

Combined sales of the two companies for the seven months ended June 30 showed a gain of 19 per cent over the corresponding period last year, Hermann said. This increase in sales, he said, has made necessary the doubling of the Kankakee plant's capacity and expansion of production facilities at Marietta.

Decline in 1940-'41 Hog Slaughter Is Predicted

Washington, D. C., July 19 (AP)—The department of agriculture today estimated that the supply of hogs for slaughter in the 1940-41 marketing season would be about 10 per cent smaller than the 48,000,000 head slaughtered this year. The department attributed this to a smaller 1940 spring pig crop. It said also that slaughter supplies of cattle probably would be smaller than in the current year, but that the supply of sheep and lambs would be moderately larger.

STANDARD GAS FILES PLAN FOR SAN DIEGO UNIT

Discloses Method to Give Up Control.

Washington, D. C., July 19 [Special].—Standard Gas and Electric Company today filed with the Securities and Exchange commission a report of how it proposes to divest itself of control of San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company as part of the simplification and integration of its holding company system under the utility holding act.

The information was contained in an amendment to its application for authority to consummate the proposed transactions. It omitted reference to divestment of the California Oregon Power company, but it is understood here this will be outlined in a separate proceeding.

Propose Share Exchange.

It is proposed that a holder of notes or debentures of Standard will be entitled to exchange each $1,000 principal amount for 56 shares of common stock of San Diego Consolidated, after each share of $100 par common stock of that company has been reclassified into 10 shares of $10 par each.

Standard owns 99,387 shares of $100 par common stock of San Diego, constituting 99 per cent of the outstanding common shares.

Under the provisions of the plan, the exchange will not become effective until holders of at least $14,833,000 principal amount of Standard's notes and debentures have accepted the offer.

Would Cut Debt 25 Per Cent.

If all the stock is taken under the exchange offer by holders of the notes and debentures, Standard will have retired $17,747,500 principal amount, or about 25 per cent of its funded debt.

The amended application states: "Upon the final consummation of the plan, San Diego will no longer be a subsidiary of Standard under the public utility holding company act of 1935 and thus a material step in the integration of the system of Standard in compliance with the provisions of Section 11 B] [1] of that act will have been accomplished. The funded and fixed charges of Standard will be materially reduced, thereby improving its financial structure."

In its answer to the "death sentence" proceeding, Standard stated that it wished to confine its operations to the Minnesota-Wisconsin properties and the subsidiaries operating in Pittsburgh, Pa.

CANADIAN PAPER EXPORTS RISE AS A RESULT OF WAR

OTTAWA, July 19 (AP).—Canada's newsprint and wood pulp exports have increased, a trade department official said today, due to the war blockade of the previously competing Scandinavian trade.

June exports of newsprint totaled 6,413,000 hundredweight — valued at $15,168,000 — third highest monthly figure in the industry's history—compared with 4,893,000 hundredweight valued at $10,680,000 in June, 1939. The expansion was attributed largely to trade with the United States, which alone took 5,067,800 hundredweight.

During the six months ended June 30, newsprint exports totaled 30,103,000 hundredweight worth $68,560,000, compared with 24,302,000 hundredweight worth $56,526,000 during the similar period of 1939.

Wood pulp exports in June totaled 2,119,000 hundredweight valued at $5,786,000, compared with 849,000 hundredweight valued at $1,925,000 in June, 1939.

Abandoned Steel Works Sold to Duquesne Corp.

Greensburg, Pa., July 19 (AP).—Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation has sold its abandoned hot-mill plant at Monessen, Pa., to the Duquesne corporation, affiliate of the Pittsburgh Steel company, recording of the deed disclosed today.

Boeing Pay Roll Passes Million Dollars a Month

Seattle, Wash., July 19 (AP).—The Boeing Aircraft company announced its payroll today set a new record by passing the million-dollars-a-month mark. Its three plants had from 7,000 to 8,200 men and women at work last month—double the number employed a year ago. Several thousand will be added as the firm reaches its production peak, it added.
